Grazing Lowers Capital Investment, Improves Herd Health

JAYNE SEBRIGHT
Lancaster Farming Staff

Editor's Note: This is the third article in a special June Dairy Month series on "Dairy Profit Possibilities."

HANOVER (York Co.) — Cow health and a low capital investment are the two reasons why Jeff Wolfe decided to graze his dairy herd.

"I have higher profit returns because I have lower feed costs," said Wolfe. "Last year my purchased feed costs averaged $6.12 per hundredweight even with the drought."

Jeff and his wife Sandy milk 63 cows and raise about 50 head of replacements on 90 acres of pasture ground in Hanover. Their herd is a mix of Jerseys, Brown Swiss, Ayrshire, and crossbred Holsteins.

"Holsteins are difficult to keep on pasture," said Wolfe. "You would have to supplement with a total mixed ration because a Holstein eats a lot and

Facility Siting: Building Long-Term Relationships That Work

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — Animal confinement housing siting involves more than selecting a space.

According to Al Wenger, "Siting has to include an obviously early and very thorough evaluation of the current land use, the neighbors, of the kind of people that are already there, the kind of farmer that was farming it before, the type of township it's in, the kind of regulations it already has, the way they treated other development, and the direction you can see that township is going as far as development."

Importantly, said Wenger of Wenger Feeds, Rheems, before moving any ground, "talk to nearby neighbors personally and early," he told about three dozen poultry producers and agri-industry representatives Monday afternoon.

Wenger spoke during the Penn State-sponsored Poultry Management and Health Seminar at Kreider's Restaurant in Manheim.

Being "proactive" rather than "reactive" can save hassles — time, money, and the reputation of a business and an industry.

"You end up winning battle and losing wars," he said, if you blatantly ignore opposition and if you treat the "guardians," those landowners that will react intelligently to your plans, with indifference.

Location is a problem everywhere, Wenger noted. "Just up the street, they're looking to put a cemetery in, in Manheim Township," he said. "It's being objected to because it's too 'creepy.'

"This isn't just us, it's everybody," Wenger said. That includes churches, parking lots, car washes, "you name it," he said. "And of course, confined animal feeding operations, imagine that."

Practical Research Part Of PDA Budget

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Editor

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) - A rehearsal of the accomplishments to date of the agricultural research projects funded by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture was part of the Agriculture Research Symposium held last week in the Capitol East Wing. Hosted by Samuel Hayes Jr., Pennsylvania ag secretary, the reports covered such subjects as dairy quality assurance, mastitis, agricultural odors, international markets, E.coli, salmonella, and aquaculture. "We need original research," Hayes said. "But of utmost importance is practical applied research that helps farmers do their job today. The common denominator is PDA with research that affects agriculture's profitability in a positive manner.

"We have a great domestic market place and we have the responsibility to feed, clothe, and shelter the people of America. But we also have products available on the international markets. And we must position ourselves in this global arena."

To do this, research is done in foreign countries with political, cultural, demographic and infrastructure analysis. One major benchmark of a good possible foreign market for Pennsylvania products relates to the consumption of electricity. In addition, the country is investigated not only for ability to pay but also the willingness to pay.

In other research projects, it was found that Pennsylvania ranks very high in loss of milk production from high somatic cell counts. One study shows we loose $73 per cow from this reduced milk production. This equates to $1.3 billion lost profits in the industry. High SCC problems are the number one deterrent to profitability in our country. The research projects are looking at antibacterial proteins produced from bovine immune cells to form a natural deterrent to high SCC. While eliminating many of the problem bacteria, there are no undesirable chemical residues. This Sunday is Father's Day, a day to celebrate with family and thank your dad for the impact he's had on your life. It's a reminder that fathering is a year-round responsibility, and one that Chet Hughes, Lancaster County extension agent, takes seriously. Eastern Region Frozen Eggs

ATLANTA, GA.

EASTERN REGION FROZEN EGGS, JUNE 09, 2000. FEDERAL-STATE

Majority prices on trucklot trading were unchanged on whites, and usually unchanged to higher on other items when compared to last week's values. Offerings were adequate on whites. However, yolks and whole product were reported as in close balance to adequate for requirements. The undertone improved and was steady on whites, and full steady on balance. Liquid and frozen eggs (ingredients included) processed under federal inspection in the Eastern region for the week ending June 03, 2000 were 33 % more than last week, and 44 % more than a year ago.

Northeast Broiler/ Fryer Parts — Part I

ATLANTA, GA.

NORTHEAST BROILER/FRYER PARTS - PART I FEDERAL-STATE

Trucklot buying activity was light and moving product continued to be a struggle for most dealers. Offerings of breast items, especially bone-in breasts, were in a better balance but continued to exceed current needs. All other items were at least sufficient. Movement into retail and distributive channels was slow to fair with few expectations of improvement noted. The market tone was cautiously steady.

DELMARVA BROILER/FRYER MARKET. FEDERAL-STATE

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was mostly light and unaggressive. Seller offerings were more than sufficient for current inquiry. Live supplies were at least moderate; weights were in a full range of light to heavy, mostly desirable to heavy. Processing schedules were moderately heavy. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 56 to 68 cents. Trade sentiment was about steady. In the parts complex, wings were about adequate and clearing . All other items were fully sufficient for the generally light demand.

Daily National Grain Market Summary

St. Joseph, MO

Wed June 14, 2000

USDA-MO Dept Ag Market News

Daily National Grain Market Summary

Heavy rain showers moved across the Midwest overnight and relieved more drought fears. Light export sales of wheat and corn were reported, limiting losses. Soybean bids were higher, despite the beneficial rainfall overnight. Wheat 2 to 4 cents lower. Corn 2 to 5 cents lower. Sorghum 8 cents lower. Soybeans steady to 5 cents higher.

Wheat bids were narrowly mixed, Wednesday, with light profit taking noted. Export sales of wheat to South Korea were light. Pressure also stemmed from lower corn trade and good spring wheat crop condition. Texas reported light test weights in hard red winter wheat.

Corn bids fell moderately lower after overnight rains soaked some of the drier areas of the Corn Belt. Light export demand from Taiwan also weighed on bids.

Soybeans finished slightly higher after trading lower most of the day.

Wet weather conditions in Midwest areas added pressure. The rains were beneficial to new crop soybeans and the Board dropped twelve cents. Elevators continue to have rather substantial minus basis on new crop beans and bids by country elevators is moving down into the lower 4.00 level. Farmers are running another check on LDPs.

Weekly Cattle Summary

Compared to last week: Feeder steers and steer calves 1.00-3.00 higher. Feeder heifers and heifer calves 2.00-4.00 higher. Demand good for all classes. Corn futures closed lower as the so called drought in the midwest never materialized. Feeder buyers were looking to lower cost of gains as well as less feeder numbers going thru the summer months. Quality plain to average. Feeder cattle in medium to fleshy conditions with average to full weigh-ups. Slaughter cows 2.00-2.50 higher. Slaughter bulls 1.00 higher. Packer demand good. Rains finally came to the drought stricken south and farmers are now able to hold some cows for summer grass. Total of 315 cows and bulls sold with 45 percent to packers.

Receipts this week 8,700; last week 11,822; last year 12,950.

Supply consisted of 78 percent yearlings over 600 lbs; 18 percent calves under 600 lbs; 4 percent cows and bulls. Heifers comprised 38 percent of feeder and calf supply.

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

JUNE 19-25, 2000

SUMMER SOLSTICE, JUNE 20.

HOW I SPENT MY SUMMER . . .

In the summer of 1871 in Oxford, Mississippi, the Ku Klux Klan trials were just beginning. In the summer of 1893, Lizzie Borden was found innocent of an ax murder in New Bedford, Massachusetts On June 20, 1921, the town of Circle, Montana, got 11.5 inches of rain, a state record. In Tennessee on June 20, 1924, a baby boy was born and named Chet Atkins, destined to become one of America's great guitar players. In the summer of 1948, Ed Sullivan began hosting the first of the Toast of the Town shows. In Newport, Rhode Island, as the summer of 1969 began, over 150,000 fans flocked to the music festival where Jimi Hendrix was going to be playing Now, how are you going to spend your summer?

One swallow does not make a summer.

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ Cut your thistles before St. John (June 24), and you will have two instead of one. (So, wait until after!)

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

Before St. John's Day (June 24), we pray for rain; after that, we get it anyhow.

SAUSAGE-AND-SHRIMP KEBOBS

8 long wooden skewers
6 to 8 ounces precooked chorizo sausages (or other spicy sausages)
2 pounds large shrimp (about 50), shelled and cleaned
1/2 cup peach or apricot jam
1/4 cup water

Soak skewers in water overnight. Start the barbecue or preheat the broiler. Cut the sausages into chunks, and alternate shrimp and sausage chunks on the skewers. Cook for just a minute or two per side. (If using the broiler, place the skewers on a broiler pan, separated just slightly.) Prepare the dipping sauce by stirring the jam with the ¼ cup water, and heating.

Makes 8 servings.

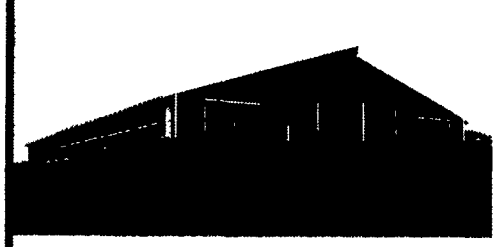
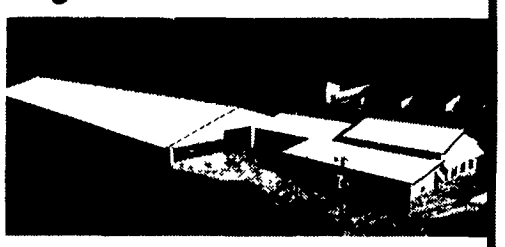
The Building you want.
The Lease you need.





Telmark has been leasing equipment for over 30 years. Did you know that we've been leasing new buildings for that long too? Consider:

- Tax deductibility and accelerated write-offs: Lease payments are income tax deductible over the term of the lease compared to 20-year depreciation of farm buildings and 39-year depreciation of commercial buildings. Could reduce tax liability this year.
- Low upfront costs: As little as one monthly lease payment.
- Flexible lease term: Building lease terms from five to fifteen years.
- Customized payment schedules: Lease payment schedules are specially designed to match your cash flow.

OPINION

EPA: Everywhere Rain Falls

EPA has proposed changes to the Total Maximum Daily Load (TMDL) and NPDES permit program. In these proposed rule changes, certain agricultural activities have been targeted. EPA is attempting to reverse almost 30 years of Clean Water Act history by reclassifying these agricultural activities from a nonpoint classification of discharge to a point source classification of discharge. Historically point sources were limited to industrial sites, which usually contain pipe sources of discharge. Point sources of discharge are required to obtain a prescriptive NPDES permit from the government before operations initiate.

The significance of this change is multifaceted. First, it sets a dangerous precedent. Congress made clear distinctions between nonpoint and point sources of discharge and delegated that they be handled quite differently for obvious reasons. If EPA can now at will redesignate traditional nonpoint sources as point sources, they have sidetracked congressional intent of managing the two quite different entities separately and exposed all nonpoint activities as potential future point sources.

Secondly, point sources of discharge are required to obtain an NPDES permit prior to activity. This means that prior to practicing these activities, landowners will be required to obtain an NPDES permit. It is not clear in the rule whether such a permit will be required for each activity or each entry, undoubtedly that will be settled in the courts.

What does obtaining an NPDES permit mean for a landowner? Permits are expected to cost in the $10,000 range. They will be subject to delays or refusal. They open the landowner up to public comment and public opposition. They expose the landowner to private litigation under the Clean Water Act. Even if the permit is approved, it can be challenged by environmental groups or other private entities. They require landowner evaluation of other federal laws such as the Endangered Species Act.

Obviously, the cost and liabilities incurred through the permit process will be a disincentive to landowners to maintain their lands in a forested or agricultural state. There are other provisions in the rule which allow EPA to regulate nonpoint discharges, which literally give EPA oversight everywhere that rain falls. This allows EPA to dictate local land use issues through water quality laws.

We believe this rule is unnecessary, unreasonable, and unfair. The rule is scheduled for release in late June. Call your legislator on this one.

❖ Farm Forum ❖

Editor,

I used to get your publication, then allowed my subscription to expire, but have been seriously thinking about renewing it, until now.

Your "Opinion" article in the June 3, 2000 issue is the blame. For years, I have shook my head in bewilderment at the hog and poultry farms who adopted the practice of "biosecurity." The reason — I have always felt that farmers were God-fearing people. People who have ultimate trust in what God gives them will not practice anything that is contrary to His teachings.

In my opinion, biosecurity is contrary to scriptural teachings. The Bible is very clear in that when it states in Matthew 6:34:

Now Is The Time

By John Schwartz

Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Scout Fields For Weeds

With most of the corn planted, now is a good time to check your fields for weeds.

According to Robert Anderson, Lancaster County extension agronomy agent, the best time to scout for weeds and evaluate herbicide performance is two to four weeks after planting.

Escape weeds need to be identified while they are small and still controllable by a postapplied herbicide or other method. Usually the sooner a problem is identified and dealt with, the more successful the treatment will be.

If weeds are scattered or the infestation is light, a simple cultivation or a spot treatment with herbicide may be very effective. If an herbicide application is needed, most postemergent materials are most effective when applied to small weeds at the one- to three-leaf stage of development. Early identification and early treatment are critical.

To Use Presidedress Nitrate Test

The presidedress nitrate test (PSNT) for corn is a soil nitrogen test designed to provide assistance in making agronomically and environmentally sound nitrogen recommendations for corn, according to Mark Goodson, capitol region extension agronomist.

This test is especially useful in systems where manure has been applied, because it eliminates some of the uncertainty associated with utilizing manure nitrogen.

To use this test, 12-inch deep soil samples must be taken when the corn is at least 12 inches tall. Samples must be dried immediately and sent to the laboratory.

Samples are analyzed for nitrate nitrogen. Based on this result and information on expected yields and field history, a sidedress nitrogen recommendation is made.

Currently this test is available for corn only. To use this program, purchase a standard soil test kit from your Penn State Cooperative Extension office and request a PSNT information sheet. The results for nitrate nitrogen along with recommendations will be telephoned or faxed to you or a designated individual within 24 hours of receipt by the lab.

To Be Aware Of Heat

The recent hot days reminds us summer is coming.

Most farmers know the importance and how to keep their animals cool during hot weather. But are you aware of the impact of heat on you and your workers?

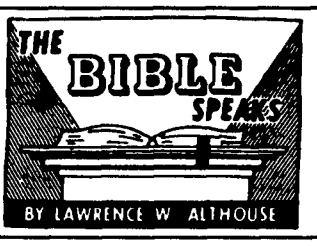
Every summer, hot weather causes hundreds of deaths from heat strokes.

Jeff Stoltzfus, Eastern Lancaster County School District Adult Farmer Program instructor, offers the following commonsense tips that can keep you and your workers healthy and productive in the summer heat.

- Drink plenty of liquids. Water is the coolant for the body. Take frequent breaks for water. Your body gives off salt and electrolytes with sweat. Sport drinks really do work at recharging the body's electrolytes and provide extra energy.
- Try to stay cool. Splashing cold water on the face and arms helps to keep the body cool. Even a few ice cubes under your hat will help.
- Know the symptoms of heat stroke. If your skin begins to feel cold and clammy and you stop sweating, it is time to get a shower and find some shade. Take the rest of the day off.

A little rained-on hay is a small price to pay for your health. If someone faints or passes out, or you do not feel better in a few hours, it is time to get medical help. Remember, heat can kill.

Feather Prof.'s Footnote: "What lies behind us and what lies before us are tiny matters compared to what lies within us."



HALFWAY THROUGH?

Background Scripture:
Philippians 3.
Devotional Reading:
Hebrews 10:19-25, 32-36.

Bennett Cerf tells a story about Tommy Noonan, a young man who picked up "a nice piece of change" mowing lawns for neighbors during the summer vacation. One afternoon his mother, seeing that Tommy seemed to be taking his good old time in getting started, chided him. But Tommy replied, "I'm waiting for them to start themselves. I get most of my work from people who are half through."

Tommy Noonan was an saturate observer of human nature: people will start a lot of things they do not finish. Somewhere between beginning and ending, their enthusiasm and self-discipline wanes and then quits altogether.

This is particularly true in spiritual growth. The churches seem altogether dedicated to nurturing children and youth in growth as Christians. But when these same individuals reach adulthood, there seems to be no additional growth called for. Whereas youth are put through catechism or confirmation classes, adults all too often are not challenged to grow beyond the point they have already attained. These people are only "halfway through" and have no idea that they are expected to continue to grow in Christian discipleship.

Expected To Grow

Jesus, of course, presents a considerably different picture: "You therefore must be perfect as your heavenly Father is perfect" (Mt. 5:48). Maybe that's where some of the problem is: Jesus seems to be setting a standard that is out of reach for us and every one we know. Excluding Jesus, how can any human being attain to that state of perfection?

The problem is that the English word "perfect" is misleading. It implies moral perfection, becoming just like God. But the Greek word means the whole will and being to be turned wholly to God as he is turned to us. So the "perfection" to which we are called is not a destination to be reached so much as the process of getting there.

Jesus is not calling us to be sinless and without and weakness or limitation as God is, but to constantly moving in that direction. This, then, is exactly what Paul is saying to the Philippians and us: "Not that I have already obtained this or am already perfect: but I press on to make it my own . . ."(Phil. 12:3). Here, Paul's word which is rendered in English as "perfect" means literally "full grown." In other words, Paul is saying I have not yet become what Christ wants me to become. What he wants of us is always beyond where we are at any given moment.

As Robert Browning put it so well: "A man's reach should exceed his grasp, Or what's a heaven for?" (Andrea del Sarto). In this Christian life, we must always be extending our reach toward, but not attaining to, perfection.

The Upward Call

Paul never reached perfection and neither will we, but he never stopped growing in the faith: "Brethren, I do not consider that I have made it my own; but one thing I do, forgetting what lies behind and straining forward to what lies ahead, I press on toward the goal for the prize of the upward call of God in Christ Jesus" (3:13,14).

Paul didn't stop when he was halfway through.

Why did Paul feel he had to write these words to the church at Philippi? It appears that there those who complacently believed that human perfection was attainable in this life and, saved by Christ, they were thus "perfect" and nothing further was required of them. They were content to rest on their laurels because they had forgotten that it is only by God's grace that we reach any place on this journey.

Paul makes it clear that the prize is not reaching the goal, but the "upward call" itself. Responding to the "upward call of God in Christ Jesus" is what is in Paul's hands — and ours. Reaching the goal is in God's hands. So, he refused to bide his time when he was halfway through and pressed on.

Want Good Alfalfa? Watch The Soil pH

GAY BROWNLEE
Somerset Co Correspondent

SOMERSET (Somerset Co) — When it comes to his alfalfa, crop farmer Joe Weimer of Somerset said nothing is more critical than maintaining a pH balance of 6 5 to 7

"The main thing is to keep an eye on the pH," Weimer said

Weimer usually sends a test to Penn State or to the University of Virginia On old plantings, he runs a soil sample about every third or fourth year However, with new seedings, it is critical to run a soil sample right away In two or three weeks the results will come back

If the indicators show the soil pH is low lime it

"Usually, good alfalfa would take 1 000 pounds to a ton a year," Weimer said "I have a lime spreader so I spread it myself

Weimer prefers using hydrated lime because it goes to work the same season which is pretty fast Weimer said the lime application will last 4 to 5 years

"I like to get six to seven years out of seed ' Weimer said ' When the alfalfa comes out, I go into two years of corn before I go back into alfalfa "

The rotation works out well and allows some 12 to 20 acres of new alfalfa seedings to go in every year

The fundamental thing about alfalfa is to avoid wet spots, cautioned Weimer Right now, his own acreage has one vulnerable area where a wet spot is troublesome

You won't often see a scene such as this. Joe Weimer holds a plant showing deep root growth—the alfalfa was finally able to locate some moisture during the 1999 drought. By coincidence, a cave-in found near a county road revealed a natural underground water course next to Joe Weimer's alfalfa crop. Photo by Gay Brownlee

Producers Use CLA, Mini-Dairies To Move Milk

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

GRANTVILLE (Dauphin Co) — Milk is the original 'neutraceutical' or nutrient-pharmaceutical that can protect the human body, science has proven

Simply put, milk harbors conjugated linoleic acid (CLA), a fatty acid present in milk that can fight certain types of cancer Milk contains about 4-6 milligrams of CLA per gram of fat (cheese, too)

And pasture scientists are showing that cows fed high amounts of forages, including those from pasture, can increase CLA in milk by 2-3 percent, noted Larry Muller, Penn State dairy scientist, at last month's Pennsylvania Grazing and Forage Conference at the Holiday Inn in Grantville

Muller spoke on a session focusing on value-added dairy markets.

These days, dairy farmers are struggling with volatile prices, increased input costs, decreasing margins, and they receive a smaller percentage of the retail price Beverage consumption, particularly soft drinks, is on the rise

More than ever, farmers must consider the end users of the products And those end users — consumers — are looking for the "pharma" foods that can add to a healthy lifestyle

CLAs are found in unsaturated fat Already dairy science (through a Penn State pilot project) has found that, through management of nutrients to the cow, the proportion of the saturated, or bad fat, can be decreased, and unsaturated fat increased

In the future, CLA amounts could potentially be more carefully controlled The same CLAs have

I have recently been involved with helping to conduct several grazing schools in the Harrisburg area. As I was conducting some classroom discussions on several agronomic topics, it became evident to me that even though several of the subjects were designed for beginning grazers, they were points that many experienced graziers may need to revisit I will address several of those topics in this column

When dealing with agronomic principles of grazing, we need to thunk about the basic unit of production – the tiller or individual plant When we have a population of tillers they are called a sward It is the number and size of tillers in a sward that makes up the total yield of dry matter, either as hay, silage or pasture We need to make sure that we care for these fillers by providing a proper growing environment with all the essential nutrients such as nitrogen phosphorous, and potassium, in a soil with the optimum pH level We also need to provide the tiller with proper management and that basically in

CONTROL IT WITH

ACROBAT®

MZ FUNGICIDE

DIRECTIONS FOR USE IN FIELD GROWN TOBACCO

Application Rates and Timing Chart To Control Blue Mold

Weeks Of Growth After Transplant	Rate Of ACROBAT MZ (Pounds of Product)	Water Output (Gallons/Acre)
Recently Transplanted to 3 weeks after transplanting	0.50	20
3-4 weeks after transplanting (Knee High)	1.0	40
4-5 weeks after transplanting (Waist High)	1.5	60

Note Above directions are for dilute sprays If concentrate sprays are used adjust rate and volumes proportionately e g for mist blowers use a 2X concentrate and 1/2 the spray volume

Begin applications when the Blue Mold Advisory states that conditions favor development of blue mold, and before the onset of disease infection. Continue applications on a 5-7 day spray schedule until weather conditions favoring infection and sporulation decrease. Discontinue sprays when and if the threat of blue mold subsides.

ACROBAT MZ can only be used in a preventative spray program to manage blue mold in tobacco. Total plant coverage is essential to achieve maximum disease control with ACROBAT MZ. ACROBAT MZ must be used in accordance with the label.

Average Farm Feed Costs for Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's last week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania.

Remember, these are averages, so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

Gelbvieh Alliance Continues To Post Strong Numbers

WESTMINSTER, Colo. — The Gelbvieh Alliance has posted strong numbers throughout the spring and early summer months of 2000. As the largest breed-coordinated marketing alliance in the nation, the Gelbvieh Alliance continues to evolve in order to meet the needs to today's beef industry.

During the month of May, the Gelbvieh Alliance boasted numbers that were up 17 percent from May 1999. In May of 2000, the Gelbvieh Alliance processed 7,180 head of cattle compared to 6,129 the previous year.

For the fiscal year, the Gelbvieh Alliance is up eight percent from a year ago at this time. The Gelbvieh Alliance has sold 22,247 head through its two marketing grids with ConAgra. Gelbvieh Alliance offers a conventional (muscling) grid and a marbling grid with ConAgra.

"The two marketing grids offer producers a choice, so they can select the one that will allow their cattle to make the most money possible," says Don Schiefelbein, AGA executive director. "The goal of the Gelbvieh Alliance is to create a fed cattle-pricing system that rewards good cattle and puts more money in the producer's pocket."

Since its inception in 1994, the Gelbvieh Alliance has processed more than 191,000 head of cattle and returned more than $1.57 million in premiums directly to producers of excellent cattle. The average dressed premium awarded through the Gelbvieh Alliance is $8.15 per head.

Contact Sue Ebert or Don Schiefelbein at the American Gelbvieh Association to receive an information packet on the Gelbvieh Alliance or how to market cattle through the Gelbvieh Alliance.

The American Gelbvieh Association serves 2,200 members with innovative registry, research, education, commercial marketing, and communications programs. For more information on the AGA or any AGA program, call (303) 465-2333 or visit the Gelbvieh website at www.gelbvieh.org.

What Flag Is Flying Over Your Dairy?

DAVID SWARTZ
Perry Co. Dairy Agent

NEW BLOOMFIELD (Perry Co.) If you have watched a car race for any length of time, you know that no one is more important to the race than the flagman in the tower. His job is to monitor the track for problems and if a problem develops, he has to fly a different colored flag to let the drivers know that a problem exists ahead.

The driver depends on the flagman to warn him of problems, because he is concentrating so hard on "the windshield view" — the challenges that are directly in front of him.

What view do you have in managing your dairy? Do you have the "long view" of the flagman, or do you operate week after week with the short-sighted "windshield view" of the driver?

The flagman at a race is looking for situations that are very apparent — accidents, breakdowns, etc. As the "flagman" for your dairy, what you need to look for may not be so obvious.

Following are some items that will help you to measure whether the "race" is running well at your dairy. These factors are related directly to your profitability, and can signal some hidden problems with your nutritional program.

Your nutritional consultant should be monitoring these control points with you every month. If they are not doing this, I encourage you to start tracking these indicators.

Peak Milk-
In first lactation Holsteins — should be higher than 85 pounds.

In 2nd lactation and older Holstein — should be higher than 105 pounds.

Persistency-

From the 1st to the 2nd test, the herd should average 110 percent persistency.

Udder Health-
70 percent of your herd should have a weighted SCC score of three or less.

Milk Components-
True Protein % = 82-88%
Milkfat %

Monitoring these factors will help to assure that the green flag continues to fly over your dairy — and that the race for producing quality milk in a profitable manner continues in your business. If you would like to discuss these or other critical profit indicators of your dairy, please feel free to call your county cooperative extension office to talk to a dairy extension agent.

CONGRATULATIONS TO SKULL HILL FARM AND THE ZIMMERMAN FAMILY FOR THEIR COMMITMENT TO AGRICULTURE AND THE PA DAIRY INDUSTRY

First Union National Bank believes "The Family Farm is the Backbone of Agriculture." On behalf of all dairy farmers, we are pleased to salute the success of Skull Hill Farm in Berks County, PA. The Zimmerman family of Berks County, sitting before their newly constructed 390 cow facility, have been in the dairy business beginning with Charles' grandparents nearly 70 years ago. The original farm was passed to Charles' father Larry and his uncle Mark. Charles and Linda purchased the farm from his parents, Larry and Marilyn, in 1987. The Zimmermans currently farm 900 acres and milk 350 cows, three times a day. Charles is responsible for the cow management, Linda is responsible for the accounting; Charles, Jr. does the feeding and field work; Larry does the field work; and Ashley works with the calves and breeding. Along with the family, they have four part-time employees for whom they are thankful.

A SALUTE TO DAIRY FARMERS. EVERY MONTH IS DAIRY MONTH WITH US.

June is National Dairy Month and at First Union Bank we feel you deserve credit more than one month out of the year.

Managing a successful dairy operation requires working capital year round. We're here to help you meet your financial needs.

Dairy is a major agricultural enterprise in Pennsylvania and Maryland and First Union Bank is proud to be a major lending source to agriculture.

Twenty-Four High School Seniors Receive Agricultural Scholarships

NEWARK, Del. — Twenty-four high school seniors have received highly competitive scholarships from the College of Agriculture and Natural Resources at the University of Delaware (UD).

The Agriculture and Natural Resources Scholarship Awards — made possible through an endowment funded by the state of Delaware, agribusinesses, alumni, and individual donors to the university — are given on a competitive basis to incoming first-year students.

To qualify, applicants must be accepted by UD to major in agriculture and natural resources, have demonstrated academic achievement and service, and successfully complete faculty interviews. Scholarships are renewable for up to three additional years.

Russell Arnold II, a senior at Delmar High School in Parsonburg, Md., received a $2,000 Harry Bonk Agricultural Scholarship and a $1,000 Butler Scholarship. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Arnold of Parsonburg, he plans to major in plant biology.

Recipient of a $2,500, Allen Family Agricultural Scholarship is Joseph Beck of Bridgeville, Del., who will be an animal science major. The Seaford Christian High School senior is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Beck of Bridgeville.

A $5,000 George M. Worrilow Scholarship went to Andrew Birmingham of Carlisle, Pa. Birmingham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Birmingham of Carlisle, plans to major in bioresources engineering technology. He is a senior at Boiling Springs High School.

Lauren Boccanfuso of Columbus, N.J., received a $2,000 Harry Hayward Agricultural Scholarship. The Northern Burlington County High School senior plans to major in animal science with a concentration in preveterinary medicine. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Boccanfuso of Columbus.

Tiffany Carro, a senior at W.T. Clarke High School in Westbury, N.Y., received a $1,000 Agricultural Sciences General Scholarship. She plans to major in animal science with a concentration in preveterinary medicine. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Carro, Jr. of Westbury.

Christiana High School senior Jacqueline Clement is the recipient of the $3,000 John Papen Memorial Scholarship and the $1,000 Rahn Memorial Award. Daughter of Nanci and Nathan Clement of Newark, Del., she plans to major in plant biology.

A State of Delaware Carvel Agricultural Scholarship for $5,000 was awarded to Camille Clowery of Yonkers, N.Y. The Maria Regina High School senior and daughter of Joan Clowery of Yonkers, plans to major in animal science with a concentration in preveterinary medicine.

Joanna Derr of Walkersville, Md., received a State of Delaware Carvel Agricultural Scholarship for $2,000 and a department of plant science award for $1,000. She is a senior at Walkersville High School and plans to major in environmental soil science. Her mother is Linda Grossnickle of Walkersville.

A Delaware Association of Nurserymen Scholarship for $1,000 went to Jeremy Everhart, a senior at Glasgow High School. Son of Mr. and Mrs. James Everhart of Newark, Del., he plans to major in plant biology.

Aimee Federer of Wilmington, Del., received a $5,000 Elbert N. Carvel Scholarship. A senior at McKean High School, she will major in animal science with a concentration in preveterinary medicine. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. John Federer of Wilmington.

Lauren Goldstein, a senior at Cranford High School in Cranford, N.J., received a $5,000 Harry Hayward Agricultural Scholarship and a $1,000 UD Botanic Gardens Award. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Goldstein of Cranford, she will major in landscape horticulture.

Caesar Rodney High School senior Amanda Hastings of Dover, Del., received a $2,000 Nechay Family Agricultural Scholar Award. She plans to major in animal science with a concentration in preveterinary medicine and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hastings of Dover.

Recipient of a State of Delaware Carvel Agricultural Scholarship for $5,000 is Ashley Hill of Newark, Del., who plans to major in animal science with a concentration in preveterinary medicine. The Newark High School senior is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hill III of Newark.

Kelly Krystopowicz, a Rumson Fair Haven High School senior from Rumson, N.J., received a $5,000 State of Delaware Carvel Agricultural Scholarship Award to major in applied animal science. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Edward Krystopowicz of Rumson.

Receiving a $2,000 Agricultural Sciences General Scholarship is Erica LaBar of New Castle, Del., a senior at William Penn High School in New Castle. Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Randy LaBar of New Castle, she plans to major in wildlife conservation.

A $2,000 Townsend, Inc. Scholarship went to Andrea Leventry, a senior at Christiana High School. She plans to major in agricultural education. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Leventry of Newark, Del.

Matthew Licata of Holtsville, N.Y., received a George Rosenberger Memorial Scholarship for $2,000. A senior at Sachem High School, he plans to major in animal science with a concentration in agricultural biotechnology. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. John Licata of Holtsville.

Wilmington Friends High School senior Christopher Palmer was awarded a $2,000 George Rosenberger Memorial Scholarship and a $1,000 Helmuth Agricultural Scholar Award. He plans to major in animal science with a concentration in preveterinary medicine. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Eddy Palmer of Lincoln University.

Samantha Pettingill of Bear, Del., a senior at Tower Hill High School in Wilmington, received a $5,000 State of Delaware Carvel Agricultural Scholar Award. She will major in animal science with a concentration in preveterinary medicine. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Gene M. Pettingill of Bear.

Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board Holds Hearing

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — On July 6, the Milk Marketing Board will conduct a public hearing for Milk Marketing Area 3 for the purpose of receiving evidence concerning minimum prices milk dealers shall pay to producers for various classes of milk; minimum prices milk dealers shall charge for milk, including prices to be charged to wholesale customers such as stores, restaurants, and institutions; discounts; and minimum prices to be charged to consumers for milk sold for consumption off the premises.

Evidence will also be received concerning various types, classifications, and containers of fluid milk and milk products; in-store handling costs; reasonable profit margins for milk dealers and stores; and adoption of a cost replacement system, including whether in-store handling costs should be a part of that system.

The hearing will be held at 8:30 a.m. in Room 202 of the Agriculture Building, 2301 North Cameron Street, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

Fayette County Master Farmer In For Life

DAVID HIEBERT
Westmoreland Co. Correspondent

BROWNSVILLE (Fayette Co.) — No, Robert Jackson, Fayette County farmer is not in prison for life. He has just never seriously considered an occupation other than farming.

Jackson, one of four Pennsylvania farm operators named master farmers for 2000, runs the 450 acre Double J farm just south of Brownsville. Jackson, three other Pennsylvania and one Maryland farm operators were recognized in a ceremony held March 6 in Harrisburg.

Although he has not seriously considered any other career, Robert Jackson feels the weather and fluctuating milk prices have been two huge challenges in his life. The record highs and lows are tough, whether it's the weather or milk prices.

Located in hilly country between Pittsburgh and Uniontown, the 125-cow dairy is at the heart of the Jackson farm. Robert (Bob) recalls some of the transitions at the farm's beginning.

In 1985, the families split the business, with the uncle's side keeping the land nearer Route 40, and Bob's family taking the Stuart place. The other Jackson's farm now includes a retail outlet on the old National Road (US Route 40).

When his father retired in 1988, Jackson took over the Double J Farm. The current farm includes 335 acres of cropland, 75 rental acres, and a 125-cow Holstein herd. The herd's average yearly milk production is about 23,000 pounds.

To increase feed efficiency, Jackson splits his milking cows into high-producer and low-producer groups, feeding the high producers extra rations to maintain peak production.

About 18 of the lower producers — which are usually toward the end of their lactations — are separated as a way to keep them away from the extra feed and extra weight that comes with it. Jackson and his wife, Joy, work closely with the DHIA to keep production records, tracking cow output through monthly measurements.

Bob also handles the herd's artificial insemination breeding program, noting that the main advantage for the herd is that he "can get her bread soon enough after coming into heat." He's achieved about a 50% first service conception rate.

According to Jackson, AI gives him access to more bull studs. He works at a 13-month calving interval and may keep an unbred cow as long as a year before culling, depending on her production.

Also a consideration in breeding are marketing factors. Milk is sold through the milk cooperative, Dairy Farmers of America, where he serves as an alternate delegate. The cooperative gives a premium on fall production to counter the natural spring flush in April and May, when pasture —and milk — production peak. Bob's aim for fall freshening, however, has had limited success.

All heifer calves are kept for possible herd replacements. They are fed via the bottle for the first 6-8 weeks and weaned by the time they are 3 months old. The 4-6 month olds grow in their own pen, and are moved on to the breeding area by 15 months.

Bob aims for first freshening at 2 years. The cows are milked twice a day in the original double-six "super stall" parlor built in when the dairy was formed in 1979.

When not on pasture, the cows lounge in a freestall facility featuring a stall for every cow. Bob limits the herd size at this point to the number of stalls in the barn.

Although he may change the milkers in the near future, Bob figures he can use the milking parlor for another 10 years.

To run the farm, Bob has hired 3 full-time employees and a part-timer in addition to his retired father, who helps out as needed and as he feels able.

The Jackson family includes Bob, Joy, and four children: Andrea, 16; Amber, 11; Adam, 6; and Aaron, 4.

The couple served as regional leaders to the Pennsylvania Council of Cooperatives' Young Leader Conference in 1993. Jackson served as president of the Fayette County Holstein Association from 1994-98 and is a current board member. He also is a board member of the county's Dairy Herd Improvement Association and is a deacon at the local First Christian Church.

In the hill country of the Mon River Valley, Jackson uses strip farming and pasture land to control erosion and provide space for his 125-head herd of Holsteins.

In his 1979-vintage double 6 herringbone milking parlor, Robert Jackson notes that the herd bacteria count runs in the 2-3,000 range. Cows and milkers are washed before each milking, and Clorox is used as a disinfectant.

The senior Robert Jackson (on the tractor) is also a Master Farmer. Although retired in 1988, he helps out during the spring as he is able.

2000 Dietary Guidelines Acknowledge Dairy's Importance

ROSEMONT, Il. — Leaders of the National Dairy Council® (NDC), the nutrition research and communications arm of Dairy Management Inc.™ (DMI), applauded the federal government's recently-announced 2000 Dietary Guidelines, which maintains the old guideline's recommendation of two to three servings of dairy foods daily.

"One of the goals of the 2000 Dietary Guidelines is to provide consumers with simple steps to act on right now for good health. Getting those two to three servings of milk, cheese, yogurt and other dairy products is a simple and powerful action step toward that end," said Greg Miller, Ph.D., NDC vice president of nutrition research.

The 2000 Dietary Guidelines emphasize the importance of consuming good sources of calcium throughout life for healthy bones. Adolescents and adults over age 50 have "an especially high need for calcium," the guidelines state. Yogurt, milk and cheese top the list of recommended calcium sources.

In its advice to consumers, the new guidelines include other important references to dairy:

Low fat and fat-free dairy foods have the same nutrient content (except for saturated fat and calories) as the higher fat versions. This helps to correct a common misconception that lower-fat dairy foods might be lower in important nutrients.

Chocolate milk, though it contains some sugar, is high in vitamins and minerals and therefore is an important part of the daily diet, especially for those who need extra calories. It contains the same level of calcium as white milk.

Soft drinks and other sweets should not crowd lowfat milk from the diet, as milk is an excellent source of calcium and is needed to maintain health.

Recent research has shown that calcium from soy-based beverage is absorbed only 75 percent as efficiently as from milk. In accordance with NDC's comments to the committee that authored the new guidelines, calcium-fortified soy beverages is not listed in the dairy group; soy is offered only as an option for those who prefer a non-dairy source of calcium.

For more information on the Dietary Guidelines and recent ground-breaking research showing the role of calcium and dairy products in preventing disease, visit NDC's Web site at www.nationaldairycouncil.org or DMI's main Web site at www.dairyinfo.com.

Ag Secretary Kicks Off 2000 'Simply Delicious' Produce Season

FINLEYVILLE (Washington Co.) — Pennsylvania Agriculture Secretary Samuel E. Hayes Jr. recently joined fruit and vegetable growers at the Trax Farms Strawberry Festival to kick off the 2000 produce season and launch the "Pennsylvania Produce — Simply Delicious" marketing program.

"It's easy to see why Pennsylvania produce is 'Simply Delicious,'" Hayes said. "From our red ripe tomatoes and succulent sweet corn — to our sweet, juicy peaches and apples — Pennsylvania growers offer a cornucopia of fresh fruits and vegetables that will be showcased under the Ridge Administration's 'Simply Delicious' marketing program this growing season.

"Gov. Ridge and I are proud of the hard work and dedication of our growers who provide nutritious produce for our consumers. We invite all Pennsylvanians to look for the 'Simply Delicious' logo in your favorite store or farmers market to ensure you buy the highest-quality produce available."

Hayes presented a $465,500 check to Pennsylvania fruit and vegetable growers, representing the funding for the "Simply Delicious" statewide program this year, including billboards and point-of-purchase materials. A matching grant for $18,000 to the Pennsylvania Vegetable Marketing and Research Program also was included in the check.

Bob Trax, vice chairman of the Pennsylvania Vegetable Marketing and Research Board and former president of the Pennsylvania Vegetable Growers Association, and other growers accepted the check on behalf of the industry.

This is the fourth year for the popular "Simply Delicious" marketing program. Since 1997, the program has grown to include the participation of more than 200 retailers representing more than 900 stores and more than 500 growers.

The Pennsylvania "Simply Delicious" logo is designed to increase the consumers' awareness of Pennsylvania's fresh, home-grown fruits and vegetables. The Department of Agriculture and the Pennsylvania Food Merchants Association, in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Vegetable Marketing and Research Program, sponsor the "Simply Delicious" program.

For information on participating "Simply Delicious" stores and growers, visit the Department of Agriculture's Website, accessed through the Pennsylvania homepage, www.state.pa.us, or directly at www.pda.state.pa.us.

Farmland Preservation Milestone In Chester County

NOTTINGHAM (Chester Co.) — Pennsylvania Agriculture Secretary Samuel E. Hayes Jr. recently marked the preservation of 10,000 acres of farmland in Chester County.

Hayes presented The Chester County Farmland Preservation Board and farm owners George and Suzanne Lamborn with certificates of recognition for reaching this milestone.

"Chester County was one of the first counties to join Pennsylvania's Farmland Preservation Program," Hayes said. "And earlier this year, Chester County was instrumental in helping Gov. Ridge reach his goal of preserving 100 farms in 100 days through 'Growing Greener.' Chester County has helped to make it possible for Pennsylvania to preserve farmland at a pace greater than any other state.

"I am proud to be here today to recognize Chester County's outstanding achievement of reaching the 10,000-acre milestone. Chester County has consistently shown exemplary commitment to farmland preservation."

Created in 1989, the Pennsylvania Agricultural Land Preservation Board oversees the state Farmland Preservation Program, which allows the state and counties to purchase development rights, referred to as easements. These easements guarantee that farms will remain as agricultural land.

At the Pennsylvania Farm Show on Jan. 8, Gov. Ridge announced his goal of preserving 100 farms in 100 days as part of his "Growing Greener" program. He called the loss of open space and farmland Pennsylvania's biggest environmental challenge in the new century. Gov. Ridge kept his promise and preserved more than 100 farms by Earth Day, April 22.

Gov. Ridge was in Chester County in December to sign the five-year, nearly $650 million "Growing Greener" program, Pennsylvania's largest-ever investment in its environment.

The Farmland Preservation Program continues to work toward preserving and protecting Pennsylvania's agricultural land for farm families and future generations of Pennsylvanians. Pennsylvania is on the road to becoming the No. 1 state in the nation for the number of acres of farmland preserved. To date, more than 1,300 Pennsylvania farms, totaling more than 162,000 acres of farmland, have been preserved.

Northeast Order Uniform Price For May 2000

BOSTON, Mass. — Erik F. Rasmussen, Market Administrator for the Northeast Marketing Area, has announced that the statistical uniform price for May 2000 is $12.90 per hundredweight or $1.11 per gallon for milk delivered to plants located in Suffolk County, MA (Boston).

The statistical uniform price is the benchmark minimum producer blend price paid to dairy farmers, prior to allowable deductions, for milk containing 3.5 percent butterfat, 2.99 percent protein, and 5.69 percent other solids. The price received by an individual dairy farmer will vary as the component composition of a farm's milk differs from the established benchmarks.

Rasmussen also stated that the producer price differential (PPD) for May is $3.53 per hundredweight for milk delivered to plants located in Suffolk County, MA. The PPD represents each producer's share of the value generated by the marketwide pool on a hundredweight basis.

The PPD, which is added to the payment producers receive for their milk's components, is adjusted for the location of the receiving plant. The statistical uniform price and PPD decrease by scheduled amounts the more distant the plant is from Suffolk County, MA. The May PPD is $3.43 in New York, NY and $3.33 in Philadelphia, PA.

The Class prices for milk pooled in May are as follows: Class I, $14.73 (Suffolk County, MA); Class II, $12.63; Class III, $9.37; and Class IV, $11.91. Had the Northeast Order been in effect in 1999, comparable class prices for May 1999 would have been: Class I $14.92, Class II $12.21, Class III $10.91, and Class IV price $11.53. The component values for May are protein, $1.5514 per pound; butterfat, $1.2854 per pound; other solids, $0.0403 per pound; and nonfat solids, $0.8530 per pound.

Milk receipts from producers totaled 2.117 billion pounds. Class I utilization, milk processed as beverage milk, was 41.0 percent of producer milk receipts. The average Class I utilization, for the three predecessor orders that were combined to form the Northeast Order, was 38.1 percent in May 1999.

The manufacture of Class II products such as cream, ice cream, yogurt, and cottage cheese utilized 18.3 percent of producer milk. Milk used to manufacture Class III products such as cheese (American and Italian) and evaporated and condensed products utilized 28.9 percent of total milk receipts. Class IV usage (butter, nonfat, and whole milk powder) equaled 11.8 percent of the total.

Perennial School Set June 27-28

WOOSTER, Ohio — The fifth annual Perennial School will be conducted on the Wooster campus of the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center June 27-28.

The two-day event is co-sponsored by OARDC's Secrest Arboretum and Ohio State University Extension's Nursery, Landscape, and Turf Team.

The school is an intensive two-day course (17 hours), which will pertain to perennials including selection, horticultural practices, and pest management. Participants will explore Secrest Arboretum, attend presentations, and participate in hands-on learning through interactive exercises and diagnostics.

Registration for the event is limited to 70 participants and the deadline for all registrations is Friday, June 16. Cost for the two-day event is $175 and includes a continental breakfast on Wednesday, lunch both days, dinner on Tuesday, the diagnostic clinic, outdoor labs, and a notebook of materials and presentations.

The school will begin at 8 a.m. on Tuesday with check in at Ohio State University Agricultural Technical Institute's Applewood Village Conference Center.

At 8:25 a.m., guest speaker Alan M. Armitage, a horticulture professor from the University of Georgia, will be talking about "Up and Coming Perennials."

"He (Armitage) is an expert in perennial plants, perennial herbaceous plants and the cut flower industry," said arboretum curator Ken Cochran. "The cut flower industry is where a person grows acres of a plant and then sells them to florists. The grower also may conduct research on these types of plants."

After a break at 9:35 a.m., Armitage will speak about "Herbaceous Perennials for Cut Flowers."

This year's school will also feature something new — two field trips have been added into Tuesday's events. The trips include a tour of Quailcrest Farms in Wooster, and Wade and Gatton Display Garden and Nurseries in Bellville, Ohio.

"We decided to try something new this year," Cochran said. "Both of these places have excellent display gardens for perennials."

Participants will board buses at 11 a.m. and head for Quailcrest Farms in Wooster. They will arrive at the farm at about 11:30 a.m. and form two groups. Group A will tour Quailcrest Farms and Group B will participate in a seminar titled "Diagnostics of Herbaceous Perennials.' After lunch at 12:30, the two groups will switch places.

"The diagnostic clinics will allow participants to bring in specimens with various problems, and we will then help them identify what type of problem it is," Cochran said.

The group will leave the farm at about 3:30 p.m. and head to the Wade and Gatton Display Gardens and Nurseries.

Participants will again be split into two groups. Group A will tour the gardens and Group B will participate in another diagnostic clinic. The groups will switch places after dinner at 6:30 p.m. Events will conclude on Tuesday evening at about 8:30 p.m.

On Wednesday, participants will be served a continental breakfast at 7:45 a.m. Ohio State's Michael Knee, professor of horticulture and crop science, will speak on "U.S./British Gardens" at 8:15 a.m.

At 10:15 a.m., participants will be taken to an OARDC home off of route 83 in which they will participate in a hands-on planting demonstration called "Landscape Planting with Perennials."

"We are going to incorporate woody landscape plants with perennials for foundation planting around the home," Cochran said. "Foundation planting is around the house as opposed to landscape planting, which simply plants everywhere."

"We will divide the people up into six groups, and they are going to go around the house and physically work on this for about an hour and a half. We will have the ground and beds prepared so they are going to basically just install the plants, and when they get done they will see the finished project as opposed to when they arrived and the around was bare."

After lunch, participants will learn "Propagation of Herbaceous Perennials," taught by Jim Brady of Sunbeam Gardens, Inc., in Avon, Ohio. At 1:45 p.m., Dave Shetlar will talk about perennial plant insects, and "Weed Management in Perennials" given by Randy Zondag of the OSU extension in Lake County, will be the last topic of the day at 3 p.m.

For more information about the event, call Sandy Winkley at Secret Arboretum, (330) 263-3761; Jack Kerrigan, Cuyahoga County office of OSU Extension, (216) 397-6000; Charles Behnke, Lorain County office of OSU Extension, (440) 326-5851; or Denise Ellsworth in the Stark-/Summit office of OSU Extension, (330) 497-1611, ext. 21.

Robert Foster Receives Big E Agricultural Adventurers Award

WEST SPRINGFIELD, Mass. — The New England Fellowship of Agricultural Adventurers presented Robert Foster, Middlebury, Vt., with the 2000 Agricultural Adventurers Award here at the annual meeting of trustees of Eastern States Exposition May 18.

Foster, who operates the 1,900-acre Foster Brothers Farm with his wife, Nancy, his father, and other family members, is credited with producing a new product — electricity — from cow manure from the farm's 380 milking Holsteins. The year was 1982 and the concept was new at the time in the U.S., but had been used in several foreign countries.

The Fosters' environmental concerns led them to build an anaerobic digester, which acts as a large incubator for methane-producing bacteria. The fresh cow manure is warmed and "ferments" to produce methane gas, a clean burning, environmentally safe source of fuel used to generate electricity. The electricity became a source of energy for the farm and the excess was sold to a local power company.

In 1991 the Fosters began using the solid residue, which is odorless and free of contaminants and weeds, to develop a line of compost potting materials. The material, which contains no volatile nitrogen compounds, is composted to yield a peat-like substance. Unlike peat moss, the digested manure is a renewable resource. The products, marketed by Vermont Natural Ag Products, a subsidiary of Foster Brothers Farm, are found in nurseries and garden stores throughout the Northeast under the names of Moo Doo, Moo Grow, Moo Dirt, and others.

Foster is an active member of Agri-Mark and Yankee Milk dairy cooperatives, serving as a director from Region 10. He is a past vice chairman of Agri-Mark, holding that position from 1992-1997. He serves as vice chairman of the Vermont Beef Promotion Council and the Green Mountain Dairy Cooperative Federation. He is also a member of the University of Vermont's College of Life Sciences Advisory Board and the Vermont Dairy Promotion Council.

A graduate of the University of Vermont, Foster has a bachelor's degree in agricultural engineering and a master's degree in agricultural economics.

Since 1953, the fellowship has honored outstanding leaders in New England agriculture.

Alfalfa Weevils After First Cut

NEWARK, Del.— According to Joanne Whalen, cooperative extension integrated pest management (IPM) specialist at the University of Delaware, a larger-than-normal infestation of alfalfa weevils has resulted in significant damage to alfalfa in the Delmarva region.

Kent County Extension agriculture agent Gordon Johnson and Whalen have spoken to alfalfa growers in that county concerned about the lack of regrowth on alfalfa after the first cutting. Calls to central and southeastern Pennsylvania and Maryland's Eastern Shore confirm a similar situation there.

"Although the lack of regrowth has been attributed to everything from cultural practices and fertilizer to disease and herbicide injury, the IPM staff have pinpointed the primary culprit as alfalfa weevil feeding on the crown buds," Whalen said. "Fields harvested very early or very late appear to be regrowing normally, but those cut around May 15 are not."

Since regrowth for second cutting generally comes from the stem buds, new growth will appear slow because plants will now have to regrow from the crown buds. Most stands should survive this damage. Whalen predicts, adding that at least one cutting will be lost.

Whalen said that damage is most severe in areas in which weevil pressure was heavy before the first cutting and controls were not used. It appears that the damage was done soon after cutting. While larvae — the typical feeding stage of this pest — have already pupated, sometimes adults can be found feeding on crown buds as well. This type of damage, however, has not been seen since the late 1950s to early 1960s.

"It's been so long since this phenomenon has been seen that we weren't sure what we were up against. From literature of 40 years ago we've learned that larvae and adult alfalfa weevils can prevent or significantly delay regrowth," noted Whalen. "Favorable overwintering conditions and warm weather in March have combined to make for earlier and heavier weevil populations."

Since significant weevil populations have not surfaced in recent years, parasite populations may be lower, too, the IPM specialist said.

In order to minimize the damage to the stand, Whalen suggests delaying the second cutting for 35 to 38 days, allowing some flowering before harvesting. If weevils were present before harvest and the field was not sprayed, check immediately after harvest for weevils feeding on new buds. Apply a treatment if one to two weevils per crown are found.

"Potato leafhopper damage on weakened plants will be more injurious than normal, so it is essential that growers also scout fields for potato leafhopper to prevent further stress to the stand," Whalen said. "Leafhoppers have been in the area since early May. We are starting to nymphs, which can quickly damage fields."

She advises scouting for potato leafhopper adults and nymphs as soon as regrowth is observed. Treatment thresholds are as follows:

- In alfalfa three inches or less, the treatment threshold is 20 per 100 sweeps.
- In alfalfa four to six inches tall, the treatment threshold is 50 per 100 sweeps.
- In alfalfa seven to 11 inches tall, the threshold is 100 per 100 sweeps.
- In alfalfa 12 inches or taller, the threshold is 150 per 100 sweeps.

If fields are extremely stressed, reduce these thresholds by one-third.

Les Vough, University of Maryland Extension agronomist and forage crop specialist, agrees with Whalen that regrowth damaged by alfalfa weevils should be cut at a 35- to 38-day interval.

"Keep in mind this means 35 to 38 days from the time regrowth begins, which may have been two to three weeks ago and just now is beginning to grow," he said. "Also, let the second cutting go to about 25 percent bloom, since plants must produce new growth from the crown buds. A summer drought is predicted, so extra recovery time will be beneficial, and an adequate fall recovery period will be more critical this year because of the damage."

For more information about the alfalfa weevil infestation, contact your county extension office.

NFO Dairy Members Donate $250,000 To Charity

AMES, Iowa — Dairy Relief, Inc. (DRI), a charitable foundation, has forged an unprecedented relationship with another nonprofit Midwestern organization.

National Farmers Organization, serving America's farmers and ranchers since 1955, and its dairy producer-members, have donated more than $250,000 to DRI, a gesture which not only helps undernourished people of the world, but also contributes to the well being of the nation's dairy farmers.

For two years, DRI has donated thousands of pounds of U.S. dairy products to alleviate hunger worldwide. In fact, DRI donations have reached people in Albania, Bosnia, Columbia, Haiti, Honduras, Kosovo, North Korea, the Palestinian West Bank, Romania and Uzbekistan. DRI works with other charitable relief organizations as well as the U.S. Department of Agriculture and USAID to arrange for the distribution of dairy products to the poor.

"National Farmers is quite pleased to be a part of this winning effort against hunger," said Gene Paul, national policy analyst for National Farmers who also serves as president of DRI.

"It's not often that one program significantly helps both the donor and the recipient in this particular way."

U.S. dairy farmers have recently been plagued by perceived oversupply and low prices. Several Midwestern producers, looking for a way to reduce supply and raise prices, fostered the idea of a charitable organization.

With the backing of National Farmers and other national dairy cooperatives, DRI was born. "We believe there is a niche that needs to be filled in terms of making sure that high-quality dairy products are donated to those in need," said Carl Baumann of Highland Ill., a dairy producer named executive director of DRI earlier this year. "No other relief agency or charity is focused exclusively on dairy product contributions, and that's DRI's great opportunity. I think that given the great nutritional value of milk and other dairy goods, we have a great product to offer those in need."

For more information about Dairy Relief, Inc., contact Carl Baumann at (618) 654-3676 or cjbaum@papadocs.com.

Archmere Academy High School senior Katie Saturno of Wilmington, Del., received a $3,000 State of Delaware Carvel Agricultural Scholar Award. She plans to major in animal science with a concentration in preveterinary medicine. Her parents are Thomas Saturno and Jeannie Vanover, both of Wilmington.

Brian Stockinger of Pompton Plains, N.J., senior at Pequannock High School, received a $5,000 George M. Worrilow Agricultural Scholarship. He will major in animal science with a concentration in preveterinary medicine. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Stockinger of Pompton Plains.

Glasgow High School senior Michelle Turner of Bear, Del., was awarded a $1,000 Brandywine McClure Scholarship. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Turner Sr. of Bear, she plans to major in animal science with a concentration in preveterinary medicine.

Judith Walker of New Castle, Del., received a $1,000 Brandywine McClure Scholarship. The William Penn High School senior plans to major in natural resources management. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Gary Walker of New Castle.

Practical Applied Research Part PDA Budget

The research project on salmonella looked at how surfaces in poultry houses retain salmonella bacteria. Wooden surfaces were found to hide the bacteria deep and the experiment related to painted surfaces and the practical aspects of painting house surfaces.

Fly control was another study. If you can reduce the moisture content of manure, you can reduce fly breeding. If you reduce manure wetness from 80 percent out of the birds to 50 percent, you decrease fly hatch, odor, and manure weight. A combination of tools can be used such as insecticides, fly predators, pit fans, composting in the pit, and belt cage systems.

In all, 14 projects were highlighted as follows:

- Pa Dairy Quality Assurance, Dr. Stephen Knable, Penn State University.
- E. Coli, Dr. Lorraine Sordillo, Penn State University.
- Legal Aspects of International Markets, Dr. John Knox, Ag Law Center, Dickenson.
- Mastitis, Dr. Lorraine Sordillo, Penn State University.

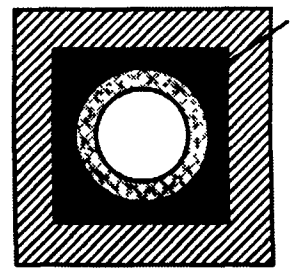
... For New Construction Why Not Examine The "Chimtek Difference."



Chimtek Inner Liners are made of volcanic pumice and high-temperature refractory cements. Its round shape provides even temperature inside flue and contributes to efficient flow of smoke and flue gasses. The volcanic pumice in Chimtek liners adds considerable insulating value.

All three chimneyliner systems distributed by DS Machine Shop are of super design, super performance, and super value. With all their advantages these chimney systems often cost no more than ordinary chimneys. Write or call us for more specific liner information.

Grazing Lowers Capital Investment

would eat too much moisture in the grass. You're either going to get a cow that milks a lot, but gets real thin and has health problems or she will go off milk and not be profitable."

Wolfe has started to use New Zealand Holstein genetics, which are more conducive to grazing. The New Zealand cows average 900 pounds in weight compared to U.S. Holsteins, which average 1,200 pounds.

"The main method of dairying in New Zealand is seasonal grazing," said Wolfe. "So the cows run higher components. You've also got a smaller cow that will be more efficient on grass."

Wolfe's herd is seasonal with cows freshening from February through April. "It's easier to manage," said Wolfe. "We only have two groups of heifers because they're all born during the same time of year. We also dry all of our cows off right before Christmas."

When he originally moved onto the farm, Wolfe worked with a nutrition consultant to balance the pastures for grazing. Currently he is growing perennial rye grass, fescue, orchard grass, grazing timothy, grazing alfalfa, matua brome grass, and one paddock of chickory.

Wolfe has set up 18 paddocks on his farm and uses portable fence to rotate the cattle. The paddocks range in acreage with the largest ones being 14 to 16 acres. However, the cows only feed on one acre at a time. A water line with a riser every 300 feet provides water to every paddock.

"We give the cows fresh grass three times a day," said Wolfe. "They're also fed five pounds of grain in the barnyard before each milking."

The cows are kept on pasture year round and do not have access to the barn. During the hot summer months with temperatures above 90 degrees, Wolfe will bring the cows to the barnyard a couple of hours before milking to run sprinklers over them.

"During the summer when we're feeding alfalfa, we will let them graze on the alfalfa during the daytime and then move them to grass pasture in the night," said Wolfe. "Otherwise, we put the cows on whatever's available."

When pastures are thin, Wolfe will supplement with baleage. This spring he baled 20 acres of first cutting hay, which will be incorporated into the grazing program this summer for pasture slow down. He also put out 25 acres of sundane grass for summer pasture.

Pastures are replaced every 10 years. During the months he isn't milking, Wolfe works at Mason Dixon dairy farm.

Wolfe overwinters his cows outside. He normally puts the cows out in a 10-acre plot that needs replaced. The cows are fed round bales and can tear up the pasture, getting it ready to replant in the spring.

One way Wolfe keeps his capital investment low is by hiring custom work. He owns a tractor loader, Areway aerator, and disk mower.

"When I put seed out, I have to hire a person to drill for me," said Wolfe. "I also hire someone to make the baleage and haul manure for me."

Wolfe rents the property from Tom Murren, a retired dairy farmer. He first started renting in 1996 and came out the fall before he moved in the cows to plant 33 acres of rye. One week before he moved the cows, he set up the fences.

"I spent a couple years prior to renting the farm learning as much as I could about grazing," he said. "I went on Franklin County pasture walks and went to the Lancaster County grazing conference."

Before renting his own farm, Wolfe worked on Mains Dairy Farm in Newburg. The 300-cow dairy farm gave Wolfe the opportunity to build up his herd before he left. By the spring of 1996, Wolfe had 25 cows in the Mains herd.

"I did sell 10 of my cows back to the Mains farm because their dates were off," said Wolfe. "I went seasonal right from the start. The cows I bought were all late fall to early spring calvers that I held over to calve in the late spring."

When he moved onto the farm, he converted the tie-stall barn into a double-four flatbed milking parlor. The Wolfes milk twice a day and average 13,258 pounds per cow with 3.4 percent protein and four percent fat.

One of the benefits of rotational grazing is improved herd health. According to Wolfe, he has very few mastitis outbreaks or displaced abomasums. The somatic cell count averages about 180,000.

"We do have to cull for cows that don't make the breeding window," said Wolfe. "So the herd's average age is at about three lactations. About one-third of our herd is made up of first-calf heifers."

Over the years, Wolfe has learned from his mistakes. The first spring he grazed, he was feeding high amounts of grain.

"We had one cow get a twisted stomach and had a few cases of milking fever," said Wolfe. "But it's a learning curve."

Jeff's wife Sandy helps milk in the evenings and drives school bus. Their son Jason is 11 years old and has a Jersey calf in the 4-H dairy club.

Wolfe came from an Illinois farm where they milked 40 head of registered Brown Swiss. He moved east in 1985 to work for Mason Dixon Farms. His younger brother is now taking over his family's farm in Illinois and is converting the dairy to grazing.

Converting the tie stall barn to a double-four milking parlor, Wolfe was able to begin milking his herd with very low start-up costs.

Cows are healthier on grass, according to Jeff Wolfe. His herd has fewer digestive and reproductive problems than average herds. He also has few cases of mastitis outbreaks.

Dairy Grazing Dollar And Sense

In a New York Dairy Farm Business Summary, grazing dairy herds netted $128 more per cow per year than herds that didn't graze.

According to Dr. Lawrence Muller, professor of dairy & animal science at Penn State, that figure is in line with other grazing studies conducted over the past eight years. Compiling the 20 studies, Muller and his colleagues found that grazing herds averaged $150 per cow per year in income above conventional herds.

Some of that increase in net income is due to lower feed costs, lower vet bills, and improved herd health. In the New York summary, grazing herds averaged $50 to 100 less in annual purchased feed costs and $20 less in veterinarian expenses.

"You do have consider the cost of pasture," said Muller. "We figure that pasture is about three cents per pound of dry matter or $60 per ton of dry matter." That figure includes land charges, fertilizer costs, fencing, water systems, and other expenses.

Annual milk production for grazing herds is slightly lower than in conventional herds. In the New York summary, the grazing herds averaged 17,600 pounds per cow per year compared to 18,200 pounds in conventional herds.

"That's a little bit less of a difference than what we've seen here," said Muller.

The benefits that Muller sees in grazing include higher profits, less labor, and improved herd health.

"One thing we're seeing in Pennsylvania and New York is that the herds are getting larger," said Muller. "But cull rates in grazing herds still average about 23 percent compared to the industry standard of 30 percent."

Muller recommends that any farmers interested in grazing take the time to learn everything that they can before they get started. "Go visit other grazers who are successful and making a profit. Attend meetings and collect all the data you can."

According to Muller, not everyone is successful at grazing. "It's a completely different type of management than with non-grazing herds," he said. "It could take two to three years to learn what it takes."

"The most important thing to learn is pasture management," said Muller. "You need to have your pasture feedbunk full, which means you need to have adequate intake for your cows. It takes daily management."

Survey: Consumers Don't Know Most Dairy Farms Are Family-Owned

ROSEMONT, Il. — A striking example of the gap between American consumer knowledge and the realities of dairy farming, a recent dairy industry survey indicates a majority of U.S. consumers believes most dairy farms are not owned by farmers and their families, according to Linda Eatherton, vice president of industry relations for Dairy Management Inc.™ (DMI).

In a random nationwide survey by Roper Starch Worldwide, consumers were asked to identify who they think owns more than 90 percent of dairy farms in the United States. Thirty percent said agriculturally-related corporations own dairy farms, while another 21 percent said other business corporations or food manufacturers. About ten percent said the government owns them.

In reality, according to Eatherton, U.S. Department of Agriculture data indicates families own and operate more than 99 percent of all U.S. dairy farms.

"This misperception about who produces our nation's milk is just one example showing the vast gap between consumer beliefs and the realities of dairy farming," she said. "As more consumers become further removed from production agriculture, the gap continues to widen."

DMI and the regional dairy organizations, American Dairy Association/Dairy Council Middle Atlantic and Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program, have partnered with other dairy industry groups to develop a long-term education program to address and correct such consumer misperceptions.

"The dairy industry is united to reach misinformed consumers with factual information on a wide range of dairy farming issues," said Eatherton.

Farmer-funded education efforts allow the dairy industry to explain its story, she said. "Consumers can now begin learning the facts about herd health measures dairy farmers practice daily, our high safety standards that ensure quality dairy products, and environmental stewardship programs being developed across the country."

These consumer awareness programs also benefit dairy farmers, Eatherton said. "The more confident the public is about how milk is produced, the more confident they'll be in selecting dairy products off the shelves at their local supermarket."

Ho-Hum Report Sings Lullaby For Prices

COLUMBUS, Ohio — A normal crop size and lackluster prices is the sum of the June 9 monthly production report issued by the USDA, said agricultural economist Allan Lines, Ohio State University.

The USDA's projections for a 137 bushel-per-acre corn yield and a 40-bushel-per-acre soybean yield — both considered "normal" — would flush the market with a high carryout despite strong demand on the domestic and foreign fronts, Lines said.

"We are building stocks even with normal crops," Lines said. "That's the message here. If we get near the normal crop that USDA is predicting, that will put pressure on prices."

Because most crops are just emerging in fields, the report is based on an economic model and not on actual field surveys, Lines said. However, the season holds leeway for crop losses if a drought scare materializes, or for a bumper crop if growing conditions turn exceptional, he said.

Just a three-bushel-per-acre increase in corn yield — 140 bushels per acre — would push the projected 2000-2001 corn carryout from a forecasted 1.9 billion bushels to 2.1 billion bushels, Lines said. And that would cause prices to drift below USDA's projected range of $1.65-$2.05 per bushel, he said.

As for soybeans, a four-bushel-per-acre yield increased — 44 bushels per acre — would raise a 2000-2001 ending stocks forecast from just under 500 million bushels to almost 800 million bushels, Lines said. Under that scenario, prices would shift from a forecasted range of $4-$5 per bushel down to $3.50 per bushel per acre, he said.

"The market just looked at the report Friday (June 9) morning and kind of yawned," Lines said. "The weather forecast and crop condition reports are speaking louder to them than this government report."

In all, USDA is projecting a 9.74-billion-bushel corn crop — unchanged from the May report — and 3.2 percent more than the 9.437-billion-bushel crop in 1999.

As for soybeans, USDA projects a record 2.955-billion-bushel crop — unchanged from the May report — and an 11.8 percent increase above last year's 2.643-billion-bushel crop.

"We have to get used to talking about a three-billion-bushel soybean crop in the United States," Lines said. "We used to talk about two-billion-bushel crops, but now that's becoming a thing of the past."

Not much can be done on the demand side to trim the ribs of bulging bins, Lines said. Domestic feed, meal, and oil usage is at record levels, he said. Exports are already at "significantly" increased levels for soybeans, oil, meal and corn, also.

"USDA is a little soft on the growth side of exports, but I do agree with them that exports are going to be strong across the board for all corn products, beans, meal and oil," Lines said.

Marketing loan rates for corn and soybeans will offer farmers protection from low prices, Lines said. However, they should be alert to weather scares that could bump up prices between now and mid-summer, providing potential forward contracting opportunities.

"Therefore take no thought tor the morrow." I was taught that it meant that we should not concern ourselves with what might happen in the future.

Then, Psalms 118:8 says, "It is better to trust in the Lord than to put confidence in man." If you trust in the Lord, then you would not even consider a contract that had a biosecurity clause in it. Biosecurity is configuration of man's thinking.

There are many other scripture verses that come to mind, but I do not have the time or space to go into detail. What seems so strange to me is that many of the Mennonites, and even a few Amish, have succumbed to the pressuring of the companies that advocate biosecurity and make it a requirement of contracts. These same people belong to churches that preach about "unequal yokes in business and dealings with the outside world," yet close their eyes to their brotherhood doing just that.

I wrote to Lawrence Althouse, who writes your scriptural article each week, asking him to include something about this sometime. I feel that it is a worse failure than the demise of farming in general, when the farmers become so conscious of monetary gains that they must resort to practices that are the opposite of what the Bible and God teaches. Trust in God above all things, and accept failure as His plan for you.

Therese Todd
Still Pond, Md.

Editor's Note: Certainly the things in life that we cannot control are best put in the hands of a loving Father God. In faith we shall come through these trials better disciplined to be useful in His service.

But to know to do good and do it not is sin. James 4:17. Can a man take fire to his bosom and not be burned? Proverbs 6:27. Every prudent man dealeth with knowledge, but a fool layeth open his folly. Proverbs 13:16. Poverty and shame shall be to him that refuses instruction. (Verse 18)

A fool hath no delight in understanding but that his heart may discover itself. Proverbs 18:2. He also that is slothful in his work is brother to him that is a great waster. (Verse 9).

I would be hard pressed to call anyone a Christian who did not do everything possible on the farm to prevent disease from spreading both in your own herds and flocks, and onto neighbor's herds and flocks, especially down stream, or down wind. In addition, if your animals and flocks are sick or carrying disease the food you produce for God's children in the cities may very well make them sick.

Biosecurity is simply doing all you can to protect your animals and flocks from getting sick. To keep your place clean and spread a little disinfectant around from time to time should not be that much of a conflict with a man or woman's religion, I would not think.

Farmers Invited To Dairy Focus

HONESDALE (Wayne Co.) — Dairy farmers are invited to a Dairy Focus Forum on June 22 at the Large Group Instruction Room at the Honesdale High School from 1 to 3:30 p.m. Local and state legislators have also been invited.

This meeting came out of the plight of our local dairy farmers who find it hard to stay in business with the current milk prices. Some topics to be discussed include the importance of agriculture to the economy of the state and Wayne County, as well as the importance of developing a vision statement to make sure agriculture remains in Wayne County.

Other topics to be discussed include having a Dairy Advocate in the county and improving incentives for Agricultural businesses in Pennsylvania. There will be two panels where producers will tell of their experiences starting to farm in Wayne County and incentives offered by other states to encourage farmers to come to their area.

The general public is invited to show their support for their local dairy industry. The dairy princess, Allison Mignerey, and her court will be at this meeting promoting the dairy industry serving milk, cheese, and ice cream. More information about this meeting can be obtained from the Wayne County Chamber of Commerce at 570-253-1960.

Dairy Promotions Shine In Summer

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — While dairy farmers use the long days of summer to toil the soil, their local dairy promotion organization is gearing up for a season of promoting milk in the local markets. The Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program has a myriad of events planned to meet a wide realm of public interests.

Jump starting the sizzling season of events is Pennsylvania's Special Olympics, Thursday, June 8, through Saturday, June 10, in State College. Special Olympics Pennsylvania (SOPA) provides year-round training and competition in 23 Olympic-type sports to more than 27,000 children and adults with mental retardation or closely related developmental disabilities. PDPP promotes dairy with a series of "got milk?"® banners placed around the track and field events, one of the most highly visited and visible locations during the week.

"We believe that not only do Pennsylvania dairy farmers benefit from additional exposure of our "got milk?"® campaign, but we are proud to support the brave athletes of Special Olympics of Pennsylvania," said Debra Summerall, spokesperson for PDPP.

What would summer be without ice cream? June Dairy Month is the perfect excuse for a celebration on the steps of the State Capitol in Harrisburg. The 2000 event will run noon to 1 p.m., Wednesday, June 7. In cooperation with the American Dairy Association & Dairy Council Middle Atlantic and the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, a celebrity "milk mustache" contest for local media personalities has been organized.

"We are anticipating to feed ice cream to more than 2,000 people while promoting the dairy industry in Pennsylvania," said Summerall.

Green's Ice Cream is supporting the event by donating 126 gallons of ice cream. The sundae will be topped off with five gallons of nuts, donated by J S Zimmerman Company of Penbrook, and ten gallons of chocolate and five gallons of Classic Carmel syrup donated by Hershey Foods. Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture Samuel Hayes will present a proclamation declaring June as Dairy Month, issued by Governor Tom Ridge, to PDPP Chairman Richard Waybright during the event to honor the accomplishments of the Keystone State's dairy industry.

In addition, PDPP is a proud annual sponsor of youth activities during Williamsport Crosscutters and Erie Seawolves games. "Displaying the "got milk?"™ campaign at ballparks in Pennsylvania is a fun and exciting promotion for young children," said Summerall. "Our goal is to urge these children at an early age to create good nutritional habits, including drinking milk, that last throughout adulthood."

New for 2000, PDPP is sponsoring a Dairy Night at the Altoona Curve baseball stadium. The promotion will include "got milk?"™ coolers to the first 1500 people over age 18, a celebrity cow milking contest before the game and extensive advertisement.

"We are very excited about this opportunity to promote not only Pennsylvania's official beverage - milk - but the dairy farming community of Blair County," said Summerall. "It will be a fun evening that will bring together urban and rural life."

USDA Proposes Inspection, Certification Program For Livestock, Poultry Process Equipment

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The USDA recently announced proposed regulations for a voluntary, user-fee-funded program to inspect and certify equipment used to process livestock and poultry products.

"This service will provide buyers of equipment inspected and certified by this program with a third party assurance that the equipment meets minimum requirements for cleanability, suitability of materials used in construction, durability and inspectability," said Kathleen A. Merrigan, administrator of USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service.

Under this voluntary, user-fee-funded program, AMS will provide for the inspection and certification of livestock and poultry processing equipment to sanitary design standards developed by the NSF/3-A joint committee on food processing equipment, a voluntary consensus standards body.

AMS estimates that there are approximately 2,000 equipment manufacturers that could benefit from this proposed marketing program. Development of this program was authorized under the provisions of the 1999 Agricultural Appropriations Act, and will be conducted under the authority of the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1946.

Facility Siting: Building Long-Term Relationships That Work

Wenger was careful to note there are millions of issues regarding siting and he said he was no expert.

The methods used in the past have been wrought with stubbornness and ill- timed decisions that have sometimes been kept out of public consideration. The resulting lawsuits and financial problems prove that past thinking "is not working," said Wenger. "We have to engage the public, and we have to do that honestly."

The key is to separate the quantifiable, engineered, permitted ideas and that "mindset," he said, from items hard to quantify — public reaction to a building going in on farmland.

In what ways does the public benefit? Wenger asked those at the seminar. "It's not that the public is stupid," he said. "It's not that they are even so much ignorant. It's just that they don't have a clue of what we're doing. They don't have any idea of what we're talking about. They don't even know what these farms look like, in many cases."

Wenger pointed to one case where even a simple thing such as farm tour for the community decision-makers would have done some good. Despite some best efforts, the old ways of thinking, however, remain.

"What we're doing over and over and over is creating win-/lose situations, we versus they, we win, they lose, they win, we lose, and does any of this sound familiar at all?"

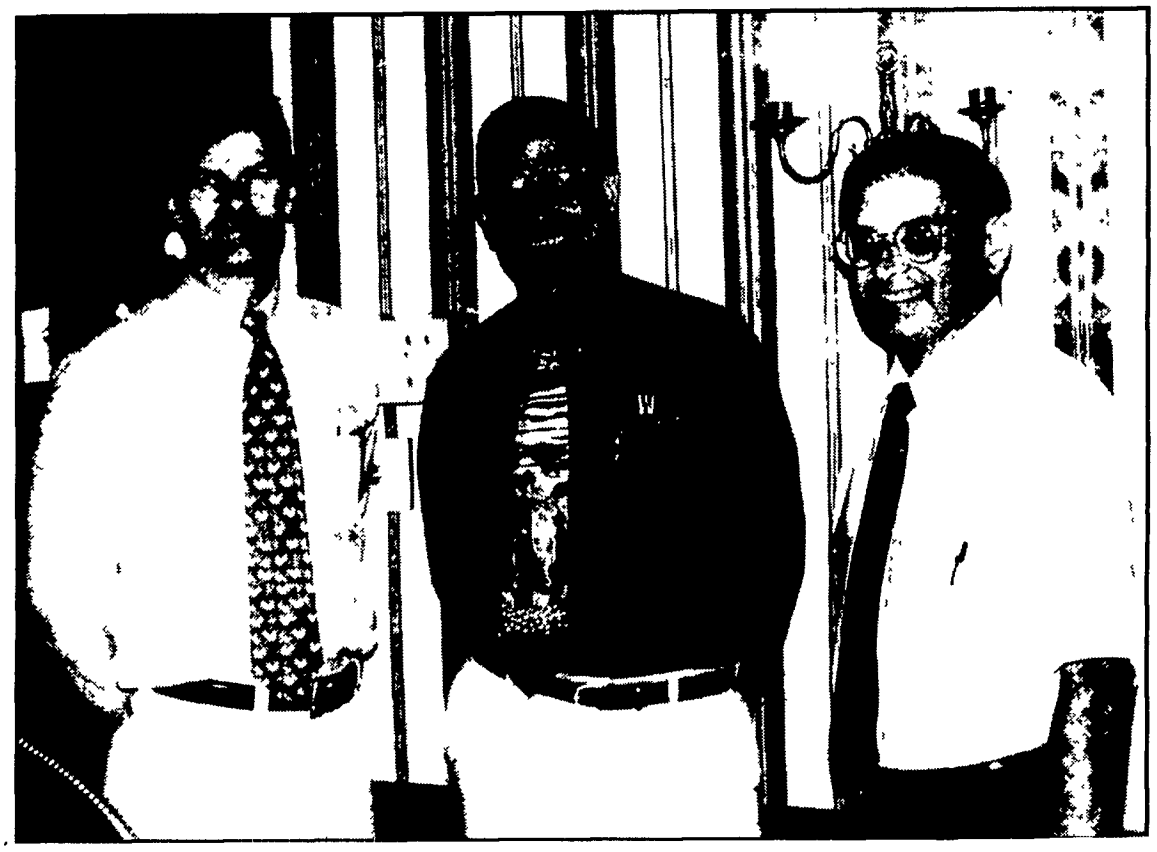
The public is angry, sometimes, and that anger could be identified three different ways. It could be fear of "'we're going to do something that's going to harm you,'" said Wenger. Or "'we're doing something that's already harmed you,'" he noted. Or the public simply could be angry about a principle of opposition.

When everything is factored in, one important point that can't be overlooked is the inherent risk.

"Why should anybody want to take risk?" he said, looking toward those attending the seminar. "I'm going to put a hog barn next to you — why do you want to take the risk that it's going to stink? What am I going to offer you?

"You like what you see, you like your way of life. What's your incentive to take a risk? You don't like what it looks like. You got a beautiful view here of this field — I'm going to put a chicken house there, you can't see that anymore. I'm not going to spread any manure except twice a year — you gonna trust me? Never had a spill — trust me? Never had a fly problem — trust me? We 'don't operate that way' — trust me?

"What do we promise these people when we come into a community? Why should they even want us to come in? What do we tell them? Jobs?" Wenger pointed to the already low unemployment that exists, with plenty of work for people who want it. "What reason have we given them to accept us?" he said.



Before moving any ground, said Al Wenger of Wenger Feeds, Rheems, center, "talk to nearby neighbors personally and early," he told about three dozen poultry producers and agri-industry representatives Monday afternoon. At left is Paul Patterson, Penn State poultry professor and at right, John Schwartz, Lancaster County extension director. Photo by Andy Andrews

In many cases, all the neighbors see is traffic, smell, dirty water, loss of privacy, and other things.

"Before we do anything," said Wenger, "we have to get out in front of these things and be proactive. Being reactive — and we've been in many cases — trying to fix things after we find the community group is already mad at us . . . more importantly is to get out in front and talk to the community and talk to the neighbors proactively and talk about their concerns up front and be honest with them."

A business with a proposal for a confinement facility has to look further ahead. The business plan has to have all the plans completely drawn out, which includes site plans, pictures, line of site, winds, potential annoyances and how to deal with them, proposed solutions, and many tangible factors.

But going beyond that, even, could be key. That includes installing double- wide sets of evergreens, industrial landscaping, paving even the neighbor's farm lane — possible solutions to potential, long- term concerns.

Wenger said the business has to "think in terms of what value you can bring to your neighbor for you being there."

And before you push even a pound of dirt, Wenger said it may be a good idea to get water samples from neighbors' wells. Or even have the land and neighborhood property assessed.

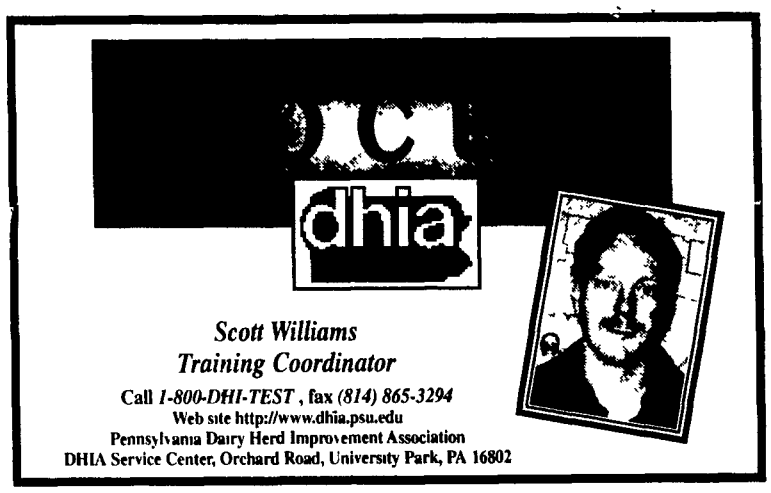
Drinks by DFA Dairy Farmers of America



Question: When unexplained and unexpected drops in milk production occur, what should we look at first?

This is the question that I asked myself a few weeks ago. I was looking at data from a herd that was down in milk and did not know why. The cows told me that this was real and not just a perception because of the staleness of the herd and extended days in milk. Just as a refresher, this herd stayed stable at 197 DIM and the percentage days in milk was increasing. At the same time, they also saw a 12+-pound drop in milk.

As I proceeded with possibilities that would make this happen I kept thinking that nutrition had to be the cause. The drought in the area has hastened more than normal changes in forage and I concentrated on this fact. I asked many questions and the answers were as I expected. I should have known from working with this herd in the past that they react to changes as any good manager would. I also knew that their nutritionist is exceptional and probably all these questions had already been asked. I was hoping that some detail had been overlooked and the answer would be easy.

We scheduled a farm visit and a week before the visit the dairyman called to say that they thought they stumbled onto the problem. A water sample was analyzed and what they found appeared to fit the production problem. The coliform count of the water was 21. In addition, the coliform count was made up of 12 from fecal contamination. The farm already has an ultraviolet light system for water treatment. This system seemed to fail largely due to the inability to keep buildup off the system. They reacted quickly and installed a chlorinating system from a local water treatment company.

When I got to the farm one week after this installation, the cows were already showing a considerable response. Bulk tank shipments were up every milking and it was noted that individual cows would come to the parlor leaking milk. This was a welcome sign to the dairy family. Did the water change in the past few months due to the drought conditions?

I did some research into what is considered good water from a coliform standpoint. Of course for human consumption, the coliform count should be less than one. Cows are given a bit more leadway at a range of 20 to 50 before problems occur. Calves need water that is also less than one in coliform count. Since most dairy farms share water between people and animals, it is advisable to check these levels and ensure that they are below one.

Water is the most used nutrient by our cows and yet the most overlooked. I felt somewhat stupid for falling into the trap of taking something like water quality for granted. Most of my years were spent actively dairying with the use of city water and I did not have to worry about coliform or other water considerations other than taste. If you to stop to think that an average black and white cow producing as little as 50 pounds per day will need 24 to 27 gallons water, then you may be like me and vow not to take water for granted any longer.

and "gain their confidence," said Wenger.

"But you have to get to them early, you have to get to them intelligently, and you have to treat them (right) and share some power and contact and meet (with them)," he said. This involves a lot more than simply attending the township meeting and "taking out an ad in the paper."

And if you bully that small percentage that are against any type of development, or opposed to large-scale family farms, "you're done," he noted, with lost community confidence.

"Act responsibly, admit mistakes, and share power," Wenger said.

"What would you pay not to have your company demonstrated against in the capitol of the state? Is that worth a thousand dollars? Five? Ten?

"It's not just a permit that you're after. We're talking about a long-term relationship with your neighbors, your community. You have something you can build upon.

"You can't take shortcuts on this. If you take shortcuts on this, you'll pay later."

Wenger said what was done in the past didn't work. "And it continues to get us in bigger and bigger trouble," he said. We have to be smarter businesspeople and farmers, and better neighbors.

Ag Progress Days Aug. 15-17

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Penn State is well known for its contributions to the science and technology that drive our food and fiber system, and some of the university's recent inventions and innovations will be on display at Penn State's Ag Progress Days, Aug. 15-17.

Sponsored by the College of Agricultural Sciences, the event is conducted at Rockspring, nine miles southwest of State College on Rt. 45.

"Tools and processes developed by Penn State researchers have played a large role in making agriculture and related industries Pennsylvania's top economic sector," said Ag Progress Days manager Bob Oberheim. "We're planning interactive exhibits that will give folks a hands-on look at some recent Penn State innovations, from turfgrass mulch made from paper to a machine that makes egg shell waste valuabl by separating the shells from their inner membrane."

Other new attractions planned for this year's event include a farm equipment manufacturers' "show and-tell'; a farm vehicle and equipment highway safety work shop; a "horseless" equine skill-a-thon for youth; field demonstrations of corn and grain planters, and rakes and tedders; and an outdoor Pasto Agricultural Museum exhibit of animal-powered farm tools.

Oberheim said returning field demonstrations will include hay mowing, baling, bale handling, a skid steer rodeo, and a special high-tunnel vegetable production tour.

Other exhibits, tours, and workshops will feature cutting-edge research and information on crops and soils, animal science, dairy and livestock production, integrated pest management, farm safety, conservation practices and woodlot management. More than 325 commercial and non-commercial exhibitors also will be on hand to display the latest goods and services.

In addition, a variety of family and consumer-oriented attractions are planned, including family living exhibits and demonstrations, an expanded corn maze, cut flower beds and exhibits, storytelling, horse exhibitions, live animal and insect displays, lawn and garden advice, and antiques exhibits.

Penn State's Ag Progress Days features more than 500 acres of educational and commercial exhibits, tours, and machinery demonstrations. It is conducted at the Russell E. Larson Agricultural Research Center at Rockspring, nine miles southwest of State College on Rt. 45. Hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Tuesday, 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Wednesday, and 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Thursday. Admission and parking are free.

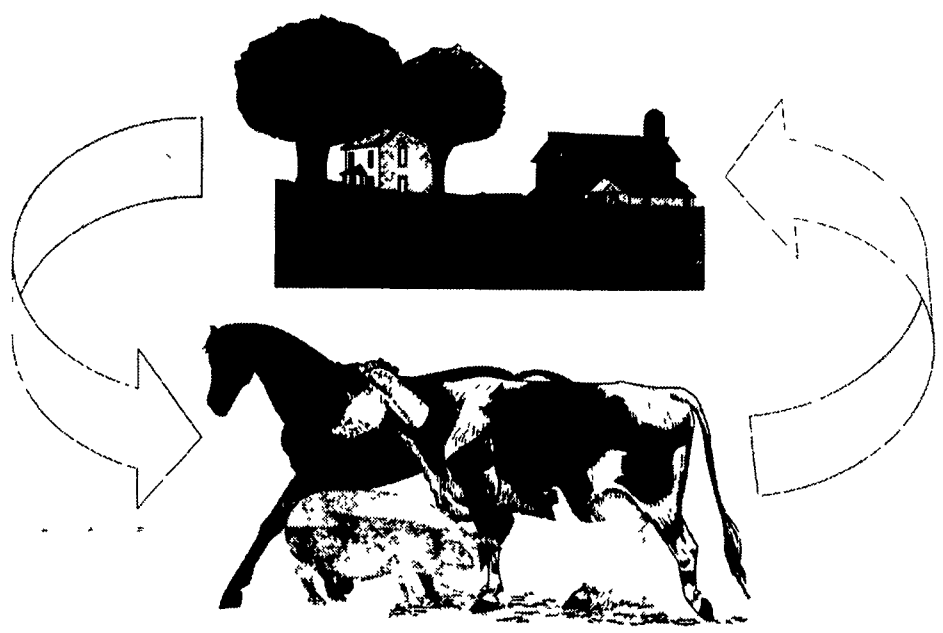
Nutrient Management Reference Guide



A reference guide for farmers and nutrient management planners on the new revised regulations as authorized by the Pennsylvania Conservation Commission in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Protection, Penn State University, county cooperative extension, and county soil conservation districts.

This 40+ page, 8 ½ x 11-inch book will include introduction of recent changes in the nutrient management laws, a checklist to develop a Nutrient Management Plan, and descriptions of CAFOs and AFOs along with help to determine your farm's status. In addition, a list of the county conservation districts and commercial nutrient management specialists will be given with contact resources.

Not only will this guide be inserted into the Aug. 19, 2000 issue of Lancaster Farming, the books will be made available at Empire Days, Ag Progress Days, All American Dai Show, Keystone International Livestock Exposition, Keystone Farm Show 2001 a. Pennsylvania Farm Show 2001.

Vitamin E, Selenium and Milk Quality

Normal body processes, environmental insults (such as mycotoxins, nitrates, solar radiation) and inflammatory conditions all produce "free radicals," a reactive oxygen species in the body's metabolism. The body defends itself against these assaults with its so-called antioxidant system. The system consists of three powerful enzymes, which contain copper, zinc, manganese, selenium and iron elements, plus vitamin E and carotene; their function is to convert free radicals to water and break fatty acid peroxidation chain reactions. Vitamin E and selenium have been found to be most effective in this process.

When pathogens invade the mammary gland, white blood cells (neutrophils) swarm to the infection site, trying to engulf (phagocytosis) and kill the bacteria with a chemical reaction. This reaction produces a high concentration of free radicals. While it helps kill the bacteria, it also can damage and kill the neutrophils. As part of the inflammatory response, other white blood cells (macrophages) also move to the infection site to kill bacteria and produce antibodies against them.

Vitamin E supplementation in research with dairy cows has consistently improved the function of neutrophils. Cows during the time before and after calving have a depressed immune system, making them extremely susceptible to intramammary gland infection. During this time, cows are also low in plasma vitamin E levels. Vitamin E supplementation eliminates the depression of neutrophil function during the time before and after calving.

Daily selenium supplementation at 0.1 ppm also has improved neutrophil function. Neutrophils from cows supplemented with 0.3 ppm selenium during the dry period and first 30 days of lactation had a greater killing ability against E. coli and S. aureus bacteria, some of the major mammary gland pathogens. Vitamin E feeding at 1,000 international units (IU)/day reduced the incidence and duration of mastitus, but the largest response came from the combination of selenium and vitamin E supplementation. Infections were reduced by 42 percent and clinical mastitis by 32 percent, especially the first three months of lactation. In Ohio studies, when 4,000 IU vitamin E/day were fed with adequate selenium, the reduction of clinical mastitis was 80 percent.

It has also been found that plasma selenium levels have a significant negative correlation with bulk tank somatic cell counts and that vitamin E plus selenium supplementation reduce the number of cows with elevated somatic cell counts above 200,000 by 70 percent. When cows had blood plasma levels of less than 3 microgram vitamin E/milliliter, their likelihood of having clinical mastitis was nine times greater than when the level was above three micrograms. Finally, vitamin E supplementation increased the vitamin E content of colostrum and, thereby, calf health.

Blood plasma levels of selenium and vitamin E are reliable indicators of the status of cows. Based on a reduction of retained placenta and mammary gland health, it has been recommended that selenium levels should be more than 0.075 microgram/milliliter blood serum or more than 0.20 microgram-/milliliter of whole blood. Vitamin E levels of cows at calving should be at least 3.5 microgram/millliliter blood plasma. Calves, heifers, and lactating and dry cows should be fed a supplement daily of 0.3 ppm selenium, especially where the soils are deficient. Additional 50 milligram injections three weeks before calving may also help.

Most concentrate feeds are low in vitamin E. Raw soybeans are a good source, but roasting destroys most of it. Fresh green forage is a good source with about 100 IU/pound of dry matter. Hays and silages have very little vitamin E. Dry cows should be supplemented with 1,000 IU vitamin E/day, and lactating cows with at least 500 IU. The cost may be $0.02/cow/day, compared with the great potential benefit.

Mastitis is still a costly disease in the United States. Veterinary and drug costs, lost production and dumped milk have been estimated on average at a 100-cow herd for clinical and subclinical cases combined—about $17,500/year. Thus, the economic benefit from vitamin E plus selenium supplementation can be significant, especially in the current milk price squeeze situation.

In principal, the benefits of selenium and vitamin E supplementation also apply to dairy goats and dairy sheep. Vitamin E and selenium supplementation also improves milk quality for human consumption and reduces oxidative flavor problems, an added, but not unimportant benefit.

$450,000 In Gifts

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Six gifts totaling $450,000 have bolstered Penn State's plans to build a new food sciences building at the University Park campus.

The new facility, to be built with a combination of state and private funds, will help the Department of Food Science better serve Pennsylvania's food processing and manufacturing industry, which includes more than 2,300 companies employing 90,000 workers.

Making commitments for the new building were:

• Del Grosso Foods, Tipton. Founded by Ferdinand J. and Mafalda M. Del Grosso in 1946 when they began to sell their family's pasta sauce, Del Grosso Foods now sells 3 million cases of tomato-based sauces and plans to expand into frozen foods.

• Roger and Barbara Claypoole, of Worthington. Roger Claypoole is the general partner of Creekside Mushrooms Limited, grower and marketer of Moonlight Mushrooms. He earned bachelor's and master's degrees in agriculture from Penn State in 1970 and 1971, respectively. The gift was made in memory of his father, Henry W. Claypoole, and uncle, Harold M. Claypoole, Penn State alumni.

• Wenger's Feed Mill Inc., Rheems, a producer of poultry and swine feeds. Founded in 1944 by Melvin M. Wenger, the organization operates a network of feed mills located in Pennsylvania and neighboring states.

• Horace Woodward, Mendenhall. Woodward recently retired from farming, having raised poultry, dairy cattle, and fruit on a farm that has been in the Woodward family since 1906. He is a 1928 Penn State graduate in agriculture.

• Carol Thoele-Williams and Richard C. Williams in memory of their father, Dr. Howard W. Thoele, former professor of dairy science and senior associate dean emeritus of the College of Agricultural Sciences.

• Barry and Rosemary Zoumas, State College. Barry Zoumas is the Alan R. Warehime Professor in the College of Agricultural Sciences. Formerly vice president for science and technology at Hershey Foods, he has master's and doctoral degrees in nutrition from Penn State.

USDA Co-Sponsors Export Logistics Seminar

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The USDA recently announced an upcoming seminar designed to help shippers of high-value agricultural products establish and expand overseas markets.

The seminar, "Export Excellence," which will be jointly sponsored by USDA and the American Institute for Shippers' Associations (AISA), will take place Aug. 8 at the Silverado Hotel in Napa, Calif., in conjunction with AISA's 40th Annual Meeting.

"The seminar represents an exceptional one-stop shopping' opportunity for anyone currently involved in or eager to learn about participating in international trade," said Kathleen Merrigan, administrator of USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service. "It will give exporters the information they need to compete in today's fast-paced global marketplace."

The program will feature a series of speakers addressing a broad range of topics, such as export market development, government assistance programs, shippers' associations, port services, and the latest in logistics technology.

"Small- and medium-size shippers and exporters, in particular, will be able to learn how they can export more effectively through cooperative shipping or shippers' associations," said Merrigan. "By pooling cargo, shippers can reduce their transportation costs and improve the logistical services they receive."

Both public- and private-sector international trade, regulatory, legal, and marketing specialists will address the gathering. Among the speakers will be Joseph Rallo, director, International Department, The Wine Institute; Geoffrey Giovanetti, managing director, the Wine and Spirits Shippers Association; Jean-Jacques Francoulon, president of U.S. operations, J.F. Hillebrand Group; and Steven Ballas, director of the North American Shippers Association.

Information on the seminar may be obtained by contacting Heidi Reichert, Shipper and Exporter Assistance, Transportation and Marketing Programs, Agricultural Marketing Service, USDA, Room 1217-S, 1400 Independence Avenue, SW, Washington, DC 20250-0267; telephone (202) 690-2325, e-mail heidi.reichert@usda.gov or on the AISA website at www.shippers.org.

Corn Conference Showcases Grower Checkoff-Funded Research

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — About 600 leaders in the corn industry took a long hard look into the future of corn processing at the Corn Utilization and Technology Conference (CUTC) June 5-7 in St. Paul, Minn.

Part of that future was revealed in reports on polyols, butanol, and extremophile research, studies funded by U.S. corn growers through checkoff dollars.

Jointly hosted by the National Corn Growers Association (NCGA) and the Corn Refiners Association (CRA), the CUTC gave corn growers, corn refiners, researchers and industry and government representatives the opportunity to explore new uses for corn, share technological techniques and discuss new ideas and methods for corn processing. NCGA grower-leaders and staff members who represent corn checkoff boards gained knowledge that will help them continue to invest grower funds in research.

"Corn growers directly benefit from conferences such as this," said Lee Klein, president-elect of NCGA and a farmer from Battle Creek, Neb. "The techniques and opportunities discussed here in the general sessions and in casual conversations in the halls will increase the use of corn and help add to its value. And that value will be seen at the farm."

Said Rene Shunk, NCGA director of business development and corn processing research, "The CUTC is the one place that all people connected with corn production and processing can meet for one purpose: to discuss the uses of corn."

The conference once again emphasized the international business of corn and corn processing. The attendees represented 17 nations that ring the world, such as Argentina, United Kingdom, Austria, France, Israel, China, Japan, and South Korea.

Another conference highlight was the presentation of the CRA/NCGA award for Lifetime Achievement in Corn Utilization to Ernie S. Micek, Cargill president and chairman who will retire later this year. In presenting the award, Kyd Brenner, CRA vice president, noted Micek's contributions to the members of both organizations by reinvigorating the CRA research program and supporting CUTC to bring together the technical minds of the industry.

"Along the way he did a couple of things for Cargill and corn milling as well, such as overseeing the efforts to build the Eddyville, Iowa, and Blair, Neb., milling plants and leading a diversification and growth that has led to literally hundreds of millions of bushels of new corn demand," Brenner said.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. — In a bold move, the American Gelbvieh Junior Association is upping the ante at its annual National Junior Classic by opening the Judging Contest to 4-H, FFA, and collegiate teams.

The 2000 AGJA Hillbilly Classic is set for July 11-15 in Springfield, Mo.

Participants will compete for a chance to win cash prizes, and the top individual in each division will win a Gelbvieh heifer. Farms donating heifers for this contest include Burbank Cattle Company, St. Catharine, Mo.,; Judd Ranch, Inc., Pomona, Kan.; Lawson Farms, Tuscumbia, Mo.; Rogers Valley Farm Gelbvieh, Mendan, Mo.; Sea-J Farms, Everton, Mo.; and Thousand Oaks Polled Gelbvieh, Neosho, Mo.

Each team is comprised of four members and each member's score counts towards the team total. The judging contest will consist of six classes of breeding females, bulls and market steers. Performance data may be provided to assist contestants in placing some classes.

Oral reasons will be given on two classes in the intermediate (12 to 15 years) and senior (16 to 21 years) divisions. All juniors (8 to 11 years) will give oral reasons on one class. The Southwest Missouri State University Judging Team is coordinating the contest.

The Judging Contest will begin on July 12 at 10 a.m. at the Ozark Empire Fairgrounds in Springfield. Contact Bob Weaber at 303-465-2333 or email him at bobw@gelbvieh.org for information on registering a non-AGJA team.

The American Gelbvieh Junior Association serves 1,100 members ages 5 to 21 with a comprehensive youth education and leadership development program.

For more information on the AGJA or the Hillbilly Classic, call 303-465-2333 or visit the Gelbvieh website at www.gelbvieh.org.

Pa. Farm Bureau Legal Fund Kicks Off Statewide Campaign

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) — The Pennsylvania Farm Bureau's Legal Fund is kicking off its statewide fundraising campaign.

The nonprofit fund, established in 1986, was designed to provide financial assistance to individuals who are involved in legal cases that have the potential to establish case law of particular importance to the agriculture community.

"The cost of legal challenges not only in terms of dollars, but also to the future of the agriculture industry can be devastating. A recent successful defense of the state nutrient management law's preemption over local ordinances in Bradford County cost agriculture $80,000," said Kent Shelhamer, Senior Chair of the Legal Fund.

The Legal Fund has been involved with defending the legality of the Agricultural Area Security Law and its authority to disapprove proposed condemnations of farmland in ag security areas. In addition, the fund has also worked on interpreting whether unhired persons can become "employees" of a farmer by merely performing labor on the farm. Interpreting federal and state seasonal farm labor laws and the scope of protections provided under the Right to Farm Law have also been evaluated by PFB's Legal Fund.

"The agricultural community needs to work together to protect the economic and social foundation of the entire industry. One legal ruling that results in adverse consequences for one component of the industry can have an impact on the whole agricultural system. If a farmer is adversely affected, ultimately the agribusinesses and consumers will feel the consequences and vice versa. Our agricultural industry in Pennsylvania is a network comprised of many different links," said Shelhamer.

The Legal Fund, controlled by a farmer board of directors, hopes to raise $20,000 through donations to help support the Fund's mission.

If you are interested in learning more about the PFB Legal Fund, call 717-761-2740. Contributions are tax deductible and can be considered an investment in the agriculture industry.

Milk: Great Ingredient for Happy Families

You've heard of children who don't want to eat meat or vegetables. But have you ever heard of any who don't like dairy products?

Cheese, pudding, ice cream, macaroni and cheese, the list goes on, are favorite foods of children everywhere. Again and again, your letters say how much your family loves dishes made with dairy products.

Your recipe entries for the Dairy Recipe Drawing salute dairy farmers who work hard providing milk for America's favorite foods.

This is the third week, entries from the dairy recipe contest appear. The final installation will be printed next week. So, get your scissors. Clip these recipes that are sure to become your family's favorite also.

BROCCOLI HAM HOT DISH

20-ounces frozen cut broccoli
2 cups cooked rice
6 tablespoons butter
2 cups fresh bread crumbs
1 medium onion, chopped
3 tablespoons all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
3 cups milk
1½ pounds fully-cooked ham, cubed
Shredded cheddar or Swiss cheese

Cook broccoli according to package directions, drain. Spoon rice into a 13x9x2-inch baking dish. Place broccoli over rice. Melt butter in large skillet. Sprinkle 2 tablespoons butter over bread crumbs; set aside. In remaining butter, saute onion until soft. Add flour, salt, and pepper, stirring constantly until bubbly. Stir in milk and continue cooking until sauce thickens and bubbles. Cook and stir for one minute; add ham and heat thoroughly. Pour over rice and broccoli. Sprinkle the crumbs over all.

Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Sprinkle with cheese; let stand 5 minutes before serving.

I love to cook one-dish casseroles like the one above; especially since we have a houseful of active little boys. My husband and I have three boys, Jesse, 5; Joel, 2½, and Jeremy, 1. We live on a dairy farm and milk between 90-100 cows.

MAC AND CHEESE CASSEROLE

2 cups elbow macaroni, cooked
¼ cup butter
¼ cup flour
¼ teaspoon salt and pepper
2½ cups milk
2 cups white shredded cheddar cheese
½ cup bread crumbs

Heat oven to 350 degrees. In large saucepan over medium heat, melt butter. Blend in flour, salt, and pepper. Gradually stir in milk. Cook stirring constantly, until sauce thickens and mixture begins to boil. Add cheese; stir until cheese is melted. In 1½-quart casserole, stir together pasta and cheese sauce. Cover with bread crumbs and bake 30 minutes or until bubbly.

I hope you enjoy this recipe as much as I do. I have made this recipe since I was ten. It's easy to make and delicious to eat.

I have loved to cook ever since I was little. I am one of four children. When we turned ten years old, my mother gave us each a

Hey Dad, You're the Greatest!

LAMPETER (Lancaster Co.) — Father's Day comes once a year, but being a father requires year-round commitment.

Chet Hughes, Lancaster County extension livestock agent, takes fathering seriously. He and his wife, Marie, want their children Allison, 14, and Andy, 11, to become confident, responsible teenagers and adults.

According to research compiled by the National Center for Fathering (NCF), the way a dad treats his son and daughter has lasting effects throughout their lives.

Time is a commodity that Hughes sets aside to give his children. This requires some preplanning. For example, his children are active in 4-H. Allison raises sheep and Andy raises hogs. So each year, Hughes and Allison go on a day long trip to Fayette County in search of the perfect sheep.

"We talk about everything. He's easy to talk to," Allison said of their car conversations.

On another day, Hughes and Andy take a trip to an annual pig sale in search of a potentially ribbon-clenching hog.

Since Hughes is a 4-H livestock agent, he suspects some people think he coerces his children into 4-H activities.

"I don't," he said. "Marie and I encourage the kids to be involved with many different experiences and activities."

Varied experiences, the parents believe, help their children determine their natural abilities and the interests they want to pursue.

Sports, playing musical instruments, and involvement in school plays are some of the activities the children have pursued. Allison has participated in field hockey, basketball, and track, but she has curtailed sports involvement to pursue her love for school plays. She played a major role in Annie, when her school put on that show and loved it.

"I'd be an actress if I could

(Turn to Page B3)

Hey Dad, You're The Greatest

make it," Allison said, "but academics is important to me also."

Allison is often accused of being a perfectionist, which no doubt accounts for her excelling scholastically, especially in science. Public speaking is also her forte.

She credits this skill to 4-H. As a member of the livestock judging team, Allison has learned to express her opinions. This has given her more confidence to speak out as a member of the school social studies debate team.

While the kids have been active in many sports, their dad is doing much more than sitting on the sidelines cheering for them. He's coached soccer and basketball for both Allison's and Andy's team, and is now coaching his son's baseball team. Hughes continues as the livestock judging coach.

"My dad treats us really fair," Allison of having her dad as both a sports and as a livestock coach.

Although some people believe that Hughes pushes his children into 4-H programs, they say it is their choice. Both dropped out of Scouts in favor of 4-H clubs.

"At some point, choices must be made because too many activities can be overwhelming," Hughes said.

"I feel fortunate that my job is flexible enough to allow me to attend school activities."

Attending school activities should be a priority, according to fathering studies. A survey of more than 20,000 parents found that when fathers are involved in their children's education, including attending school meetings, and volunteering at school, children were more likely to get A's, enjoy school, and participate in extracurricular activities.

The Hughes kids confirm this finding reported by the National Center for Fathering (NCF). It's goal is to help men be better fathers. For more information about NCF, check out their website at www.fathers.com or call (800) 593-DADS.

Father's Day is a good time to review some facts and misconceptions about fathering. Some people mistakenly believe that a girl doesn't need much attention from her father, but research shows that a father and daughter relationship is necessary for healthy relationships with others.

If a girl can't trust her father, she tends to see all men as inconsistent, dishonest, and irresponsible.

Studies have proven that physical touch makes children feel better both physiologically and psychologically. Daughters, especially, need physical affection from their fathers. Teenagers who are promiscuous, most often, report having a poor relationship with their fathers, and this is their way of searching for love and attention.

Not only is it important for men to develop a strong attachment with their children but also they need to treat the children's mother with respect.

If a son sees his dad mistreat his mom, he'll likely grow up believing it's okay to get angry and mistreat women. On the other hand, if a son observes his father apologizing after becoming angry, he gets an entirely different perspective of manhood.

"On Mother's Day, everyone comes here and I cook," Hughes said.

On Father's Day, according to family tradition, the Hughes will go to a relative's home where about 30 family members gather to honor the event.

Allison and Andy didn't divulge what they had planned to honor their dad, but Andy said, "My dad's really a great dad."

Allison echoed those sentiments by giving her dad a pat on the knee. "Yeah, Dad, you're pretty great," she said.

4-H'ers Learn Citizenship In Harrisburg

120 students from across the state recently participated in the Pennsylvania State 4-H Capital Days, an annual citizenship awareness event, held May 1 and 2 at the Hilton and Towers, Harrisburg.

The two-day program showed 4-H'ers how state government works and helped them understand their responsibilities as citizens. 4-H members from each county were selected through an application process.

On Monday, May 1, the 4-H'ers visited 11 state agencies, including the departments of agriculture, transportation, education, and commerce. Following their visits, they took part in a simulation workshop in which they wrote grant proposals up to $100,000 and created a budget related to one of the agencies. The students then presented their proposals to a three-person panel.

At the Monday evening banquet, Pat Wolff, senior director of the American Farm Bureau Federation, spoke to the group about advocacy efforts. On Tuesday, the 4-H'ers joined 85 legislators at a legislative breakfast. They were addressed by

Other than brides, graduations, and strawberries. And, roses compliment all those, too.

For years, I attempted to grow picture-pretty roses. While I never spent a fortune on them, they still account for considerable time investment over the years of purchases, plantings, and thwarted results. Over the past many years, I've planted and planted them in the lower, sunsplashed section of the lawn border, where the soil is rich and is the last to dry out, even in drought conditions. Containers of "rose care" additives have come and gone, leaving us with some of the healthiest looking dead rose stumps around in that area of flower bed, where roses just ought to thrive.

Most of the garden-backbone perennials and bushes do fine in our garden. Iris have thrived and reproduced until several large clumps are almost demanding separation. Not a major challenge, since iris will grow just about anywhere they're not standing in water. Except for those water-loving types which thrive with damp feet, like the dainty white Siberians, which I had in the border for years, slowly diminishing in numbers, until I moved them to the edge of the first pond. Bursting with vigor, they rival similar relatives in yellow and sky blue for showiness.

Daylilies likewise thrive here. Of course, a daylily, especially the old-fashioned single orange types, make an effort to bloom even if dug up, tossed in a corner and ignored for awhile. Peony bushes return each year, hostas have nearly taken over several shady areas, and one section of border has grown into a thick tangle of blooming shrubs much loved by the mockingbirds. Especially as a launch spot for attacks on the blueberry bushes nearby.

But roses? Frankly, I'd just about given up on'em.

Except for two old reliables. One is a bright pink hybrid tea, which faithfully returns year after year, blooming off and on all summer long with almost no care. The other is also a bright pink, a plant which turned out to be a climber in a non-climbing location, sends out huge, thick arcing stems bearing almost-lethal thorns, fairly "bug" resistant and yielding enough lovely flowers each year to keep tweaking my interest in these fussy things.

But, between the two, in about a 25-foot stretch, is no-man's-rose land. Just days ago, I unearthed and moved the faltering remnants of a fading clump of thorny-stems, offering one last shot to a faltering survivor. Having finally come to grips with the fact that there is an always-wet drain field under that area, I have given it over completely to annuals and bulbs. Two dozen dahlias are already thumbing their blooming noses at the persnickety rose remnants.

"To heck with roses," I had finally decided after seasons of repeated frustration.

So, when The Farmer lugged home some $2 leftover roses last year along with a supply of hardware and miscellaneous repair stuff, I wondered if I should bother. Then my eyes focused on a neglected section of potential around our old spring house, the lush weed growth testimony to rich, well-drained soil. A likely place for roses, I figured, ignoring the plant-no-more-roses vow I had made. These potted orphan-plants begged for a little Tender Loving Care.

Turned out these were not hybrid teas, but smaller bloomed floribundas which promise to be more durable and less persnickety. Sure enough, they survived the summer drought, warm-and-cold extremes of winter, spring's wide-ranging weather, and are poking up blooms and new growth.

Offering added encouragement is the pink-blooming climber, which has literally covered it's vigorous octopus-growth of jaggy stems with dozens of fat blooms, probably almost as many as the last five years combined. Maybe I CAN grow roses after all.

We shall see. Because I returned home from a couple-day meeting to discover on my way to the barn this morning an assortment of potted, left-over but lush rose bushes parked on the basement porch. Along with a four-foot-tall rose "tree." And I know where to put them so that they have a fightin' chance.

Wait "til I tell him that rose tree will need to be tucked into a trench next fall so its graft survives winter's zero temperatures.

Brianna Smith holds flowers from the cutting gardens at The Greensmith, owned by her mother Deb Smith. The Greensmith, Sand Hill Rd., Selinsgrove, allows customers to stroll through annual flowers, foliage, and herbs to pick their own bouquets or place custom orders. In addition, The Greensmith grows annual bedding plants, perennials, and flowering shrubs. They specialize in custom container gardens and sell unique "blooming antiques" — chairs, pails, watering cans, teapots — all overflowing with flowers and foliage. Ladies' Day Out MOUNT JOY (Lancaster Co.) — June 19 is set for the annual regional Ladies' Day Out for the Pennsylvania Farmers Association. Hosted by the Lancaster County Farm Bureau, a special day is planned for all women of the "agricultural persuasion", held at the Leola Family Restaurant.

The program for the day will include speaker Nancy Wiker who will answer the question "Who Gets Grandma's Yellow Pie Plate?" A luncheon complete with door prizes and other entertainment will allow time to spend at the shopping outlets nearby.

Tickets are $12 for the day. Send reservation to treasurer Esther Stoltzfus at 5675 Lincoln Hills Drive, Gap, Pa. 17527 or call her at (717) 442-4961.

Herb Fest To Feature Nationally-Known Speakers

Nationally-known speakers will teach on growing and using herbs in cooking, crafts, and medicine. About 65 herbal vendors and a herbal luncheon will be available. For more information, call (717) 528-7979.

Retirement Planning:
Top 10 List Of Things To Do

Avoid the predicament of beginning your retirement with big dreams, little savings, and no planning. Here are ten things you can do to help assure a successful retirement.

1. Set goals. What changes will occur in your life after retirement? Will you be moving to a smaller home or another state? Will you become a volunteer for various organizations? Will you take a part-time job or another full-time job doing what you've always wanted to do but couldn't afford to because of the lower pay? Do you want to take classes just for the joy of learning?

2. Start early. It is never too early to begin saving for retirement. By beginning your savings plan early, you take advantage of the benefit of compounding and growth of your investments making it much easier to reach your retirement goals.

3. Make inventory of assets you already have that are available for retirement income.

4. Estimate retirement expenses. Although one rule of thumb suggests you will need 70 to 80 percent of your pre-retirement income, you may want to analyze current expenses to see which ones would continue to be the same and which would change, whether decreasing or increasing. Will the mortgage be paid off? Will you have time to travel or for hobbies that you did not have before? A good record of current expenses examined individually may result in the best estimate. But remember it is only an estimate.

5. Estimate retirement income. The income you have available in retirement will depend on your current assets, how they grow, and the regular contributions to your retirement savings you make through the years. There are many calculators available on the web that will help you estimate future income. One simple version is at www.asec.com, the American Savings Education Council. The web sites of popular financial magazines such as Money or Kiplinger's Personal Finance and most mutual funds also have calculators.

6. Determine how to fill the gap. If you have a gap between what you will need as income and what you will have available, you will need to increase your contributions to your retirement account. The calculators can also help you set a target savings goal.

7. Make regular investments. Make savings a habit, not a once-in-a-while or when you get around-to-it kind of thing. The best way is an automatic transfer to your retirement account whether it is through an employer sponsored plan or an individual retirement account (IRA).

8. Take advantage of tax deferred retirement plans. Tax deferred plans include those known as 401(k), 403(b), 457, SEP, and Keogh, as well as several others. Their advantage is that the money goes in before being taxed. Neither the contribution nor the growth is taxed until it is withdrawn. Some employers have a matching plan where the employer matches a percentage of each additional dollar that an employee contributes to his or her retirement account. With a 25 percent matching plan, for example, you get an immediate risk-free 25 percent return on your investment. If at all possible take full advantage of the employer's matching plan.

9. Watch out for inflation. Being too cautious in investing for retirement can be as disastrous as taking too much risk. If you are not earning at a rate above inflation, you are losing ground each year. On the other hand, taking too much risk when you are nearing the time you will need the funds can also lead to trouble. Investment strategies that may be low risk for the long-term investor are high risk for the short-term investor.

10. Monitor investments but not every day. The market will go up and it will go down. To watch the market every day when you are investing for the long-term use unnecessary. But at least annually you should re-evaluate you investments. Are they doing what you want them to? Has your asset allocation shifted from your original goals? Read about and research you investments carefully.

Celebration of Quilts 2000 will present quilts made by members of the York Quilters and a sampling of 1,595 quilts included in the York County Quilt Documentation Project. Also featured is the 250th anniversary quilt made by Shelley Wilson and Carol Blevins and commissioned by the York County commissioners. A vendor's mall, silent auction, guild boutique, and raffle for the Flower Basket quilt pictured above. The show will be open June 24-25 at the York Expo Center, Carlisle Rd., York, from 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Admission is $5.

Milk: Ingredient For Happy Families

turn in the kitchen once a week to cook dinner. She always said when we got married, we would know how to cook. I think it taught me a love for cooking.

I have a wonderful husband named Jerry and two awesome children, Ryan, 4, and Kimberly, 2. I am a stay-at-home mom and I have been doing Pampered Chef parties for two years on the side. My husband drives truck hauling livestock for Ezra Good Trucking.

TAPIOCA PUDDING

3-4 ounces fat-free Jell-O tapioca pudding
8 cups milk
8-ounces whipped cream topping
Fresh strawberries (optional)

MOTHER'S TOASTED COCONUT CUSTARD PIE

9-inch pie shell
4 eggs, slightly beaten
½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
2 cups milk, scalded
1 cup shredded coconut, toasted to a golden brown

In a large bowl, beat eggs until light and lemon colored and add sugar gradually. Add salt, vanilla, and nutmeg. Pour some hot milk into eggs, and then pour all of egg mixture into hot milk, blend well, and add ½ cup coconut to mixture.

Pour into pie shell and top with remaining coconut. Bake at 450 degrees for 15 minutes, reduce heat to 325 degrees, and bake an additional 30 minutes. Yield one 9-inch pie.

Food Processor Method:

With steel knife in place, process eggs, sugar, salt, vanilla, and nutmeg until blended. With machine running gradually add hot milk in a slow stream until well combined. Add ½ cup coconut and process with 2-3 on-and-off bursts. Pour into pie shell, top with remaining coconut and bake as directed.

Our newest grandchild is Alicia Marie, 7 months. Her brother Brandon Todd is 2 years old. Their parents are Todd and Tara Stitzel. Mommy is a housewife and daddy teaches at Governor Mifflin.

Our other two grandchildren are Christopher Spatz, 9, and his sister Stephanie. Christopher is a student at Rockland Elementary in Dryville. He has just walked seven miles for the March of Dimes with his mother and grandmother. He and his family will be helping at a road rest for the multiple sclerosis. bikers near Oley. His daddy will bike it from Lancaster to Kutztown then back again.

Christopher's sister Stephanie helped with food and drinks at the walk with her dad. Their parents are Allen and Lori Spatz, Dryville. The whole family is involved with March of Dimes and the MS Bike Ride. Their father works at Luden's, a division of Hershey's and mother is a teacher at Daniel Boone Middle School.

Their pappy, mom-mom, and Uncle Tom also help with the MS bike run. We also enjoy doing this to help find a cure for MS and birth defects. Wouldn't you consider doing this next year?

CREAMY CHOCOLATE LACE CHEESECAKE

1½ cups chocolate cookie crumbs
½ cup finely chopped almonds
¼ cup butter, melted

Filling:
16-ounces cream cheese, softened
⅔ cup sugar
3 eggs
2 cups semi-sweet chocolate chips, melted, cooled
1 cup whipping cream
2 tablespoons butter, melted
1 teaspoon vanilla

Topping:
1 cup dairy sour cream
1½ teaspoons vanilla
1 teaspoon sugar
½-ounce unsweetened chocolate, melted

Heat oven to 325 degrees. Butter 9-inch springform pan. In large bowl, combine crust ingredients, mix well. Press in bottom and up sides of buttered pan, refrigerate.

In large bowl, beat cream cheese and ⅔ cup sugar at medium speed until smooth and creamy. At low speed, add eggs one at a time, beating just until blended. Add melted chocolate chips, beat well. Add whipping cream, 2 tablespoons butter, and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Beat until smooth. Pour into crust-lined pan. Bake for 55 to 65 minutes or until edges are set. Center of cheesecake will be soft. Cool in pan 5 minutes, carefully remove sides of pan. Cool completely.

In small bowl, combine sour cream, 1½ teaspoons vanilla, and 1 teaspoon sugar, stir until smooth. Spread over cooled cheesecake. Drizzle with half-ounce melted chocolate. Refrigerate several hours or overnight before serving. Garnish as desired. Store in refrigerator.

I love to bake and especially experiment with new recipes. This recipe for chocolate cheesecake is one I tried from a Pillsbury cookbook years ago and thought was excellent. I entered it in a chocolate baking contest at a bazaar at St. Anthony's Church, Lancaster, in November 1997, and won first place! The prize was a trip for two to Atlantic City. One of the judges, a television celebrity, told me there was no doubt in his mind as to who should place first in the contest after tasting my entry. Anyone who loves rich chocolate desserts will want this recipe.

My mother is an excellent cook and taught me everything I know about cooking and baking. Even though I got married to someone who loves to eat and moved 50 miles from home 30 years ago, my mother is still a great influence in my cooking expertise. She will be 78 years old on July 1, but is still only a telephone call away if I ever have a cooking question. She is the one who encouraged me to enter this recipe contest by mailing me the contest rules she clipped from Lancaster Farming newspaper. My dad who died seven years ago subscribed to your newspaper for many years. My mother has continued the subscriptions since his death just for the recipes.

CHERRY CRUNCH COFFEE CAKE

Topping:
½ cup brown sugar
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons butter
⅓ cup nuts

Batter:
1½ cups flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
2 eggs
1 cup sugar
¼ cup butter, melted
½ cup milk
1 can cherry pie filling

Combine topping mix and set aside. Measure flour, baking powder, and salt. Beat eggs, add granulated sugar, beating well. Stir in melted butter, add flour, baking powder, salt, and milk. Beat until smooth.

Pour half the batter into a greased square pan. Spread pie filling over the batter. Then pour the remainder of the batter over the filling. Sprinkle with topping. Bake at 350 degrees for 45-50 minutes.

My sister Natalie gave me this recipe. It is so good, she makes it on every special occasion for our family.

We have a farm in Warwick, N.Y. Our 2½-year-old daughter, Candace, just loves her job feeding the calves, and she will remind you of that. She always insists on wearing her cowboy hat when she goes to the farm.

SOUR CREAM NUT BREAD

2 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
¾ cup coarsely chopped walnuts
1 egg
1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1 cup sour cream
¾ teaspoon baking soda

Measure flour, add salt and nuts, and set aside. Beat egg in mixing bowl, and add brown sugar. Stir baking soda into sour cream, add to sugar mixture. Quickly add dry ingredients, stirring just until smooth. Pour into greased 8x4x3-inch pan. Bake one hour in 350-degree oven. Let stand about 10 minutes. Remove from pan and cool on rack.

To serve: Spread slices of sour cream nut bread with cream cheese.

We have a 125-acre dairy farm in upper Carbon County and a 30-head dairy herd. My husband, Harry, does the planting and harvesting with son David's help. David takes care of the herd and in his sparetime can be seen on his dirt bike or 4-wheeler.

CUP CHEESE

24-ounces cottage cheese
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup butter
4 slices white American cheese

Rinse and drain cottage cheese in colander for 30 minutes.

Put rinsed curds into bowl and add 1 teaspoon baking soda. Let set two hours.

Melt butter, add cheese mixture, salt, and cheese. Melt on low heat or microwave until smooth. Very good to eat with your favorite crackers.

I'm now a grandmother to 30 children. We loved the dairy farm, but age moved us on, so we built a house close to the farm. Now our son, his wife, and two children, take care of the cows and do the farming.

Elaine Baro demonstrates tricks with scarves during a workshop on creating several different looks using a basic garment. She is wearing a bungee scarf and is arranging a pretied scarf that can easily be made in different lengths.

Making 'Cents' Out Of Fashion

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — Elaine Baro creates a whole wardrobe from a few basic pieces.

The secret, she reveals, is in selecting a neutral color and accessorizing it with scarves, jewelry, or harmonizing pieces to give it a whole new look.

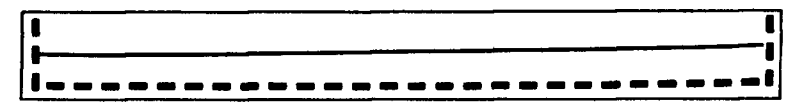
"I'm a big fan of vests," Baro said. Vests provide other options to give a different look to pants, skirts, and dresses. Other choices to update a black outfit are a polka-dot shirt or one in a leopard print.

Denim can also be combined with black to make it more sporty. Baro showed how an oversized denim shirt embroidered with a touch of black and other colors coordinated with black pants.

Baro is a big proponent of scarves that can dress up, slim down, and enhance a dress, suit, or top. Scarves need not be expensive purchases. Baro demonstrated how to make many different styles using sheer fabrics and serging edges or by hiding the seam.

One of her most popular versions is the bungee scarf. To make it, select a sheer, nonwrinkable fabric. Cut a 12½ by 45-inch piece of fabric.



Cut a 21-inch piece of ¼-inch elastic. Center elastic ends in the middle of fabric ends and stitch in place. Turn fabric to right side and stitch shut the opening. Ends will resemble a rosette; handstitch in place. When ready to wear, simply overlap ends of scarf one time to hold in place.

Sew along the long edge of fabric, but leave a ¾-inch opening in the middle to turn. Sew each end.

Although separates can be made to coordinate by stitching a print on plain material and vice versa, "Plain colors give more opportunity for mix and matching," Baro said.

"Don't discard an item with a food stain," Baro said.

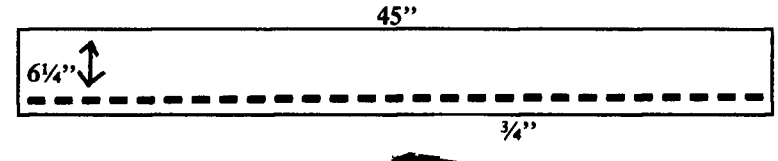
For more information on classes or scarf instructions by Elaine Baro, contact the Berks County Extension office at (610) 378-1327.



Ida's Notebook

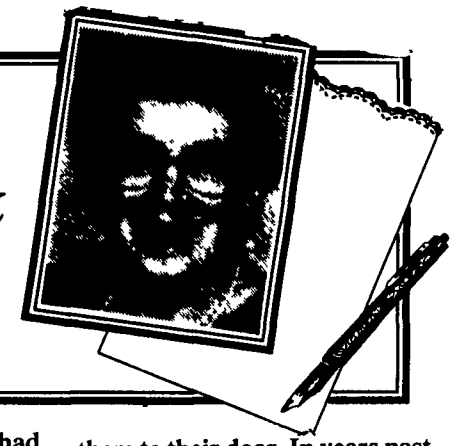
Ida Risser



So far this year we've had plenty of rain and so the strawberry crop and the sugar pea crop have been plentiful. Thus we've shared both with friends and relatives. Seldom do people say "no" when you bring them to their door. In years past, I sold large quantities of both but that is in the past and now we plant less.

My husband thinks of so many places to go away from home. He and I drove to Cumberland County to see a tree, but it was dead. This was a particular chestnut tree that had sprouted after the blight killed it. People are working on developing an American chestnut that is blight resistant. The day was not a complete loss as we stopped in a churchyard to eat the lunch that I had packed and then visited his brother in another county. He gave me a recipe for "India Fry Bread." He had just made some and it is similar to a fastnacht.

The next day my husband and his brother decided to visit another brother in a veteran's home in Blair County. They were gone 12 hours and finally got home blaming the long day on a flat tire. That may have been part of the very long day.

The next day I had the privilege of going along to a 65th reunion of his high school class. It is surprising to see how many are still able to attend. Many of the attendees were not willing to eat the big meal that was served, and so many "doggy bags" were required. The program was presented by a class member who is a world traveler. And, he has another trip planned for the fall.

QUESTION — It's canning season, writes C. Alleman, Hummelstown. She wants recipes for Vidalia onion relish, pepper cabbage, tomato salsa, and pickled vegetables. Any helpful hints will be appreciated by Carol, who writes that she grabs the paper to read "Cook's Corner" first. She loves cooking and collects cookbooks and recipes, which she uses.

QUESTION — Judy Ulrich, York, wants the recipe for Honey Pecan Crunch, a pie that she heard was a winner in state Farm Show competition. The pie was shown on television, and she remembers the pecans were lined up beautifully across the top of the pie.

QUESTION — Pat Schreffler, Pitman, would like easy and good rice pudding recipes. (Note to Pat: Send your complete address to receive the news clipping information you had requested).

QUESTION — Shirley Miller, Nazareth, would like to find a recipe or booklet about potato flour.

QUESTION — Lucy Lowe, Claymont, Del., wants a recipe to make crisp, buttery, coconut cookies. She writes that she can't wait to read this column every week.

QUESTION — Maria Dalrymple, Shinglehouse, writes that a deceased aunt used to make a fabulous strawberry pie. Unfortunately the recipe was never given to the family in written form, and they miss it every strawberry season. The pie was called President Dwight David Eisenhower's Favorite Strawberry Pie. Any readers have a copy to send?

QUESTION — Herman Bean, Easton, writes that he is 78 years old. He remembers his grandmother made molasses cookies when he was a small boy. His mother still made them at 95 years of age but died 10 years ago and took the recipe with her. The dough was cut with flower or boy and girl-shaped cookie cutters. When baked, the cookies were about an inch thick, 4-inches high, and 2- or 3-inches wide. They were sort of a grayish color, soft, and had to be put into a can for a couple of days before eating. Bean said, he believes the cookies are a "Dutch favorite."

QUESTION — A Lititz reader is having a houseful of company for a week. This means lots of meal ideas. She desperately needs recipes that can be prepared ahead of time or quick ones to put together at the last minute and any other helpful hints to remain sane while preparing food and entertaining guests.

QUESTION — A mother wants ideas and recipes to encourage her children to eat more vegetables.

QUESTION — Summertime brings lots of reunions and gatherings where participants are asked to bring a hot and cold dish. Several readers have requested recipes to take to these events. Send your favorite recipe and any hints to ease the time crunch working mothers face when these events are held in the evening.

QUESTION — J. Alleman, Hummelstown, is looking for a foolproof recipe for Montgomery Pie.

QUESTION — Ruth Erb, Beavertown, wants a recipe called Ann-Margaret's Favorite Chocolate Cake.

QUESTION — A reader from Dauphin would like a recipe for society pickles, which she heard stay crunchy after they are canned.

QUESTION — Steven Skramko, Richfield Springs, N.Y., would like a recipe to make Shoe Top cookies, which look like leather used for repairing shoes. He writes the recipe is from 60 years ago.

ANSWER — Father's Day is on Sunday. That means many wives and mothers will prepare their husbands' favorite meals. Most readers write that their husbands prefer meat and potato meals with heavy desserts. Perhaps you want to try some of these recipes from our files. Don't forget to check out the dairy contest recipes for many more flavorful options.

Ozark Pudding

⅓ cup presifted flour
1¼ teaspoon baking powder
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 egg
½ cup chopped apples
½ cup chopped walnuts
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
¼ cup rum

Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Grease one-quart casserole. On piece of waxed paper, sift together flour, baking powder, and salt.

In mixing bowl, beat egg and sugar until light and creamy. Add flour mixture; blend well. Fold in apples, walnuts, and vanilla. Place into casserole dish.

Bake in preheated oven for 30 minutes. Blend cream and rum; serve with pudding. Serves 4-6.

Fred and Todd Simon are the fourth and fifth generation, father and son, and part-owners of Omaha Steaks. Ask them what America's favorite cut of beef is, and they answer in unison, "boneless strip sirloin." Other names associated with the name are New York strip, Kansas City strip, strip or shell steak.

"It's not Father's Day at our house without steaks on the grill," Todd explains. "Here in the Midwest we often grill year-round, but when the weather begins to sizzle you can always bet that so will our grill."

The Simons recommend that when choosing a high-quality steak, look for grain-fed beef that has been naturally aged and handtrimmed. Here is one of their favorite ways to prepare steak.

Marinated Grilled Beef And Pepper Salad

12-ounces herb and garlic marinade with lemon juice, divided usage
2 boneless strip sirloins (8-ounces each)
1 each: red, yellow, and green bell peppers, cored, halved, and seeded
1½ pounds cooked baby red potatoes, quartered
1 tablespoon olive oil
1 tablespoon balsamic vinegar
1 teaspoon sugar
Lettuce leaves, optional

In large resealable plastic bag, combine ⅔ cup herb and garlic marinade with steaks; seal bag. Marinate in refrigerate for at least 30 minutes. Meanwhile, grill peppers and potatoes, basting often with ¼ cup marinade. When potatoes are lightly charred, remove from grill. When peppers are tender and charred, remove from grill and slice into ½-inch strips. In small bowl, thoroughly whisk together ⅓ cup marinade with oil, vinegar, and sugar; set aside. Remove steaks from bag, discarding used marinade. Grill steaks to medium-rare, about 5-6 minutes per side. Cool slightly and slice into thin strips. In large salad bowl, combine beef, vegetables, and dressing; toss to mix and coat. Serve slightly warm or chill before serving.

Makes 4 main dish salads. Prep time: 20 minutes. Marinate time: 30 minutes. Grill time: 20-25 minutes.

For those who are interested in grilling meats, remember marinades make meats more tender and add mouthwatering flavor to foods without fat and calories.

Marinades made with real fruit juice such as orange, lime, papaya, and apple, add flavor and let you savor the natural flavor of beef, chicken, fish, and vegetables instead of camouflaging them with heavy barbecue sauces.

For best results:

• Always marinate food in the refrigerator. For best marinating results, pierce meat, fish, or chicken with a fork before marinating. Use about ½ cup marinade per pound of food.

• In addition to creating delicious results on the grill, marinated foods may be broiled, baked, microwaved, or cooked in a skillet.

• Baste often with additional marinade during cooking (do not reuse or baste with used marinade.

• Marinating time can be flexible. Marinating foods longer than 30 minutes can intensity the flavors. Marinate foods in the refrigerator for up to 24 hours (after 24 hours, there is not additional flavor gain). Some delicate foods (such as fish) need short marinating times.

• Timesaving tips for marinating: After purchasing meat, place in resealable plastic freezer bags with marinade. Freeze, then defrost in the refrigerator before cooking time.

• When pressed for time, shorter marinating times will work well if you baste often while cooking, but do not baste food during the last five minutes of cooking time.

USDA Weighs Protein Diet

NEWARK, Del. — Bacon and eggs for breakfast. Cheeseburgers for lunch. A juicy steak or heaping plate of ribs for dinner.

To some, this sounds like a dieter's dream. But it may be more like a nutritional nightmare, says Dr. Sue Snider, Cooperative Extension food and nutrition specialist at the University of Delaware. According to the latest U.S. Department of Agriculture dietary guidelines, the best known way to control weight is by regular exercise and eating a balanced diet that also includes fruits, vegetables and whole grains.

U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Dan Glickman announced last week that the USDA will study the effectiveness as well as the possible detrimental consequences of the high-protein, low-carbohydrate diet that is all the rage again, enjoying a popularity last seen in the 1970s.

Devotees of these high-protein regimes say they lose weight quickly and don't get hungry in the process.

Plenty, says Snider. For starters, much of the initial weight loss on these diets is often water loss.

"When you restrict carbohydrates, you burn glycogen, a quick energy supply in your liver," explains Snider." As you burn glycogen, a lot of water is excreted. So the scale goes down, but you may have simply lost water."

While it's true that many people don't have hunger pangs while on high-protein, low-carbohydrate diets, the nutrition specialist says suppressed appetite can be a sign of ketosis, a condition that can have other, unpleasant consequences. Ketosis occurs when carbohydrates are not available to the body for energy. Substances called ketones build up in the blood, causing it to become acidic.

"If you notice bad breath, nausea, irritability, or disorientation while following a low-carb diet, blame it on ketosis," Snider says. "More serious side effects include muscle breakdown, dehydration, headaches, light-headedness and potential kidney problems."

But that's not all that's wrong with high-protein regimes. With most of these diet plans, you're getting too much cholesterol and saturated fat, which increases your risk of heart disease and cancer. And while protein is an essential component of a healthy diet, one can definitely get too much of a good thing.

There's also plenty of things you're not getting with a high-protein low-carbohydrate diet, such as adequate amounts of fiber and of many essential vitamins, minerals, antioxidants and phytochemicals.

So what's the answer for those looking to lose weight?

Milk: Ingredient For Happy Families

YUMMY PUDDING
60 Ritz crackers, crushed
¼ pound butter
2 quarts vanilla ice cream, slightly softened
1½ cups milk
2 3-ounce packages instant chocolate pudding

Line 9x13-inch pan with crackers and melted butter. Beat in large mixer bowl: vanilla ice cream, milk, and instant pudding mix. Pour pudding mixture over crumbs. Refrigerate until ready to serve.

Nothing is more refreshing in hot weather than ice cream or pudding. But put them both together, and what a treat you have!

I live in the southern end of Lancaster County with my parents, two sisters, one brother, three dogs, one cat, two horses, five sheep, and about 500 cows! I enjoy the animals and outdoors very much. I have been pleased to promote the dairy industry as the alternate princess this past year.

BAKED POTATO TOPPER
1 cup shredded cheddar cheese
¼ cup soft butter
½ cup sour cream
Onion, chopped (optional)

Whip cheese and butter until fluffy. Add sour cream and whip together. Add onion, if desired. Serve on baked potatoes.

We all love this recipe. We milk 132 cows three times a day. I milk two of the milkings.

PEACHES 'N CREAM PIE
¾ cup flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ cup milk
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon butter, softened
1 egg
1 small package vanilla pudding (not instant)
15-20-ounce can sliced peaches (drained, reserve juice)
8-ounces softened cream cheese
½ cup sugar
1 tablespoon sugar
¼ teaspoon cinnamon

Place flour, baking powder, milk, butter, salt, egg, and pudding in mixing bowl. Beat at medium speed for two minutes. Pour into greased pie plate. Put peach slices on top of pie crust mixture. Combine cream cheese, sugar, and 3 tablespoons peach juice. Beat at medium speed for two minutes. Spoon over peaches, don't spread but drop randomly. Sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon. Bake at 350 degrees for 30-35 minutes until slightly browned. Serve warm.

A friend brought this pie to my family after the birth of our third child. The pie was a big hit.

I'm a stay-at-home mom to Perry, 4; Peter, 2; and Sarah, 9 months. The boys enjoy playing tractors and going to Pappy's dairy farm, and they talk constantly about moving to their own farm someday.

CHEDDAR-BACON DIP
8-ounces cream cheese, softened
1 cup sour cream
5 green onions, thinly sliced
4 medium tomatoes, chopped
1 large green pepper, chopped
16-ounce jar taco sauce
2 cups shredded cheddar cheese
1 pound sliced bacon, cooked, crumbled
Tortilla or taco chips

In a bowl, beat cream cheese and sour cream. Spread in an ungreased 13x9x2-inch dish. Combine onions, tomatoes, and green pepper; sprinkle over the cream cheese layer. Pour taco sauce over the vegetables. Sprinkle with cheddar cheese. Refrigerate. Just before serving, sprinkle with bacon. Serve with tortilla or taco chips. Yield: 10-12 servings.

I am the 1999-2000 Sun Area Dairy Princess. I live on a dairy farm in Beavertown with my family. My mom does most of the cooking, but I like to make this dip for special occasions, such as birthdays and holiday parties. Both children and adults enjoy this recipe — so do I because it is so easy to prepare.

CREAM OF BROCCOLI SOUP
2 cups thin white sauce
2½ cups chopped broccoli
2 tablespoons chopped onion
1½ teaspoon chicken bouillon
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 cup sharp cheddar cheese

Prepare white sauce and set aside. To prepare, melt two tablespoons butter over low heat. Blend in two tablespoons flour, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and gradually add 2 cups milk, stirring constantly. Return to heat. Stir just until mixture thickens and begins to bubble.

Cook broccoli in small amount of water with onion and bouillon until tender. When broccoli is cooked, puree it in blender with ½ cup white sauce. Return broccoli to saucepan with white sauce and add cheese. Stir until cheese is melted and season with pepper. Do not boil.

My husband and I live on a Lebanon County dairy farm with our two children, Breanne, 4, and Jordan, 2. We, and my husband's parents (who own the farm) milk more than 100 cows.

Our children enjoy the farm animals, tractors, and playing in the barn. The one thing they really enjoy is our garden. They loved helping to plant and they are now so excited to watch it grow. We have no problem getting our children to eat their vegetables, so one of their favorite veggies is broccoli.

When I make cream of broccoli soup, their eyes light up, and they are sure to clean their bowls. This is one of our favorite soup recipes. We usually have all the ingredients on hand. It is especially good with garden fresh broccoli; then again, everything is better fresh from the garden!

Tulpehocken School District Hosts Agriculture Science Adventure

Damp conditions didn't stop the annual elementary agriculture science adventure from occurring successfully. One hundred thirty-nine third grade students in the Tulpehocken School District visited Mor-Dale Farms, owned by Ralph and Crystal Moyer, Frystown, Berks County.

Students rotated through six learning stations to learn about animals, plants, soils, water, resources and community. Tours of the farm filled in the noon hour.

Dr. Adrienne MacCloude and dairy farmer Ralph Moyer instilled animal science information for those attending. Samples of feeds including corn silage, haylage, soybean meal, cotton seed, and ground corn provided a display that is mouth-watering to any bovine. The meal also included chocolate candy a recycled product that completes the animal's daily diet, explained Ralph. Tools for treating, restraining, and monitoring animal health were shown and demonstrated to the students. Miah the dog, owned by Dr. MacCloude, a small and large animal veterinarian with Willow Creek Animal Hospital, quickly made friends with everyone.

The garden planting was canceled due to soggy soil but a video demonstrating urban gardening was used as an alternative. Activities included vegetable plant identification from seed packets and pumpkin seeds placed in peat pellets for future garden planting were distributed. Berks County Extension Agent John Falter and Master Gardener Don Kline assisted by FFA member Sonia Erb trained the green thumbs.

Randy McCormick and Tamara Botto NRCS, USDA technicians utilized soil profile models to instill in students the importance of soils. A Hagerstown Soil Series profile was constructed by all the students to take along home to share with parents.

High school students Luke Troutman, John Hartman, and Jonathan Bicksler demonstrated soil erosion and water-holding capacity with models.

Tamara Peffer, DCNP water quality staff person from Nolde Forest Environmental Education Center, had students swimming about like aquatic animals. Students explained why water is important in their lives in response to Tamara's questions. Collecting samples from the pond appeared to be a highlight of this station activity. Utilizing "nets" and containers, samples of worm and insects were gathered, compared and identified. Terry Donkel and Joshua Dragon, high school agriculture biology students, assisted with collection activities.

Students volunteered quickly when ask to empty a waste container and select recyclable materials versus non-recyclable. Holly Hager-Yoch, a BFI Landfill representative, encouraged students to separate aluminum cans, glass containers, paper and plastics; materials that are recyclable and need to be sent to a landfill. Students were treated to a landfill sandwich model. It is utilized to illustrate the construction of a landfill to prevent leachate from entering the water supply. Community and service club member Joel Martin, Josh Balthaser, and Mike Blatt assisted with participation rewards. The three coordinated recycling activities at the high school.

Patty Melt and Detective Burge stole the show at the station coordinated by the Pennsylvania Beef Council. The four C's of Food Safety was the theme conveyed. Students portrayed Cool It, Keep It Clean, Cook It and Don't Cross It as their classmates provided an audience. Elizabeth Smith and Michelle Ranck along with Tulpehocken High School student Sara Steigerwald played a key role in the production.

Susquehanna County

Members learned how to weigh and measure the height of a calf. Everyone took turns weighing and measuring an animal.

Members were then given a quiz on the parts of the dairy cow. Leader Pat Hunsinger sent members a study sheet earlier in the week. They were given five minutes to take the quiz.

When the five minutes were up, the members went over the parts of a calf. Everyone enjoyed it. Then we were all handed a brown envelope, which had our sign-up sheet for Dairy Camp and a shot paper explaining what shots the animals needed to show at Round Up.

The meeting was adjourned with the announcement that a vet will speak at the next meeting.

PCC Summer Institute

Fourteen area high school students from Susquehanna and Wyoming Counties recently participated in the Pennsylvania Council of Cooperatives (PCC) one-day Institute in Montrose. Joining the group for the day was Angela Adams, Wyalusing, PCC Institute scholar from last year. Angela also attended the National Institute in Snowbird, Utah.

To be selected to attend the Summer Institute scheduled this June in Shippensburg, the seven students, along with two alternates, scored highest on a test measuring knowledge of the cooperative business structure and demonstrated leadership through participation in extracurricular school and community activities.

The students participating in the one-day institute included Brigitte LaBonte, Montrose Area; Bobbie Sue Adams, Wyalusing; Don Roberts, Montrose Area; Eric Puglisi, Montrose Area; Wendy O'Reilly, Montrose Area; Amanda Henry, Montrose Area; Stephen Henninger, Tunkhannock Area; Jeff Zick, Mountain View; and Erica Vogel, Montrose Area.

Bucks County

Twelve 4-H members demonstrated their public speaking skills at a recent 4-H communications contest. The contest was held at the Middletown Grange Fairgrounds in Wrightsville in conjunction with the Bucks County 4-H Spring Round Up.

Junior members, 13 years and younger, had to speak three to five minutes, while seniors, 14-18 years, spoke for five to 15 minutes. Judges for the contest were Jen Keller, Richlandtown, and Rachel Meas, Quakertown. Both are 4-H volunteer leaders.

In the junior category, Danielle Nilsen, Hellertown, received a blue ribbon with her presentation about "The Daily Check For Horses." Elizabeth Nilsen, Hellertown, received a blue merit for her demonstration on the different horse markings. Sam Miller, Perkasie, spoke dressed in authentic World War II gear borrowed from a local veteran. Perkasie also earned a blue merit.

Junior pair demonstration results included Jasmine Evans and Jenny Pan, Newtown, who mad Tortilla Dip and earned a blue merit. Rocio Slobodzian and Emily Berry, Newtown, demonstrated making Marshmallow Spiders to earn a blue ribbon. Erin Brown and Dominique Evans tossed sweet and sour salad and received a blue ribbon. And Melanie Ashbaugh and Lauren Kash, Newtown, made a delicious fruit salad to receive their blue ribbon.

One of the many life skills that 4-H teaches in public speaking. Others include leadership, decision making, and teamwork.

SUN Area Plans June Dairy Festivities

HUMMELS WHARF (Susquehanna Co.) — SUN Area will holds its annual dairy festivities at Susquehanna Mall, June 22-24. The three-day event includes a large variety of activities including the crowning of a new SUN Area dairy princess, who will represent Snyder, Union, Northumberland, and Montour Counties.

Thursday's events include a 4-H Dairy Club milkshake sale from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.. a cheese-tasting sampling, and an Agriculture Business Appreciation Ceremony sponsored by Boscov's.

On Friday, Turkey Hill's giant ice cream sundae will be made with 135 gallons of ice cream, 10 gallons of chocolate fudge, 25 pounds pecans, and 5 gallons cherries. Sundaes and cheese samples will be offered to the public.

Saturday, in Boscov's garden center from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., a petting zoo with calves from six main dairy breeds will be erected. A celebrity cow-milking contest featuring local well-known people will begin at 1 p.m. under the tent next to Boscov's. A new event this year is a pedal pull contest for children at 2 p.m.

A Scooper Bowl sponsored by Swineford Bank will be conducted in Boscov's North Court from 1 p.m. to 9 p.m. Throughout the day, samples of milk punch and cheese will be distributed.

The 26th annual SUN Area Dairy Princess Pageants begins at 7 p.m. Saturday. Participants will model fashions from Boscov's during the pageant.

Competing for the crown is Sarah Erdley, Union County. She is the daughter of Mike and Faith Erdley and a senior at Mifflinburg High School. Sarah is an active member of 4-H, FFA, and the bowling team. She enjoys showing dairy cattle, public speaking, being president of local 4-H and FFA organizations, and judging dairy cattle.

Sarah owns four dairy animals and works on the family farm, where they raise 350 acres of corn, soybeans, and alfalfa. She has one brother. After graduation, Sarah plans to attend Laramie County College to study rodeo and beef production.

Another contestant, Selena Hollenbach from Snyder County is the daughter of Scott and Sandy Hollenback. A senior at Selinsgrove High School, Selena is active in FFA and enjoys showing and judging dairy animals. She works on the family farm where they raise 110 dairy animals and corn and hay. Ten of the dairy animals belong to Selena. She has a brother Scott and a sister Sabrina.

Another contestant is Melinda Wolfe, Northumberland County. She is the daughter of Dean and Rinda Wolfe. Melinda will be a sophomore at Bloomsburg University where she will study elementary education. Some of Melinda's activities include band, drama club, concert choir, student council, National Honor Society, softball, and yearbook staff. She enjoys being a Red Cross volunteer and a Milton Little League volunteer and assistant coach.

Melinda is employed full time during the summer at Hackenberg's Apiaries. Her family owns and operates Wolfe's Power Line Dairy, where Melinda works part time with the 485 dairy animals and crop farms 300 acres of alfalfa and corn. Melinda has a brother Randy and sister Deanna.

Twelve dairy maids from Snyder County will participate in the pageant program. These include Victoria Adams, Janelle Ewing, Brittany Fry, Raquel Hauck, Valerie Hoover, Jessica Kessler, Brittany Rice, Tara Rice, Amanda Shaffer, Laci Shirey, Corinda Varner, and Jennifer Waite.

Sixteen dairy misses will also participate in activities. These include Tiffany Adams, Danielle Ewing, Kasee Ewing, Marissa Ewing, Amanda Hauck, Elizabeth Heckert, Lindsay Heckert, Dawn Hiembach, and Katy Heimbach from Snyder County; Crissa Johnson and Cheryl Pfleegor from Union County; and Tanya Rice, Hailey Shirey, Makenzie Walters, Emily Weller, and Jonelle Wetzel from Snyder County.

FFA members representing high schools from Snyder, Union, Northumberland, and Montour Counties will also participate in Dairy Days.

The Model 255 rake tedder is a flexible machine — it's the tedder that also rakes.

- Rake a swath into a windrow
- Rake two windrows into one
- Turn windrows for faster drying
- Move crop away from fences or borders
- Ted a 10½-foot area to fluff up wet, matted-down crop for quick drying

New Holland round bale wrappers are the low-cost alternative to traditional silage storage—they seal your silage bales in "mini silos". You can harvest silage during peak feed quality, store it with greater flexibility, and feed it more efficiently with less waste.

- Model B27P is an economic utility wrapper for medium-volume silage producers
- Model B37P is ideal for custom harvesters or operations wrapping large volumes of bales

Both offer a side-mounted lifting arm, three-belt turntable, two large side-support rollers, and cable controls. The B37P is available with computer controls.

Grandpa's Hobby To Benefit Lititz School

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

After retirement, the former truck driver and farm mechanic kept busy during the day with the 10,000 layers on their Lexington farmette and driving a school van for the public school district. But evenings were, well, a bit boring.

While he pondered his wife's advice, he examined a wooden chicken coop. Curious, he wondered if he could duplicate the coop on a smaller scale.

With a minimal amount of equipment, he made a wooden coop and presented it to his wife. After that, his hobby sort of got out of hand, no doubt because of his wife's other hobby.

"She cooks," Bollinger said as if that explained everything. It turns out that his wife of 48 years likes cooking for guests. In fact, the Bollingers have had almost every member of their church congregation that numbers 600 as dinner guests.

When friends and relatives saw the coop Bollinger had made, they ordered one for themselves.

Now more than 100 coops later and several other projects such as wooden hobby horses, the 73-year-old Bollinger has perfected his skills, purchased additional equipment, and handcrafted a walnut Grandfather's clock.

He is donating the clock to raise funds for the annual Lititz Mennonite School Auction, June 23-24.

The Bollingers have a vested interest in the school. Eleven of their 20 grandchildren have attended the school. They appreciate the teaching their children receive from the private school and want to do their part in helping the school.

The annual auction raises funds to help with schooling costs. In addition to typical auction fare, the school depends on quality items such as Bollinger's handcrafted clock to attract interest.

The stately Grandfather's clock features Hermle's motivating moon dial, and triple chime movement that allows a choice of Westminster, St. Michael's or Whittington chimes.

The clock works were purchased from Emperor Clockworks in Alabama, who make the chimes according to German standards.

"This is not a kit, but it's not made from scratch either," Bollinger said with his typical dry humor. "I consider a scratch is something you do if you have an itch."

Bollinger said that his middle son of six children had made the same style clock as a gift for his parents in the 1970s.

"I got to thinking, and I thought my son would probably like that clock for himself someday," Bollinger said.

Last summer Bollinger made his first Grandfather's clock. It turned out so well, his son suggested he make one for the benefit auction.

The clock has a brass plate with the ingraved words, "Handcrafted Mark F. Bollinger +N2 2000.

Recently the Bollingers reduced their chicken layer operation from 10,000 to 5,000. Bollinger transformed one of the chicken houses into a woodworking shop.

"We are getting too old to carry eggs up and down the steps," Bollinger said of the decision to transform the former two-story chicken house into a shop.

He works in the shop during the day, and at night, he returns to watching his wife quilt.

"We're back at square one," he said.

Except this time, his wife has put him to work measuring and cutting threads needed to finish the quilts she does for a quilt broker.

This fall, both will have something unusual to keep them busy. They plan to travel to Wales in the fall to visit their daughter, who is in mission work in that country.

School Benefit Auction Is June 23-24

LITITZ (Lancaster Co.) — Lititz Area Mennonite School, will hold its 23rd annual Benefit Auction on June 23 and 24. Friday begins with a chicken BBQ dinner served from 3 p.m. to 7 p.m. Meals may be eaten inside the school or purchased for takeout from the drive-thru.

Dinner is $5.25, which includes a roll, chicken leg and thigh, baked potato, cole slaw, applesauce and drink. Chicken only may be purchased for $2. Children's meals are available for $3.50. Hot dogs, ice cream and baked goods also will be available.

The Friday evening auction will begin at 6 p.m. Winross trucks and collectibles will be sold throughout the evening along with crafts, plants, lawn and garden items, theme baskets, and many more items.

Morning Star Ministries will make balloon shapes for the children and a children's auction will begin at 7 p.m. Quilts, artwork, and the many other items to be auctioned on Saturday will be displayed Friday evening.

Saturday begins with an "All You Can Eat" Country Buffet Breakfast served from 6:30 a.m. to 9:30 a.m. Enjoy eggs, pancakes, sausage, home fries, baked oatmeal, fresh fruit, pastries, and juice for $4.50. Meals for children 6-10 years are $2.50, and 5 and under are free.

The auction begins at 9 a.m. with a wide variety of items including crafts, baskets, pottery, Beanie Babies, wooden items, lawn and garden items, plants, and flowers.

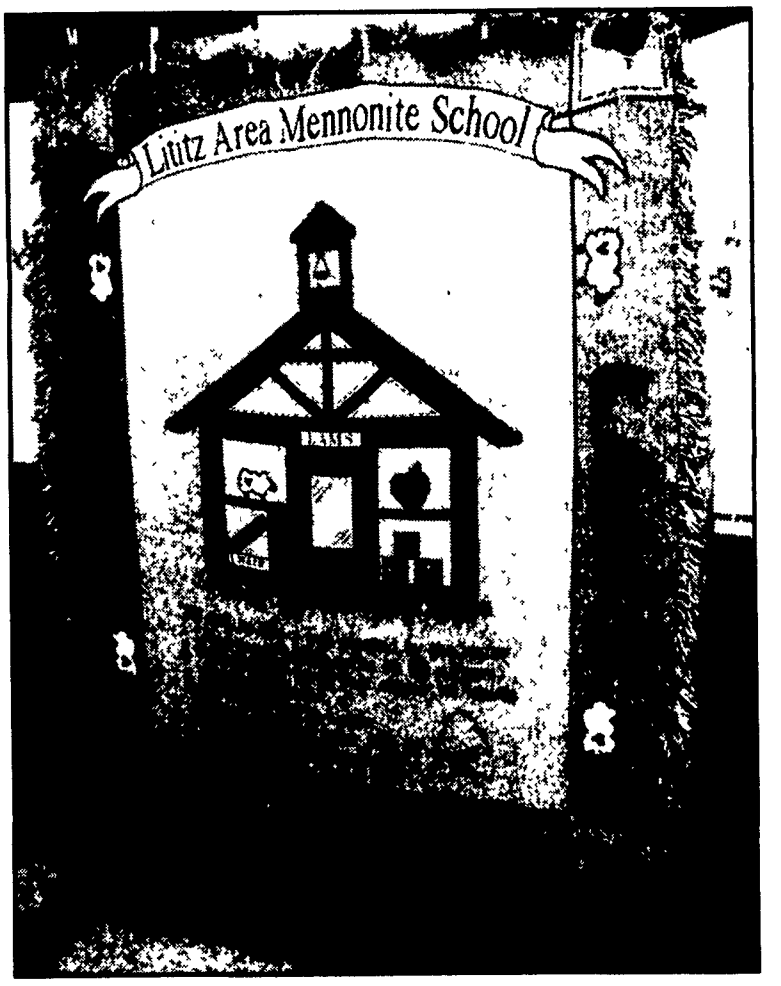
At noon the art will be sold. The art will include for the first time a Thomas Kinkade canvas print evening majesty. Other artists and their work include Debra Smith, The General Sutter; Richard Bollinger, Day's End; Diane Stewart, Quilts and Clematis; Andy Smith, Country Life; Gentle December Snow by John Showalter II, and many more.

Special features will be sold at 12:30 p.m. These include a hand-made Grandfather's clock and a hand-made hobby-horse. The quilts and wall hangings will be auctioned at 1 p.m. with beautiful designs such as Bargello, Lone Star, Pieced Pineapple, Broken Star, and Double Wedding Ring.

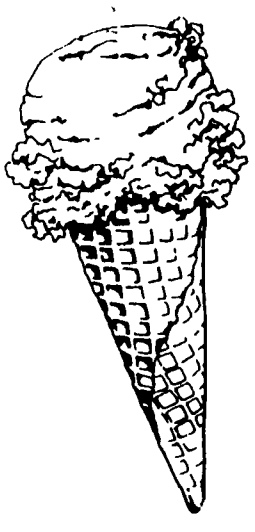
LAMS has designed a very colorful and unique afghan that will also be available at the auction for $45.

Children's activities will begin at 9:30 a.m. with train rides, moonwalk, face painting and other games. Food available throughout the day will include hot sandwiches, French fries, fruit and salad bar, soft ice cream, and baked goods.

The school is located at 1050 East Newport Rd. in Lititz. For more information or to donate an item for the auction, call the school at (717) 626-9551.



Lititz Area Mennonite School will sell collectible afghans for $45 each during its upcoming benefit auction, June 23-24.



Strawberry Shortcake takes center stage at the fifth annual Berry Festival, Kitchen Kettle Village, June 16-17. The festival features numerous berry-related activities, live music, and entertainment. Kitchen Kettle is located on Rt.340 Intercourse, 10 miles east of Lancaster.

Heritage Day At Hans Herr House

WILLOW STREET (Lancaster Co.) — The Hans Herr House will hold Heritage Day on August 5. This farm festival, now in its 21st year, will feature activities from the 18th to early 20th centuries, and demonstrations of rural life and crafts.

Visitors to Heritage Day will be able to see the 1719 Herr House and grounds, including the 1835 Shaub House across the road. Beautifully-restored early farm equipment will be displayed for the first time in the newly completed exhibit building. Craft demonstrations will include blacksmithing, hearth and bake oven cooking, linen processing, fabric dyeing, pottery making, threshing, and more. There are wagon rides, childrens' activities, and workshops scheduled throughout the day. Sandwiches, roasted corn, ice cream, rhubarb punch, pies, hot dogs and other refreshments available for purchase will ensure that no one leaves Heritage Day hungry.

Admission to Heritage Day is $5 for adults, $1 for children ages 7-12. Ages 6 and under are free.

The Hans Herr House is located at 1849 Hans Herr Drive, Willow Street, PA just five miles south of Lancaster off Rts. US 222 and PA 741 between the villages of Willow Street and Lampeter. For more information call (717) 464-4438.

Milk: Ingredient For Happy Families

SHARON'S HOT MILK CAKE

Heat to boiling point and set aside:
¼ pound butter
1 cup milk
Cream together:
4 eggs
2 cups sugar
Add:
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon salt
2 cups flour

Add milk and butter mixture all at once and mix rapidly. Pour into two greased and floured 9-inch cake pans and bake at 325 degrees for 25-30 minutes or until toothpick inserted in middle comes out clean. Remove from pans and cool on racks. Frost.

Chocolate Frosting:
¼ pound butter, melted
⅔ cup baking cocoa powder
3 cups powdered sugar
⅓ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Combine butter and cocoa. Add milk, powdered sugar and vanilla. Frost cake.

Sharon's Hot Milk Cake has become a favorite of my sons, Scott and Eric, as well as their father. Our dairy farm is located in Northampton County. We have 104 milking and dry registered Holsteins and about 115 replacement heifers.

My husband David and sons farm about 425 acres of corn, alfalfa, and small grains, all of which are fed on the farm.

For many years, 4-H and open showing plus many other 4-H projects have been part of our kids' lives. This is my 38th year as a 4-H leader with the Horse and Pony Club, horse judging, and hipology coaching, as well as community club.

WHITE CHIP CHOCOLATE COOKIES

2¼ cups all-purpose flour
⅔ cup Nestle Toll House baking cocoa
1 teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup butter
¾ cup granulated sugar
⅔ cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
2 eggs
2 cups Nestle Toll House Premier white morsels

Combine flour, cocoa, baking soda, and salt in a small bowl. Beat together butter, sugar, brown sugar, and vanilla in large mixer bowl until creamy. Beat in eggs. Gradually beat in flour mixture. Stir in morsels. Drop by well-rounded teaspoon onto greased baking sheets.

Bake in preheated oven at 350 degrees for 9-11 minutes. Let stand for two minutes. Remove to wire racks to cool completely. Makes about five dozen cookies. They're delicious!

MASHED POTATOES

3 quarts milk
1 quart water
8-ounces cream cheese
2 cups sour cream
1½ teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon celery salt
12 tablespoons butter
1½ tablespoons sour cream and onion powder
4 cups mashed potato powder

Heat milk to boiling point, add water. Add remaining ingredients. After these ingredients are all melted, gradually add 4 cups mashed potato powder.

Recipe makes three full-sized vegetable dishes. Can be made a few days ahead. Put into refrigerator or freeze until ready to use.

Delicious!

We live on a dairy farm, south of Annville, Lebanon Co. We have four children at home and two married. At the present, we are milking only 63 cows, have only a few calves, but have quite a few dry cows to freshen in a few months. We raise all of our heifers. Farming is busy, yet very worthwhile.

PUDDING DESSERT

1 cup chopped nuts
1 cup flour
½ cup butter
8-ounces cream cheese
1 cup powdered sugar
1 cup whipped cream
2 packages instant pudding (lemon or chocolate)
4 cups milk

Mix together nuts, flour, and butter. Put in 9x13-inch baking pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes. Cool. Mix together cream cheese, powdered sugar, and whipped cream. Spread on cooled crust. Mix instant pudding with milk. Pour over cheese layer. Chill for several hours. Frost with whipped cream and nuts. Serves 12.

I'm a mother of three, grandmother of nine, and great grandmother of one.

My hobbies are flower gardening, raising vegetables, bird watching, and trying new recipes from Lancaster Farming. I also enjoy reading Ida's Notebook and other interesting articles in the B section.

BUTTERMILK SALAD

6-ounce box Jell-O in desired flavor
1 large can crushed pineapple
2 cups buttermilk
12-ounces whipped cream topping

Heat pineapple to boil. Add Jell-O, stir until dissolved. Cool until syrupy. Add buttermilk and whipped cream. Add fresh fruit such as strawberries or peaches. Optional: Sprinkle with nuts.

My husband and I are retired. We are not farmers. I now live in South Carolina but was raised in Maryland. We go to Maryland about four times a year to see my son and sister.

While there we attend auctions in and around Maryland and Pennsylvania. For our enjoyment, we buy and sell at auctions in South Carolina and Georgia. While in Pennsylvania, I was wrapping glassware and obtained a copy of the Lancaster Farming paper. I just loved it, so when I returned home, I called and subscribed to it. My favorites are (of course) recipes and the question and answer column. When we are planning a trip that way, I check out auctions that we would like to attend.

When in the Lancaster area, we go to the Amish markets. I always bring home chipped beef and scrapple.

POTATO CHEESE SOUP

6-8 potatoes, peeled, diced
2-3 carrots, sliced
1-2 celery stalks, diced
1 onion, chopped
8-ounces cream cheese, softened
¼ cup butter
1 can cream of mushroom soup, undiluted
2 cups milk
Salt and pepper to taste
¼ pound Velveeta cheese
4 bacon strips, fried, crumbled

Place potatoes, carrots, celery, and onion in a large kettle; cover with water. Cook until tender. In a mixing bowl, combine cream cheese, butter, and soup; stir well. Add milk, salt, pepper, and Velveeta cheese cubes; add to vegetables and heat. Add bacon just before serving. Yield: 10-12 servings.

This recipe is a favorite of our family. We live on a dairy farm near Manheim. Beside farm work, we enjoy spending time with family and friends. We were blessed with three daughters, Amber, 18; Amanda, 15; and Ashley, 10.

Outgoing, Personable Lancaster Dairy Princess Points To 'ABCs' Of Milk

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Lancaster County's new dairy princess said she'd describe herself as "outgoing and personable," someone who wouldn't be afraid, she said, "to get up in front of a crowd and wear flashy outfits" to promote milk.

Elizabeth Young did just that, wearing coveralls and Holstein-colored socks, holding onto her two favorite stuffed animals, as part of her skit to describe the "ABCs" of milk.

Elizabeth, outgoing alternate dairy princess, is "very personable," she said. "I like meeting people. . . . I just like people!"

One of the toughest audiences that dairy royalty, including ambassadors, face is young children, noted Elizabeth Smith, mistress of ceremonies for the event.

And the new dairy princess's skit, "The ABCs of Dairy," featured Elizabeth Young at a tea party speaking about how milk is "so rich and creamy, I just love it," she said.

Elizabeth noted that A stands for an important vitamin, B for the B vitamins, C for calcium, D for dairy princess, E for the importance of milk in everyone's diet, F for the many flavors of milk, G for milk's importance in growing years, and H for its general health. She said the I stands for the many varieties of ice cream, J for the fact that getting good nutrition from milk is no laughing matter, and K means the many kinds of varieties of food containing milk.

Elizabeth explained that L stands for the land needed to grow feed for a cow, M for the sound cows make, N for the additional nutrients in milk, including protein and iron, O for the fact that milk helps prevent osteoporosis, a crippling disease, and P for Pennsylvania, which stands fourth in the country in milk production.

Elizabeth said that Q denotes the quality of milk and its freshness, R for the Real Seal, S for the fact that seven out of 10 kids don't get enough calcium in their diet, T for taste, U for universal appeal, V for versatile, W for the work done to promote milk, and X for X-rays taken of bones that show good health when you drink milk. Y is for young when you need milk — but before Elizabeth could get to Z, the imaginary mom called to her, asking if she had taken the milk and cheese for the tea party.

Elizabeth vowed to her real-life mother to "remember her datebook," and thanked those in dairy promotions for allowing her the chance to serve as princess.

Jill, 17, is the daughter of Gordon and Carole Hoover. Jill will be a senior at Pequea Valley High School.

She belongs to 4-H and is the vice president of her FFA.

Jill became a dairy darling at 8 years of age. She's served as dairy ambassador the past two years. She enjoys playing in the school band and chorus and plays soccer.

Jill, outgoing dairy ambassador, plans to be a "music ambassador" to Europe. She plans to travel, singing and playing bassoon. She plans to attend college and study veterinary sciences and "something in music," she said.

Her skit involved preparing a birthday party for her sister Leslie, turning 9. Jill was compiling a "checklist" of important items, replacing soda with tasty milk punch, replacing potato chips and pretzels with cheese and crackers, and keeping pizza, cake, and ice cream on the menu because they contain essential dairy items.

When asked what two characteristics describe herself and how they would benefit the contestant as a dairy princess, Jill noted she is "outgoing and focused," she said, with "ease in front of people.

Also selected alternate princess was Kristi Unger, 17, daughter of Jeffrey and Mary Unger, Quarryville.

Kristi is Solanco FFA reporter. A senior this year, she works part-time at Gerhart's Farm in New Providence. She milks part-time three days a week.

Kristi, who wants to be a doctor, plans to attend York College or Mansfield University.

During competition, Kristi presented her skit, "Twisted Old MacDonald," about a student in Mrs. Kegle's sixth grade class who gives a speech on the popular children's tune — but with a dairy message.

Milk's calcium and protein "makes hair shiny and gives healthy teeth," she said.

Kristi noted during the impromptu question that she believes she is "pretty responsible," she said. "I have a part-time job and that helps a lot. I'm organized."

The 2000-2001 dairy ambassadors are Stephanie Donough, Nicole Benner, Cheryl Hershey, Kari Martin, Laura Blank, Lisa Blank, and Deb Young. The 2000-2001 Dairy Misses will be Tiffany Donough and Hannah Wentworth.

The 2000-2001 Dairy Darlings are Valerie Bollinger, Stephanie Kauffman, Toni Kauffman, and Leslie Hoover.

Outgoing dairy princess Elisa Ranck noted that 1,000 years ago, the site where the pageant took place was "a wild forest," she said. In another 1,000 years, it would be tough to know what would stand on the site.

But one thing has been constant, Elisa said. "Milk has been and always will be nature's most perfect beverage."

Though her reign ends, she said "dairy royalty is in the blood, for life."

Dale Smith, mother of mistress of ceremonies Elizabeth Smith and co-chairperson of the county dairy promotion committee, noted that the ambassadors themselves have traveled a total of 4,500 miles across the state and in the area, handing out 1,555 recipes, 10,437 rubber cows and other erasers, placed a minimum of 15 radio and TV spots, attended 91 school programs, placed 19 articles in the newspaper, and provided many other farm and nonfarm events and promotions.

Judges were Joy Crothers, Pennsylvania dairy promotion director from a dairy in Oxford; Jennifer Davis, Leesport, a former Berks County dairy princess from a 60-cow dairy who works for an agriculture trade publication; and James Shirk, assistant vice president for PennAg Industries Association and director of the state poultry association who lives on the family farm in Goodville.

Deal Holsteins To Host Somerset County Day At The Farm

GAY BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

SOMERSET (Somerset Co.) — Deal Holsteins, owned by Allen Rohrbaugh and his wife, Joyce Rohrbaugh, from noon to 4 p.m., Sunday June 25, will host Somerset County Day at the Farm.

Farm manager Darryl Rohrbaugh, Allen's younger brother, his wife Denise Rohrbaugh, and their sons Justin, 12, and Zachary, 2, are helping with the preparations and getting the landscape spruced up for the affair.

Somerset County Farm Bureau is coordinating the annual event, city dwellers, especially, are invited, not only for an on-the-spot tutorial about the origins of the food they eat, but to sample some food too.

Farm tours, hay rides, petting zoo, and commodities produced in Somerset County by the dairy, beef, sheep, poultry, maple and potato industries will be highlighted.

Also featured are a milk drinking contest, hay bale toss and numerous exhibits, including farm safety, food safety, animal care, veterinary care, alternative uses of corn, crop protectants, animal nutrition and soil and water conservation exhibits.

"Day at the Farm is definitely good for the business," commented Joyce, "but I am hoping more city people show up." She added: A lot of times farm people show up, too, because they know you."

The 209-acre property is in two townships, split by the Piedmont Road. It goes between Allen's ranch house on one side and the original farmhouse where Darryl's family lives on the opposite side.

Deal Holsteins' total stock is at 270 animals. The milking herd, a registered and identified grade combination, is 120 to 130 head in size. Maryland-Virginia Milk Producers buys the milk.

The owner said the operation's animal refuse facility, built before he took it over, should be larger. It has approximately four months storage capacity, which is minimally sufficient.

Allen tells the history behind the Deal Holsteins prefix. When he and his first wife, Debbie (deceased), and their children — Jill, now 18, and Scott, 10, — moved to Somerset County from York County in 1992, they thought hard about a business name. Landmarks didn't appeal, so finally, they settled for the first two letters from each first name of the couple.

Although Allen owned machinery and a dairy herd in York County, they had rented a farm from Charles Birch for 12 years. Shopping for a place to call their own took both time and patience.

Many sites in Pennsylvania and New York states were available, but as Allen, reflectively says: "You are looking for the best buy for your money."

Then he learned about a farm the Jonas Scheffel family wanted to sell in Somerset County. It was on Piedmont Road.

"I learned about it through Lancaster Farming," he said. Actually, we looked at 35 different farms before we decided to settle here."

Allen says farming was in his blood. He and Darryl had grown up on a farm managed by George Rohrbaugh, their dad, who now resides in Fayette County. The men's mother Audrey Rohrbaugh, in 1992, died just before the three household family moved here, Allen said.

Not surprisingly, choosing to move generated upheaval until everyone got settled. During the interim, while Allen was overseeing construction of the new milking parlor, plus adding new stalls in the existing free-stall barn, the others were tieing up the remaining loose ends in York County.

"Allen was building the milking parlor and the rest of the family stayed behind to vaccinate the herd," chimed in Denise Rohrbaugh. She is also secretary of the Somerset County Farm Bureau.

About 22 tractor-trailer loads of machinery and six tractor-trailer loads of cattle were involved in the relocation, not to mention moving the families themselves and household goods.

The late millionaire's private mansion in Somerset, more recently, was restored as the landmark Inn at Georgian Place. Very elegant and gracious, it is a bed and breakfast inn that sits prominately amongst an array of outlet shops.

Prior to her marriage to Allen in 1995, Joyce had also been widowed when her spouse died. So now, the blended family of five includes her daughter, Rochelle Gossman, who is 7, and a dog, Pongo, who seems to favor lounging in the decorative flower bed under the farm sign.

Joyce says she keeps the roadways hot running errands all the time and sometimes wonders what the neighbors think when she drives by so often.

In addition to homemaking, Joyce manages to keep the books and farm accounts up-to-date, do

QUESTION — Robert Finke, Seven Valleys, would like to know if anyone has a fig tree of the bronze skin variety that is mature enough to bear fruit this year.

QUESTION — A reader would like to know if Lawrence Organ Mfg. Co. from Easton is still in business. Or, is anyone interested in a 1918 organ in working condition and original finish. Anyone know what it is worth?

QUESTION — A Schuylkill County reader wants to know where to find instructions on making baskets from birch bark.

ANSWER — George Wojnar, Cream Ridge, N.J., wanted Ramapo tomato seeds. Joan Jablonski, Annadale, N.J., writes that for the last several years, and as recently as June 4 this year, she purchased the seeds from Sherrerd's Florist, 1724 State Highway 31, Clinton, NJ 08809.

ANSWER — Mrs. Horst wanted to know where to find music boxes that attach to a crib mobile. Thanks to a reader for writing that the music boxes are available from Unicorn Studios, P.O. Box 370, Seymour, TN 37865. Or, call 1-800-874-5317.

ANSWER — Roger and Catherine Mills, Willow Street, wanted information on old peanut butter glasses with the flower name on them and if catalogs featuring the glasses are available? John Martin, New Holland, has more than 50 glasses. Call him for more details if interested, (717) 354-4018.

Milk: Ingredient For Happy Families

DAIRY CASSEROLE

1 pound ground beef, fried
2 cups corn, cooked
8-ounces cream cheese
1 can cream of celery soup
1 cup milk
Salt and pepper
Onion salt to taste

My husband and I farm about 250 acres. We live on a dairy farm and milk about 40 cows. We have two children, 2 years and 5 months. This is one of our favorite casseroles. It doesn't take long to make.

YANKEE BREAD

1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon yeast
1 tablespoon honey
1 cup milk, warmed

Mix together flour, salt, and yeast. Add warmed milk and honey. Knead a few minutes. Turn on floured board and roll ¼-inch thick. Cut into one-inch wide strips. A pizza cutter works well for this.

Melt ⅓ cup butter in 9x13-inch pan. Roll each strip dough in butter to coat and lay in pan. Let rise one to four hours for best results (rising isn't necessary but makes better breadsticks). Bake at 375 degrees for 16-18 minutes. Serve warm, plain or with jelly or jam. Makes 10-12 sticks.

COCONUT DESSERT

60 Ritz crackers, crumbled

Top with whipped cream topping and sprinkle with flaked coconut or crumbled Ritz crackers. May be frozen or refrigerated, depending on whether you wish to cut it or spoon it from the pan. Because of the ice cream, it must be eaten within a few days.

FRESH PEACH ICE CREAM

4-6 cups soft, ripe peaches, mashed thoroughly (12-15 peaches)
½ pint heavy cream
1 pint light cream or half and half
1½ to 2 13-ounce cans evaporated milk
2 cups sugar, separated

Mix mashed peaches with 1 cup sugar and blend until dissolved. Combine creams and evaporated milk and another cup of sugar. Stir until thoroughly blended and sugar is dissolved. Carefully combine both mixtures and pour into one-gallon freezer can. Churn until firm. Remove dasher and pack until ready to serve.

This recipes comes from a Florence, S.C. cookbook. The recipe is easy to make and tastes very good. This is one ice cream that is just as delicious one month after it is made as it is the day you make it.

CHOCOLATE CAKE

1 cup butter
2 cups sugar
2 eggs
1 cup buttermilk
1 teaspoon vanilla
2½ cups flour
2 teaspoons baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup boiling coffee

Cream butter and sugar. Add eggs. Add dry ingredients alternately with milk. Add hot water last. Beat well. Batter will be thin. Bake in 9x13-inch pan at 350 degrees for 30-35 minutes, or until done.

This was my mother's recipe when I was growing up.

I worked at the Quakertown Hospital for nine and a half years and later at a nursing home as cook. Now I am working at Redner's Market, Quakertown.

I enjoy collecting old and new cookbooks. Also, I like to exchange recipes with others.

Berks Grazing Walk To Highlight New Zealand Swing Parlor

LEESPORT (Berks Co.) — On June 22, Forrest Stricker and family will open their farm to those interested in grazing and a new 16-cow New Zealand swing parlor.

The program will be from 10 a.m. to noon. Highlights include:

Summer Annuals

- Ten acres of cow peas and oats and one acre of triticale. These will be grazed in June and land planted in sorghum sudangrass.
- Ten acres of turnips and rape planted side by side for summer and fall grazing.

New Zealand Swing-16 Parlor

- Open curtain-sided parlor and holding area.
- Milk house wastes and wash-down water flows to holding tank, and is pumped to manifold flush system on a grass strip.
- Management rail for herd checks and breeding.

Farm Facts

- In the eighth year of intensive grazing.
- Ninety milk cows on 160 acres of grass/hay. Thirty-seven heifers on 30 different acres of grass/hay.

District Needs Farms

DAUPHIN (Dauphin Co.) — Farmers have always worked as stewards of the land to improve and protect the resources they have been entrusted with while maintaining economic viability. Sediment and nutrient pollution are the most common pollutants of our surface and ground waters.

Controlling erosion and preventing nutrients from entering these waters are key in protecting water quality.

By installing and implementing agricultural Best Management Practices (BMPs) to help prevent sediment and nutrient pollution, you will be helping to protect Pennsylvania's natural resources. These BMPs include traditional soil conservation practices, streambank fencing, barnyard work, soil and manure testing, and a host of other practices associated with water quality and erosion control.

The Dauphin County Conservation District is looking for farming operations interested in correcting the pollution problems on their farms to be considered for cost-share programs.

After notifying the conservation district of your interest, an agricultural specialist in cooperation with USDA - NRCS will conduct an on-farm evaluation to determine the critical areas on your farm that need addressing. After this visit, a system of BMPs best suited for your operation will be developed.

If you are interested in learning more or to arrange a time to have your operation evaluated, contact the agricultural staff at the Dauphin County Conservation District, 717-921-8100.

TWO AUCTIONS

SATURDAY, JUNE 17, 2000 AT 10:00 AM
SATURDAY, JUNE 24, 2000 AT 10:00 AM

Hobby Shop Contents
Lionel & American Flyer Trains
Ridge Fire Company
Along Rt. 23, Between Phoenixville, PA, & Rt. 100

In the pavilion – Contents of the main showroom of Northeast Hobby Shop from Allegheny Avenue in Philadelphia

Known by thousands as the Hobby Shop with everything and anything, Northeast Hobby served the public from this location for over 50 years. Unsold stock was never closed out. Rather, it was relegated to the cavernous basement to await an uncertain future. After 20 or 30 years, there was no way to determine what had been stacked away down there during the Fifties and Sixties, because stuff from the Seventies and Eighties obscured it. All will now be revealed! After working (mining) there for six straight days and hauling away a minimum of three tons each day, my loyal staff and I have tossed away our dust masks to greet the sun once more and announce a calendar for the liquidation of this buried treasure.

10 a.m. Saturday, June 17 in the Blue Room - Selling American Flyer HO & S Gauge trains and accessories new in the box, Lionel HO & O Gauge trains, large quantity of HO trains & kits from various makers - some new, some used.

10 a.m. Saturday, June 24 in the Pavilion - We will sell a huge truck load of "stuff." This is the process we hope to employ - everything will be hauled to Ridge for sorting, since the 5,000 square feet in our facility is not adequate. We will remove most of the trains for June 17, most of the early auto kits, promos & die cast cars for an auction at Ridge on July 22. (There will be auto kits sold on June 24 also, since there are too many for July 22.) Then we will take away the early and exotic airplane kits and motors for an auction in September. That will leave about ten tons of material of all kinds for the June 24 sale. Ship kits, car kits, plane kits, toys, games, displays, samples, racks, paint, supplies, materials all to be sold in quantity with large lots for dealers and flea marketers.

Frederick County Historical Family
The Crums have been producing milk in Frederick County for three generations, consisting of 90 to 100 years of daily farming Over the years the herd was rich in Dunloggin breeding I have had the opportunity to work with Denny and Judy, as well as Denny's dad, John
They are as fine of people as you would ever want to work with

ATTENTION SOYBEAN GROWERS:

The facts about herbicides and

Roundup Ready® SOYBEANS

Many chemical companies are spending huge amounts of money trying to convince you to spend up to $20/acre on unnecessary residuals or tank mixes for Roundup Ready Soybeans. Please ask yourself why....

The facts about Roundup Ultra alone:

- it kills more weeds, more effectively
- Roundup Ultra kills perennials
- it doesn't restrict your crop rotations
- it doesn't stunt or burn your beans
- it saves you money!!!

Roundup ULTRA®

Recommendations for Using Roundup Ultra in Roundup Ready® Soybeans

Roundup TVP REWARDS MONSANTO

1. Start clean!

- ALWAYS use a burndown in full season soybeans.
- In double crop, burndown if needed.

2. Plant in as narrow a row as possible.

- The faster the crop canopy the better!

3. Apply 1 quart/acre Roundup Ultra as close to crop canopy closure as is practical.

- Weeds are usually 4-8" tall and it is 3-5 weeks after planting.
- If weeds are greater than 8", use 1-5 qts.
- Use 1.5-2 qts/A for perennial weeds.
- Apply a second application of Roundup Ultra if needed for later germinating weeds.

For more information, contact your local dealer or your Monsanto rep, visit www.farmsource.com, or call 1-800-ROUNDUP.

Top Producers Choose Knight!

Congratulations to the La-Foster Farm

Terry and Gerald Foster are very proud of their record-breaking cow, Lucy, and rightly so. She produced 75,260 pounds of milk in her last lactation. They are also pleased with their Knight Reel Auggie® mixers, which, combined with the Foster's excellent management practices, have propelled the La-Foster herd average to the #1 milk production status in North Carolina. There is no comparison to the complete, palatable blend from a Knight Reel Auggie, with its patented reel and auger blending combination. Why else would the La-Foster Farm choose only Knight to feed their record-setting herd?

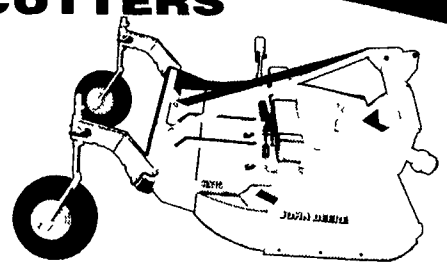
WE SHIP UPS DAILY

JOHN DEERE



- Double-decker design is twice as strong as cutters with a single deck
- The top deck is domed. Water and grass roll off, preventing water buildup and rust
- The clean bottom deck promotes better airflow for better cutting/distribution.
- Available in 5- to 14-foot cutting widths, for mid- and heavy-duty applications

MODEL 640
(625 BUSHEL CAPACITY)

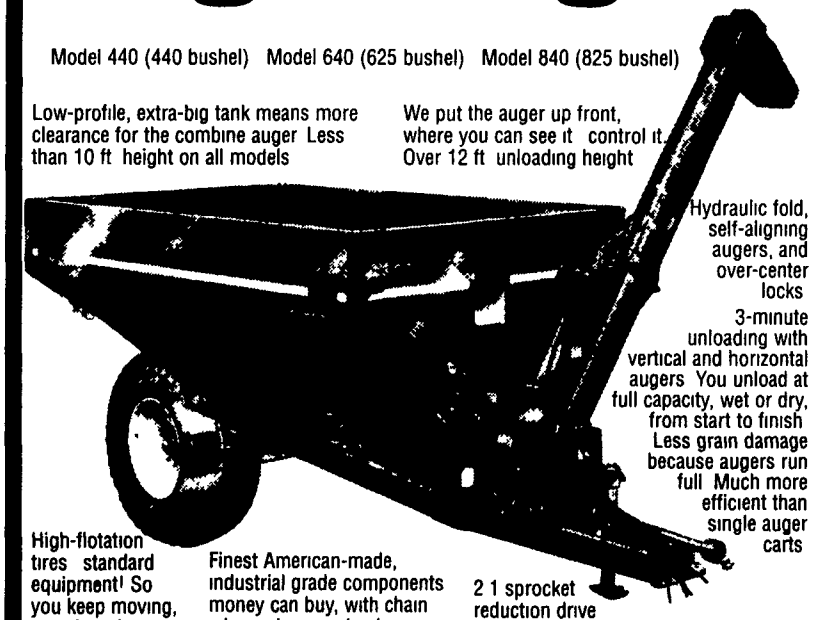
How KINZE designed the world's best Auger Wagon.

Model 440 (440 bushel) Model 640 (625 bushel) Model 840 (825 bushel)

Low-profile, extra-big tank means more clearance for the combine auger Less than 10 ft height on all models

We put the auger up front, where you can see it control it. Over 12 ft unloading height



Hydraulic fold, self-aligning augers, and over-center locks

3-minute unloading with vertical and horizontal augers You unload at full capacity, wet or dry, from start to finish Less grain damage because augers run full Much more efficient than single auger carts

High-flotation tires standard equipment! So you keep moving, even in soft, greasy fields

Finest American-made, industrial grade components money can buy, with chain oiler and grease bank for easy maintenance

2 1 sprocket reduction drive system Especially important when unloading high-moisture grain

A "Hitch Pin to Closing Wheel" Evaluation of Your Planter

KINZE * DEERE * CASE IH * NEW IDEA PLANTERS

We've had growers tell us their planters perform as good as brand new after an uptime evaluation and service had been performed!

Twin-Line® Planters
...from the field to the road in seconds

KINZE's Exclusive Rotating In-Line Transport: the only system that offers you narrow transport on large planters equipped with narrow row Interplant® or fertilizer options. As narrow as most tractor duals.

The unique, patented hydraulic "lift & rotate" system features a rugged, heavy-duty stainless steel clad center post (on both 3500 and 3600 models) which rotates on large tapered bearings seated at the base of the post. (Model 3400 uses a parallel linkage system with dual lift cylinders.)

- UHMW plastic pads glide up and down against the smoothly machined surface. Absolutely no lubrication is required. (3500 and 3600)
- A self-contained counter-balance valve in the lift cylinder provides additional safety when the planter is in the raised position. The planter will not lower without hydraulic pressure from the tractor. (3400 and 3500)
- A Spring-loaded latch/hook secures the planter while it's in the fully raised position by locking the toolbar in place. (3600)

Today's Most Advanced Disc Mower Conditioners

Binkley & Hurst Bros. Introduces...

The NEW ACRE-EATING Swing Frame Pull Type Disc Mower Conditioner

In Stock - 15 Ft. Model
Also - 18 Ft. Can Be Ordered Now!

Model 2345
9 Ft Cut In Stock

And 10 Ft. Model
DC2365

Long hood for less wind turbulence for cleaner cutting in thin crop stands.

Rugged high-speed cutting discs, spinning at 3,000 rpm, easily slice through down and tangled crops or dense wet undergrowth to deliver a clean cut.

The cut crop is delivered to Gehl's specially designed intermeshing rubber conditioning rolls for thorough, yet gentle crop conditioning. They'll condition your crop for fast drying.

ONLY FROM GEHL

MODEL 2412 DISC MOWER CONDITIONER

Cut Your Fields Down To Size!

Gehl swing-frames give you the capacity and maneuverability of a self-propelled mower conditioner at a pull-type price... plus the advantages of high speed disc cutting technology.

- Nine disc cutterbar delivers 11-foot 7-inch cut.
- Wide conditioning rolls for uniform, fast drying.
- Full-width skid shoes protect the cutterbar.
- Simple drive system for more reliability.
- Change from windrow to swath in seconds - without tools.

The New Swing Frame Gehl 2412 Disc Mower is Ready For Delivery

MAKE THE SIMPLE CHOICE

CIH AXIAL-FLOW COMBINES SINCE 1977

Every year it seems as if one company or another comes out with a "new" combine design that will change the way you harvest your grain. But while anyone can talk about combine performance, Case IH Axial-Flow combines outperform the competition where it matters most . . . in the field.
The simple truth is, over the past three decades, Axial-Flow rotary combines have put more quality grain in the tank than any other harvesting system. And, over that same period, no other dealer in the East has sold more Axial-Flow combines to satisfied customers than Hoober, Inc. Bar None.

WHY AXIAL-FLOW ?

WHY HOOBER ?

Experience - Hoober Brought Axial-Flow combines to the East and have been servicing, selling, and providing parts support for Axial-Flow combines from the beginning.

Service - Hoober has service technicians who work solely on combines. Hoober modifications make Axial-Flow combines even more productive in tough eastern field conditions.

Parts Support - Hoober has over $4 million worth of parts inventory available at your fingertips everyday, plus daily trips to the CIH depot. Hoober will get you the parts you need, when you need them, and where you need them - in the field.

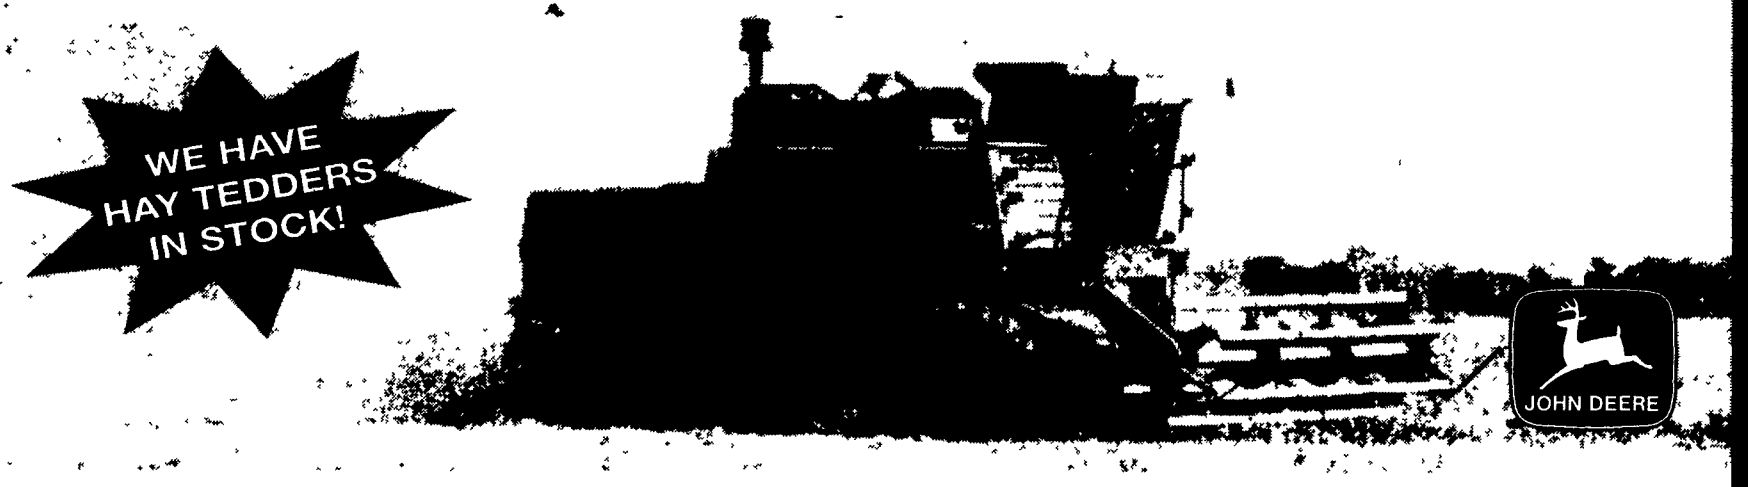
BECAUSE YOUR DAY DOESN'T START AT 9:00 AM...



OURS DOESN'T EITHER

When you work the land, you don't have the luxury of working 9 to 5. You need to be available all day, every day...and if your equipment breaks down, you need it fixed now, not tomorrow at 3:00.

Deer Creek understands the way you work. That's why we're here when you need us with parts and service 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. Where you buy a product is often as important as what you buy!

Put us to the test! Service when you need it.

TAKE IT EASY ON YOUR HAY.

With the new Model 5312 Mower Conditioner from New Idea, haying is easy on you - and on your hay. That's because our new center-pivot design lets you cut from either side, instead of going around in circles. The 5312 also incorporates our proven cutterbar, with reversible knives, fully enclosed disc drive units and segmented hex driveshafts, for reduced maintenance and increased reliability. Plus, Ti-Cor™ conditioning rolls speed dry-down without damaging leaves. We also made it easy to learn more about the 5312. Just visit your AGCO New Idea dealer today.

Mow and condition worry-free

It's easy with the "1411" Discbine® disc mower-conditioner. The "1411" gives you the perfect combination of mowing reliability, conditioning quality and no-hassles servicing.

- Independent modular cutterbar – eight disc modules are sealed in their own oil and connected by independent drive shafts for easy maintenance or repair
- 200 hours between disc gearbox oil changes – twice as long as most other models
- Mows through thick, tangled and wet crops
- Plug-free performance – no stopping or raising the header for slugs

Our Utility Tractors are Powerfully Quiet

It's our customers making all the noise

As Low As 7.49% Finance

At the heart of Kubota's M4700 (42PTOHP) and M5400 (50PTOHP) utility tractors is a low noise, high-powered E-TVCS diesel engine. Designed for optimum efficiency and maneuverability, these tractors are equipped with synchro-shuttle transmission and hydraulic live independent PTO to enhance productivity while cutting hay, landscaping, orchard work and more

With a tight turning radius, 8 F/4 R speeds, semi-flat deck, 3-point hitch and a wide variety of performance-matched implements – plus an attractive price tag – it's no wonder our customers are impressed.

Farmland National Beef Receives License To Develop New Food Safety Technology

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Farmland National Beef Packing Company recently announced it has licensed the commercial development rights for activated lactoferrin, a new food safety technology that protects consumers from harmful bacteria that may be found in meat.

The development rights were licensed from Dr. A.S. "Narian" Naidu, a medical microbiologist who directs the Center for Antimicrobial Research at California State Polytechnic University, Pomona. Naidu's invention involves an activated form of lactoferrin, a natural protein from cow's milk that is applied to meat surfaces during processing and packaging.

Laboratory results indicate the activated form of lactoferrin is effective against more than 30 different kinds of harmful bacteria, including E. coli 0157:H7, Salmonella, and Campylobacter.

"We continue to be impressed with Dr. Naidu's findings, and we intend to fully explore the merits of bringing this technology to the meat industry," said John R. Miller, chief executive officer of Farmland National Beef. "Bringing the safest meat products to market has always been critically important to us, and this technology is the most appealing new development we've uncovered to date."

Miller said Farmland National Beef plans to conduct additional testing, assess how the technology can be used in beef processing plants, and pursue regulatory approval from the U.S. Food and Drug Administration and USDA.

Assuming the continued testing produces positive results and the technology is granted the necessary regulatory approvals, Farmland National Beef plans to use activated lactoferrin in the production of its meat products and make the technology available to the entire meat industry.

Farmland National Beef provided financial support and testing equipment for Dr. Naidu's activated lactoferrin research during the past two years as part of a corporate food safety initiative.

The company also announced that Eric B. Hale will spearhead the lactoferrin commercial development effort for Farmland National Beef. Hale has more than 20 years of experience developing scientific and medical technologies, including serving as chief executive of several early stage public life science companies.

Century Farm Applications Accepted

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Lancaster County Cooperative Extension Director John Schwartz has announced that applications for Lancaster County Century Farm nominations are being accepted by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

"To qualify as a Century Farm, the farm must have been owned by the same family for 100 consecutive years," said Schwartz. "A family member must currently live on the farm, and the farm must consist of at least 10 acres of the original holding, or gross over $1,000 annually from the sale of farm products."

Lancaster County currently has 132 registered Century Farms.

Century Farm information, applications, and assistance in filling out the application may be obtained from the Lancaster County Cooperative Extension, 1383 Arcadia Road, Room 1, Lancaster, PA 17601, or by calling 717-394-6851.

Schwartz said that Century Farm nominees whose applications are processed prior to Oct. 1 will be honored at the Lancaster County Farm-City Ag-Chamber Banquet Nov. 21.

Delmarva Corn, Soybean Conference Takes Hiatus

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — After observing its 20th anniversary in February, the Delmarva Corn and Soybean Technology Conference has been put on hold for 2001.

The conference was sponsored each year by cooperative extension at land-grant universities in Delaware, Maryland, and Virginia and by agribusinesses serving the Delmarva area.

The hiatus decision was made at a special meeting of the planning committee on April 25. Committee members suggested that the conference's agricultural update focus for 2001 be transferred to county and regional extension educational meetings normally conducted each winter in the Delmarva area.

The committee will reconvene next March to determine the direction the conference should take in 2002.

Betsy Gallagher, planning committee chairperson, cited several reasons for the committee's action. Gallagher is a Maryland cooperative extension educator for agriculture and natural resources in Dorchester County.

Steadily declining trends in attendance were a major factor contributing to the cancellation, she noted. Even a shift last February to a three-location conference on successive days gave disappointing results in overall attendance.

One reason, no doubt, is a steady decline in the number of full-time farm operators and an increase in the number of part-time farmers. Part-timers often have off-farm jobs that interfere with attendance at daytime farmer educational meetings.

In addition, buyouts and mergers on the agribusiness scene have greatly reduced the number of agribusiness representatives available to provide financial support and to exhibit at large regional meetings. E-commerce also is a limiting factor.

Overall, Gallagher commented, commercial crop farmers in the Delmarva area are bemoaning what appears to be another year of depressed grain prices and high operating costs — a situation that has prevailed for nearly a decade.

That environment seems to create a negative feeling toward traveling any distance to attend educational meetings. Attendance at local county cooperative extension meetings has not been adversely affected to the same extent.

But, while crop farmers throughout Maryland and Delaware continue to face economic stress, the depressed grain prices have helped Mid-Atlantic area dairy farmers contend with low milk prices.

Thus, planners for the Mid-Atlantic No-Till Conference, which observed its 25th anniversary in February, are going ahead with plans for another conference in 2001. This conference draws much of its attendance from dairy farmers in Maryland and Pennsylvania.

Pasto Museum To Conduct Silent Auction At Ag Progress Days

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Penn State's Pasto Agricultural Museum will conduct a silent auction during Penn State's Ag Progress Days, Aug. 15-17, to help generate funds to preserve the rich heritage of agriculture and rural living.

Proceeds will benefit the Penn State Ag Alumni Endowment for the Pasto Agricultural Museum.

So far, more than 40 items have been donated for this first-time auction, according to Darwin Braund, volunteer curator.

Items include a John Deere lawn tractor, special edition F-20 Farmall toy tractors, a year's supply of Penn State Creamery ice cream, meat from the University Meats Lab, sought-after Penn State College milk bottles, antique tools and signs, a ton of Agway textured calf-starter, dinner at The Tavern restaurant in State College, a pedal tractor and doll bed painted and accented in Penn State Nittany Lion colors, and ten units of Holstein bull semen.

Items for the young and young-at-heart include collector's dolls; T-shirts with butterfly and insect motifs; "Got Milk?" shirts, hats, and glasses; "Bizarre Bugs" books; framed artworks; a framed 1936 "Sheep and Wool Map of the World"; a 100 Mhz Pentium computer with components; and a volleyball signed by the 1999 NCAA National Champion Penn State Women's Volleyball team.

A hand-carved matching pair of draft horses depicts the museum's current theme, "The Role of Animal Power in 19th and 20th Century Agriculture." Carved by Don Ace, professor emeritus of dairy and animal science, the team is complete with leather harness and is hitched to a wood beam walking plow in an active plowing scene.

Donations for the auction catalogue will be accepted through June 30. For information and donor forms, call the museum office at (814) 863-1383. Items from individuals should have a minimum value of $50 and from companies, a $100 value.

Auction items will be on display at Ag Progress Days, Tuesday and Wednesday, Aug. 15-16, in the tent beside the museum. Bidding will close promptly on Wednesday at 6 p.m.

Successful bidders can pick up their items after payment is processed Wednesday evening or make arrangements for shipping.

For more information, contact Darwin Braund, volunteer curator, 236 Ag Administration Building, University Park, PA 16802, (814) 863-1383.

Penn State's Ag Progress Days features more than 500 acres of educational and commercial exhibits, tours, and machinery demonstrations. It is conducted at the Russell E. Larson Agricultural Research Center at Rockspring, nine miles southwest of State College on Rt. 45. Hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday, 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Wednesday, and 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Thursday. Admission and parking are free.

For more information, call (800) PSU-1010 toll-free from July 10 to Aug. 17 or visit the Ag Progress Days site on the World Wide Web at http://apd.cas.psu.edu.

Hernley's Farm Equipment Receives Honor

ATLANTA, Ga. — Agco Corporation (NYSE: AG), a major worldwide manufacturer and distributor of agriculture equipment, recently recognized Duane Hernley of Hernley's Farm Equipment, Elizabethtown, Pa., for outstanding sales in 1999.

Hernley's hard work and dedication was rewarded with a trip to The Phoenician in Scottsdale, Ariz., where he joined Agco senior management and other outstanding dealers for Agco's annual Commitment to Excellence recognition program.

He is shown here with Robert J. Ratliff, chairman, and John Shumejda, CEO and president, of Agco. The Agco Commitment to Excellence trip was March 5-9.

To Avoid Roundup Ready Crop Injury, Choose Herbicides Carefully

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — As growers plan postemergence herbicide applications on Roundup Ready® crops, they should be aware of crop injury potential from some herbicides.

"Roundup Ready crops were designed to be treated with Roundup® brand herbicides because of their superior crop safety and unsurpassed weed control," said Dr. John Goette, Monsanto technical manager.

"We have discovered that Zeneca's sulfosate can cause substantial injury to Roundup Ready crops. Growers prefer to use herbicides that are crop-safe, so we want to be sure they are aware of the injury potential," he said.

Research conducted by Monsanto in 1998 and 1999 showed that Zeneca's sulfosate produced crop injury to Roundup Ready soybeans in 35 percent of locations when applied at the typical use rate. Roundup Ready soybeans in 53 percent of locations were damaged when treated at the high end of the recommended use rate.

Sulfosate is labeled for use on Roundup Ready soybeans. It is not labeled, and therefore is illegal, for use over Roundup Ready corn and Roundup Ready cotton.

"Last year we were aware of uninformed growers who applied sulfosate on Roundup Ready corn and Roundup Ready cotton," said Goette. "They experienced severe crop injury."

Research in 1998 showed that Roundup Ready corn sprayed with Zeneca's sulfosate yielded 42 bushels per acre less than Roundup Ready corn treated with Roundup Ultra®. Roundup Ready cotton treated with sulfosate produced 25 percent less lint than cotton treated with Roundup Ultra.

"It is often misperceived that Zeneca's sulfosate and Roundup Ultra are similar, but these results demonstrate significant differences," said Goette. "We are pointing out the potential for injury because we want to make sure that all Monsanto products, including all Roundup Ready crops, are used with the proper stewardship."

Additionally, growers who use Roundup products on Roundup Ready crops can qualify for a number of benefits under the Roundup TVP™ Rewards program.

Gandy Creates Mounting For Air Drills

OWATONNA, Minn. — Gandy Company has expanded its mounting packages available for Gandy Orbit-Air soybean seeders to Case SDX Air Drills.

Gandy's metering system features speed-compensated rates with hydraulic motor controlled by Raven electronic monitor sensing the ground speed from a wheel sensor or radar. Gandy's design of individual outlet metering from the hopper offers 24, 36, or 54 direct outlets.

Gandy Company has expanded its mounting packages available for Gandy Orbit-Air soybean seeders to Case SDX Air Drills.

Optional tube splitters permit covering up to twice that in number of seed openers. A new fan motor orientation and dependable run-hold features have been added for fall production orders.

Either half of the 64 and 80 bushel models can be shut-off by electric clutch for field finishing. The larger 96 bushel hopper can be shut off by ⅓ or ⅔ for field finishing.

The mounted hoppers provide a shorter coupled air seeder system which requires less field area for turning and cuts planting time. The mounted package features a specially-designed fill platform and railing. The centrally filled hopper also cuts down time for servicing.

Tool Bar Planter Maintains Seed Depth On Uneven Terrain

WAHPETON, N.D. — The new PT-2200 pull-type flex-center tool bar planter from Wil-Rich has three flex points in the center pull bars that let the planter hug field contours in order to maintain desired seed depth on uneven terrain.

The PT-7722 main tool bar is built of massive 7-inch x 7-inch x ½-inch heavy duty steel and has six lift-assist wheels. Wil-Rich equipped the PT-2200 Tool Bar with ½-inch and ⅜-inch tubing, which is also used as the unit's vacuum chamber. Tool Bars are painted either red or green, depending on the buyer's preference.

Agriculture Department Co-Sponsors Crop Insurance, Risk Management Planning Conference

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) - Agriculture Secretary Samuel E. Hayes Jr. recently convened a one-day conference, "Crop Insurance and Risk Management Planning for 2001," for individuals involved in assisting farmers with risk management.

"We are happy to welcome crop-insurance agents, agricultural lenders, farm-management agents, and others who are directly involved in helping farmers make these important decisions," Hayes said.

The Pennsylvania Crop Insurance Assistance Program and the Pennsylvania Crop Insurance Task Force help provide Pennsylvania farmers with improved risk-management tools.

Building on many of the recommendations of the Pennsylvania Task Force, the U.S. Congress recently passed crop insurance reform legislation that will make the crop insurance program more responsive and beneficial to Pennsylvania farmers. Many of the changes that will take effect in crop year 2001 were addressed at the conference.

- Exploring the new crop insurance law for 2001 and the opportunities for Pennsylvania growers.
- Comparing different crop insurance plans available to producers.
- Linking crop insurance with marketing tools to stabilize returns.
- Providing risk-management planning for small and limited resource farmers.
- Expansion of pilot programs, such as the Adjusted Gross Revenue program (AGR), which operated in Pennsylvania this year.

The Crop Insurance and Risk Management Planning For 2001 Conference was a cooperative effort of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, Penn State Cooperative Extension, Pennsylvania Farm Bureau, National Crop Insurance Services, and Pennsylvania Independent Insurance Agents of America.

Massey Ferguson Introduces Articulated Wheel Loader

ATLANTA, Ga. — Massey Ferguson's MF 7500 articulated wheel loader is designed primarily for bulk materials handling and general purpose loading jobs for agricultural and off-farm applications.

This new wheel loader offers several advantages: hydrostatic four-wheel drive, foot pedal for ground speed control, articulated frame for maneuverability and smooth ride, Universal Quick Coupler for MF and other manufacturer's attachments, and auxiliary hydraulics to operate powered attachments.

"This is a highly versatile state-of-the-art machine," said Verlin Tinder, Massey Ferguson general marketing manager. "It offers customers a step up in materials handling, and accommodates a wide range of buckets and other attachments available from Massey Ferguson and other manufacturers."

The MF 7500 articulated wheel loader is ideal for agricultural applications such as bulk chemical, fertilizer and grain handling, cleaning livestock pens and bunkers, and moving silage or stacking bales. Commercial users will find it an all-purpose machine for rental yard operations, landscaping, nursery operations, and general purpose loading jobs.

The MF 7500 is powered by a 4-cylinder direct injection diesel engine delivering 83 horsepower at 2,800 rpm. Hydrostatic four wheel drive provides a smooth, even ride with engine power efficiently transferred to all four wheel motors and planetary gear hubs.

$6 Million Project Will Begin Producing Feeds

SOUTH MONTROSE (Susquehanna Co.) — Pennfield Corporation's new feed mill is almost 90 percent complete, according to Robert Buehler, senior vice president, ag products division.

"Each day brings us a little closer to begin producing feeds for the dairy farmers of New York and northeastern Pennsylvania," Buehler said. "Most of our mechanical systems are up and running."

"Our pellet mill system is up and running, and we are on schedule to begin testing our flaking system," Buehler said. "We've installed our truck receiving scale, and it's being calibrated for accuracy." He said that there were still doors to be installed in the warehouse areas, material handling conveyors to be assembled, and some trim and siding is still needed to finish the overall paint.

Triple Championships For Bethany Moore

WEST CHESTER (Chester Co.) — Bethany Moore of Peachtree Lane, Landenberg, riding Indian Jane, was awarded three championships in the second Triangle Horse Show of the season at Grazing Acres in New London.

Reserve championship of open equitation went to Sarah Shaffer of West Grove riding Low Down Louie.

Reserve champion of the western division was Country Delight, shown by Shirley Craig of Brown Road, Nottingham. Country Delight and Cruising Bay, shown by Jessica Hinderer of Mackey Court, Landenberg, were tied in points and were joint reserve champions of the pleasure horse division.

The division attracting the most entries was the pleasure pony division, with the baby green division (both divisions pay cash prizes) running a close second. (Leanne Buckley of Steelville Mill Road, Atglen, was the top money winner of the day).

Pleasure pony champion at the June 4 show was Extremely Nosey, shown by Jenny Knauss. There was a tie for the reserve championship of this division, with reserve honors awarded to both Dixie, ridden by Leanne Buckley, and One Last Trick, ridden by Taylor Marcus of Street Road, West Grove. Marcus was also the champion of the mini division (for riders 10 and under) and moved up to be the champion of the beginner short stirrup division.

Elliot, also ridden by Leanne Buckley, was the baby green champion, with the reserve championship going to Almosta Toy, ridden by Jessica Knox of Unionville. Knox, this time riding Chester, also won the junior medals class, a pattern class for advanced junior riders.

Leadline champion was Christine Jameson of Chadds Ford, riding One Last Trick. Reserve champion of this division was Anthony DiNenno of London Grove Road, West Grove, riding his sister's new horse, Eagles First Love.

The mini mini division, for riders aged eight and under, had Ciara Danese as the champion. She rides Samira and lives on Thomas Farm Lane, Landenberg. Reserve champion was Becky Mark of Paschall Mill Road, West Grove, riding Sparkles.

Short Stirrup, for riders 12 and under, has both a beginner and advanced division. Advanced division champion was Liz DiSabatino of Flint Hill Road, Landenberg, riding Trouble Sue. Reserve champion of this division was Brooke Holloway of Marlboro Road, Kennett Square, riding Wrinkle In Time. Beginner short stirrup reserve champion was Alexandra Brunovszky of Brinton Run, West Chester, riding Whirlaway Lily.

Beginner rider champion was Kristen Deets of Old Wilmington Road, Coatesville, riding Siri. Reserve champion was Natalie Thompson of Quimby Road, West Grove, riding BV Sacob.

Halter champion was Quarter Moon Princess, shown by Audrey Saunders of Ebenezer Church Road, Rising Sun. Reserve champion in Halter was Lady Genevieve, shown by Melissa Scully of Newark, Del.

Four farms participate in this show series. They are KA Equestrian Center and Blue Goose Stable in Cochranville, Grazing Acres, and Fox Meadow in Unionville. Call any of the participating farms for information and/or to be placed on the mailing list for the year 2000 series: Grazing Acres: 610-255-5009; KA Equestrian: 610-869-0746; Fox Meadow 610-444-8805; Blue Goose: 610-869-2233.

Show Judge was Kathy Awl of Port Deposit, Md., assisted by Ringmaster Loretta Underwood of Cochranville. Show announcer secretary was Hope Woollens of Landenberg, assisted by Jennifer Knox of Unionville. High points were tallied by Jeff Moore of Landenberg.

USDA Names National Ag Library In Honor Of Lincoln

BELTSVILLE, Md. — Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman named the building housing the National Agricultural Library as the Abraham Lincoln Building in honor of the president who established the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

"In 1862, President Abraham Lincoln and Congress established the Department of Agriculture with a mandate to conduct experiments, gather seeds and plants, and collect information pertaining to agriculture," said Glickman. "Today, the National Agriculture Library is the public's direct link to the world's largest collection of agriculture information."

Lincoln proposed and signed into law an act of Congress establishing "at the seat of Government of the United States a Department of Agriculture." Lincoln also signed the Homestead Act, granting Western lands for settlement and agriculture; the Morrill Land Grant College Act, donating public land to the states to establish colleges of agriculture and the mechanical arts; and an act granting Western lands and making payments for construction of railroads, opening up new areas of the West to settlement.

The National Agricultural Library manages one of the largest and most accessible collections of information and databases about agriculture in the world. The library has more than 3.3 million items on 48 miles of shelves. Technology-based services provide immediate digital access to scientific literature, printed text, and images. The's library's collection and its leadership role in information services and technology applications combine to make it the country's primary source for agricultural information.

USDA Proposes Fee Increase For Egg, Poultry, Rabbit Grading

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The USDA is proposing to increase fees for certain grading services for eggs, poultry, and rabbits.

"The increase would affect all processors who request egg, poultry, and rabbit grading services," said Kathleen A. Merrigan, administrator of USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service. "The fee increases are necessary to reduce operating losses and maintain the fiscal stability of this important marketing program."

The proposal would raise the basic hourly rate for resident service, or work of a grader with a regular tour of duty at a plant, from the current $28.80 to $29.96. In addition, the proposal would raise the basic hourly rate for fee service, or work on an intermittent, as-needed basis, from the current $48.40 to $51.32 for regular hours and from $55.76 to $59.12 for weekend and holiday work.

These grading services are made available upon request and paid for by the users. Current fees have been in effect since Oct. 1, 1999.

The proposed grading fee increases were scheduled to be published in the Federal Register on June 14, 2000. Comments must be received in the office of Elizabeth S. Crosby, Acting Chief, Standardization Branch, Poultry Programs, AMS, USDA, STOP 0259, Room 3944-S, 1400 Independence Avenue, SW, Washington, D.C. 20250-0259, on or before July 14, 2000. Comments may also be faxed to (202) 690-0941. The proposal may be viewed electronically at http://www.ams.usda.gov/poultry/regulations.

BEEF TIPS

Rule 1: Do NOT buy a bull without careful research.

Rule 3: DO buy a bull only from a breeder who can give you statistical and historical information on what you can expect from individual bulls. Warning: any one bull does not fit all programs.

New Products Now Available
* Benefits of Fiberglass Wheels *

- Very Low Maintenance Costs
  Under normal use the only maintenance costs will be tightening or replacing the tire or rubber. No expensive parts to replace.
- High Performance Regardless of the Elements
  Wheels stay tight even in hot, dry conditions – No more loose rattling spokes – ever!
- Rugged Heavy Duty Design
  It takes a major accident or impact to break or twist these wheels.
- Hard Durable Surface
  Resists scuffs and scratches, paint job stays shinier.
- Easier Cleaning

* Benefits of Fiberglass Springs *

- Lightweight
  A fiberglass spring weighs 22 lbs. less than a steel spring. 44 lbs. less weight on the carriage.
- Durable One Piece Design
  No bolts to give out or wear.
- Better Performance on Heavy Loads
  The more weight, the better the ride, will not go flat and bottom out.
- Better Paint Adhesion
  Easier cleaning – no rust stains running out between the plys. Paint will not blister or peel off.
- Stabilizer Kits – Now Available

Attention
Dairy, Swine & Poultry Producers!

New Products Now Available...

With the addition of our new soybean processing facility, we now offer these products to meet your nutritional needs Manufacturing these products ourselves allows us to utilize locally grown soybeans and support our local agricultural community!

GOLDEN PRO 46 XP

This natural, mechanically extruded and expelled soybean product is experiencing great acceptance with local dairymen A course golden colored meal with a 6% fat content, Golden Pro 46 XP is extremely palatable Golden Pro 46 XP is a natural way to bring the value of high by-pass protein into diets that require a lower fat level

GOLDEN MEAL 40

An 18 percent fat content along with a 40 percent crude protein makes this mechanically extruded meal product a valuable component in a variety of rations Full fat content gives you a high level of digestible energy, while high temperature extruding ruptures the oil cells for better nutritional absorbtions

CRUDE SOYBEAN OIL

A product of Keystone's expelling process, this oil can be used in a wide variety of on farm applications A natural alternative to animal fats, this oil provides needed energy in various rations

To make these products available, and to help you utilize your home raised soybeans Keystone Mills announces its

Soybean Exchange Program

As manufacturers and distributers of Golden Pro 46 XP and Golden Meal 40, we are anxious for you to try our products We are offering a soybean exchange program featuring these quality nutritional products
